

The Local Mariettian.

MARIETTA CAR HOURS. The several passenger trains will leave the "Upper-station Depot" as follows: Morning train, East, at ten minutes before 8; Main train West, 11:35; Harrisburg Accommodation train, East, at 9 minutes after 5; the same train West, at five minutes before 7 in the evening.

MARIETTA: SATURDAY, AUGUST 29, 1863.

The delegate meeting for the election of five delegates to represent this borough in the County Convention which will meet in Fulton Hall, Lancaster, on Wednesday next, will unquestionably take place this evening, at the Town Hall school room, between the hours of 6 and 8 o'clock.

We commenced our outside this week an interesting article from the pen of a former Mariettian. It cannot fail to find eager readers at every fire-side.

Diffenbach has just received a fresh lot of fall goods—the first of the season—which he is determined to sell at low figures to start the season with.

Albert Spangler, who was convicted of passing counterfeit money, was sentenced to a fine of $50, and undergo an imprisonment of three years.

The grand jury found a bill against James Foxy, alias "Foxy Miller," for the murder of Charles A. Brady. The case will come up at the November sessions.

We committed a most bungling blunder in our last issue, calling the delegate meeting for last Saturday evening instead of this evening.

The Columbia Spy—one of the oldest papers in the State—has changed hands, Mr. Wright, who has a position in the army, withdrawing, and Mr. A. M. Rambo, of Columbia, assuming editorial control.

The Masonic fraternity of York is erecting a handsome hall in that borough. The corner stone was laid on the 13th instant.

Great complaint is made of boys going in swimming in the canal, near Beatty's boat yard, at the lower end of town, during day time. This is certainly a nuisance and constable Emswiler should attend to it.

The ore farm of Andrew Hershey in West Hempfield township, near the Chestnut Hill Ore Mine, sold recently at private sale for $40,000. The farm contained 114 acres.

Hon. John A. Bingham, ex-M. C. from Ohio, spent a few days last week with Thaddeus Stevens, at Lancaster. They both visited Ephrata Springs together.

We received a basket of very fine peaches, a few days since, of Mrs. John Coyle. They were some of the finest we have seen this season.

Henry Meebach, of Columbia, was killed near the old depot in that place, on Thursday last week. The Spy says he had just returned from Lancaster, whither he had gone to get money to pay for his exemption, and not having enough, he was on his way to Marietta to procure the balance, some $27. He was killed almost in sight of his own residence. He leaves a wife and three small children in rather destitute circumstances.

Mrs. Mary Sonder, a young lady employed in Shober's Eden paper mill, near Lancaster, was instantly killed on Wednesday afternoon last. She was passing along the outer part of the mill, when her dress came in contact with an iron shaft running nearly horizontal from the water wheel to the mill gearing, and about twelve inches from the outer edge of the building. In an instant she was wrapped around this shaft, and whirled around at the rate of fifty revolutions a minute, her body at every revolution striking the building. The body was horribly bruised and mutilated, and presented a sickening sight.

Mr. Frederick Maulick, lager beer brewer, is erecting a very handsome two-story brick dwelling on Front street, two doors below the lower station hotel. Several new frame dwellings on the pike, at the lower end, are going up, and from the "looks of things, generally," down there, one would suppose the war, with all its devastations, was at an end.

Provost Marshal Holenius, on Wednesday last, sent another squad of colored soldiers to Philadelphia, who had either been drafted in this county or accepted as substitutes. It is said they looked fine and felt quite proud of their "suits of blue."

Hon. A. R. McIlvaine, a former member of Congress from Chester county, died on Saturday last.

Charleston is, no doubt, by this time in our possession. On Friday last Gen. Gillmore gave the women and children four hours notice to leave the city. At twelve o'clock that night he fired fifteen inch shells, charged with Greek fire, into the city. Forts Sumter and Wagner are complete wrecks. "Thus has this hot-bed of treason been made to bite the dust."

Death of Brigadier-General Welsh.

General Thomas Welsh, Commanding 1st Division, 9th Army Corps, died at Cincinnati, Ohio, on the evening of the 14th instant, of congestion of the lungs. He was taken sick only a few days before with chills and fever, at Young's Point, on the Yazoo river, Miss.

General Welsh was born in Columbia, on the 5th day of May, 1824. He served with distinction in the Mexican war.—Enlisting as a private in the 2d Regiment Kentucky Volunteers, he fought with this distinguished regiment up to the battle of Buena Vista, where he fell wounded and was placed in the hospital. Shortly after which time he returned home, where he remained till his wound healed up. Returning again to his regiment, he was, for gallant conduct and bravery on the battle-field, commissioned a Lieutenant, in which capacity he served until the war was over.

When the first news was received here of the firing on our flag at Fort Sumter, our gallant then Lieut. Welsh was amongst the first to leave his large and prosperous business, his confiding wife and dear little children, to buckle on the armor, and, in a few hours, march forth the first company from this county to Harrisburg, to meet the invading foe, which seemed about to overpower us.—Shortly after they had reported themselves at headquarters, Capt. Welsh's company with others was sent off towards Baltimore, arriving at Cockeysville just in time to save the bridges from being burned by the ruthless hands of traitors. Here he gained the first glory for himself and company. Having driven away the rebels, he was ordered to return to York, Pa., where his company was put in the 2d Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers, three months' men, of which Capt. Welsh was unanimously elected Lieutenant Colonel. Serving with great credit through the campaign under Major General Patterson, at the close of which service, he was commissioned by Governor Curtin as Colonel. He then set about raising a regiment for the war, which he soon accomplished. He was then placed in charge of Camp Curtin, and was for a long time its commandant. Here, I may say, his real worth developed itself, and he was often complimented by the Governor and other high officials. Seeing the importance of such a commander in the field, his regiment was named the 45th and sent off to that hot bed of treason and disunion—South Carolina. His regiment fought valiantly at the battle of James Island, Col. Welsh acting as Brigadier General. Shortly after which time he was ordered to report to Gen. Burnside, and was sent to Newport News, and from thence to Aquia Creek, at which place he was for some time commandant of the port. He was afterwards ordered to vacate this place and ship his troops with their effects to Alexandria. Here he joined the balance of Burnside's Corps, and with it marched into Maryland and was engaged in the bloody battles of South Mountain and Antietam, where he won for himself and the brave men under his command an imperishable name. From Antietam he went to Palmyra, Va.; here he took part in the first Fredericksburg battle, on the 13th of December, 1862, his regiment being one of the first to cross the river into the town.—His bravery and good conduct in these battles commended him to the attention of General Burnside and others, and at their earnest solicitations, he was commissioned by the President a Brigadier General, about the close of the last Congress. This last act was received by him with surprise and astonishment, as he said he did not think he had done enough to merit this high compliment. Soon afterwards General Burnside was ordered to take command of the department of the West, and Gen. Welsh accompanied him, taking command of a brigade in the 1st Division, 9th Army Corps. With this splendid division he made long and rapid marches through Kentucky and Tennessee, driving the guerrillas before them. At length he was ordered to join Gen. Grant at Vicksburg, where he remained until its surrender. He afterwards took part in the battles against Johnson at, and near Jackson, Miss., at which time he was acting Major General, Commanding 1st Division, 9th Army Corps.

We are pleased to learn that all the attention that could be freely bestowed upon him. He had the best medical attendance that could be procured. Greater care could not have been taken of him had he died in the bosom of his own family. Col. Curtin, Maj. E. A. Kelsey, Capt. Sam'l Wright, Lieut. J. Gelbaugh, George Derrick and others, surrounded his dying couch, administering to his wants and softening the asperities of his pathway to another and better world. True, the death-dealing bullet or the merciless shell did not cause his death, nevertheless, he died a martyr to his country's cause.—His brigade and his regiment to which he was formerly attached has not only lost their best friend, but our country has sustained a loss which cannot easily be replaced. After arriving at Cincinnati he was taken to the house of Chas. O. Lockard, brother of William Lockard of this place, where he died about seven hours afterward. The remains were immediately placed in charge of Lieut. John Gelbaugh, (one of the General's Aids), and George Derrick, for transportation east, who, as soon as the necessary arrangements were made, started homeward with the body; they arrived at Columbia on Sunday morning about 8 o'clock. A meeting of Council was immediately held and an effort was made to have him buried with the honors of war. Truly, if ever a soldier deserved to be buried by war honors it was our brave countryman, General Welsh. Not having any military of our own, application was made to Harrisburg and Lancaster, but without success. When the corpse arrived universal grief was everywhere manifest.—Reference was made to the unfortunate circumstance, in all the churches, and flags were displayed at half mast.

The above we clip from the last Columbia Spy, which we find to be the most full memoir of Gen. Welsh, and hence willingly transfer it to our own columns.

Orange Judd, of the American Agriculturist, says of

The Universal Clothes Wringer: "A child can readily wring out a tubful of clothes in a few minutes, and a single dollar's worth of A Time Saver! The saving of garments will alone pay a large per centage on its cost. We think the machine more than pays for itself every year in the saving of garments. There are several models nearly alike in general construction, but we consider it important that the Wringer be fitted with Cogs, otherwise a mass of garments may clog the rollers, and the rollers upon the crank shaft and the belt, or the rubber break loose from the shaft. Our own is one of the first make, and it is as good as new after nearly four years constant use."

Every Wringer with Cog Wheels is warranted in every particular.

No Wringer can be durable without Cog-wheels. A good Canvasser wanted in every town. On receipt of the price from places where no one is selling, we will send the Wringer free of expense. For particulars and circulars, address H. C. BROWNING, 347 Broadway, New-York. August 15, 1863.—6m.]
