SATURDAY, JUNE 27, 1863.

COL. THOMAS A. SCOTT .- The Harrisburg Telegraph says: "When the war broke out the services of the Pennsylvania Railroad, with her immense resources, were placed under the exclusive control of the Government. Its energetic officer, Thomas A. Scott, Esq., the Vice President of the road, came in person to the State and National capitals to render his aid, and he continued in that service until others were initiated by him to perform the duties .--When our soil was invaded last year and the militia called ost, all the cars and locomotives that could be commanded were furnished without renumeration, and troops poured in for our defence.

"When we see the capital of the State again in danger, who do we meet again at his old post but Thos. A. Scott, the Vice President, giving his sole attention to the preservation of our lives and property.

Joban Woodward .- The Philadelphia Bulletin speaking of the Copperhead candidate for Governor, says: "He is an able lawyer and a gentleman, which cannot always be said of Democratic nominees. He is, however, a beginning of the secession troubles made no concealment of his sympathy with the South. He has recently kept quiet on the subject, whatever his opinion may be. As his term in the Supreme Court will not expire until December, 1867, he would, if elected, have to resign his Judgeship, and appoint his own successor. The people will take good care, however, that this does not happen."

The people of Pittsburg also adopted a resolution, recommending that all able-bodied persons should form themselves into military companies and elect their officers for the defence of their homes.

- General Milroy is severely censured by some of the correspondents for mismanagement at the battle of Winchester. The 87th (York county regiment) fought desperately and was badly cut up, losing heavily. It is said the officers and men are loud in their condemnation of the General and that an rendered himself very obnoxious to the nebels, who had offered $10,000 for his head, and some go so far as to say that the desire to save himself from capture induced him to neglect the precautions necessary to secure the safety of his command.

He had in his trunk $15,000 in South Carolina and Georgia bank bills, and $15,000 in confederate notes. He seems to be a spy this time-not a great change from his last employment as levier of black-mail. All the Copperhead editors of the country will raise a doleful howl over the wrong done to their beloved southern brother.

The friends of Covode are also active. As to the candidate for Judgeship, it is understood that the nomination of Judge Shannon of Pittsburg, and Thomas E. Franklin of Lancaster, will be strongly pressed.
 - A Washington dispatch states that it has been determined that while all persons coming within the provisions of the act of enrollment of calling out the national forces are to be enrolled, nevertheless, under the first enrollment, those who were in the military service at the time the act went into effect, namely, the 3d of March last, are not to be included in that class which is subject to the first draft. PENNSYLVANIA .- The New York Times very truthfully says: "In one sense too the indignity to Pennsylvania is undeserved, for the State has furnished her full share of soldiers who are even now at posts of danger, in every field of operation, wherever rebel armies the rules of the church, and that those are confronted and the gage of battle given. And there is abundant additional reason for deep personal sympathy with Governor Curtin. No Executive in the loyal States has exceeded him in the promptness and cordiality of his co-operation with the National Government during the war. And not one of them has exhibited a more active interest in the welfare of the soldiers .-Few, indeed, have done as much to render the well soldiers happy, by making them realize the interest felt in them at home, and the sick and wounded soldiers resigned, by frequent visits to them in hospitals, and most careful attention to all their wants. Such is Governor Curtin's record, and who can refuse him sympathy now, or withhold the prayer that Pennsylvania's capital may be saved from the humiliation that seems impending over it.

> FIRE AMONG THE ANIMALS .-- A letter from Stuttgardt, Germany, says: "A destructive fire recently broke out in a house adjoining our Zoological Garden. It was a horrible spectacle to see the of the fire and of the extreme heat .-Nothing could exceed the rage of the ferocious inmates of the garden, particularly of the lions and bears, and, in order to calm them, the keepers were obliged to be constantly deluging them with cold water. The military authorities sent a detachment of riflemen to fire on the animals in case it should be impossible to saye them. Fortunately that extremity was not found necessary.

A SAD INCIDENT .- A lad not quite sixteen, in the army of the Potomac, was asked whether he had any brothers in the army, and answered - "I had one, but he was killed at Williamsburg; he fell at my side. I found him after the battle dying. All he could say was. 'Try and get a box to bury me in.' I could not find one, but got three cracker boxes, took the ends out, placed them end to end, and put his body into them; then, with my bayonet and my hands, I hollowed out a place, not very deep, though I worked hours at it, and there I laid him with no one to help me, and there his body is now."
