It contains one steel engraving, a double fashion-plate engraved on steel and colored, 100 pages of reading matter, 89 engravings, 16 full page engravings, 14 fancy dresses, any quantity of patterns for full dresses for women and children, and lots of articles upon which the ladies can exercise their ingenuity in manufacturing. Godoy has returned to his old club rates. Now is the time to make up clubs.

"Little Drytown" district in Rapbo township gave 95 votes for Governor Curtis; the unanimous vote of the district. This act on the part of the Union men in that vicinity is most praiseworthy and deserving of a banner from the county. This is the first time in the history of the county that a unanimous ballot has been cast for an entire ticket, and the Union men should show the Drytowners that their zeal, patriotism and loyalty is duly appreciated.

We neglected to mention the fact that Rev. John Walker Jackson, delivered his celebrated lecture on the "Union—Constitution—Peace," in the M. E. Church, in this place. Mr. J. is regarded as one of the ablest and most patriotic divines attached to this conference, and this lecture, if nothing else, would endorse such an opinion.

The Columbia Spy comes to us in a new dress. It has improved very much typographically and otherwise under its new management.

Several very fine parlor engravings for sale cheap, at this office.

OUR ARMY CORRESPONDENCE.

HEAD QUARTERS 45th Penn. Vols., Knoxville, Tenn., Oct. 1, 1863. Dear Col.:—Our last was from the Old Mississippi State, after chasing Johnston and his cohorts to Jackson, where, had it not been for some mismanagement of those high in authority, we would have never left him pite as the slip, but whipped him; after he got away, the 9th corps turned contractors, and went into destroying railroads, which was done effectually, after which we returned to Snyder's Bluff, where we awaited transportation for Cincinnati, Ohio, where we arrived in due time but in bad condition; for at least one third of our forces were sick, and where we lost the lanceated Welsh; we feel his loss, but trust that our loss is his gain. From this point we went to Nicholasville, Ky., by rail, and a few miles beyond went into camp, where we remained a short time; from thence we marched to Crab Orchard, where we again pitched our moving tents, and on the 9th of September packed up bag and baggage and struck a line for Knoxville, where we arrived on the 26th of September; our march was not an easy one, and the best we did in one day was twenty-three miles, fording two rivers and crossing one mountain; nothing of note occurred during our march.

The Judge Grosh residence and business place, one of the finest in this borough, will be sold at public outcry on Thursday the 5th of November.

was never noted for cheering, but on this occasion gave him three hearty ones, but our neighbors, the New York Highlanders, beat us, for they roared like lions.

We are now encamped on the banks of the Holstein, with some three hundred, leaving behind us over one hundred sick, and having some two hundred on detached duty, so that if we had our men all with us we would number some six hundred. The boys are all expressing an anxious wish to be home at the election; many of them would poll their first vote, and it would be unanimous for Andy G., somehow or other, they don't like Woodward or the party; many, or all indeed, think there is "episs letz," and feel that A. G. Curtin is too good a man to be beaten by a party that is continually howling about the President and his Cabinet; we don't hear them say anything, or very little, about the rebels; or if they make mention of them it is in a pitiful, milk-and-water way; but they are endeavoring to gather the widows' tears and force you to look upon the orphans, and are gathering, if possible, in drains the blood, and charging this all to those men who have done and are still doing all in their power to crush this rebellion.— Had the Old Public Functionary at Washington not trembled and feared when he saw the coming storm, but done as the hero Jackson, who now lies mouldering in "peace and honor," sent a force into Charleston Harbor, and fired on the miscreants and sent them to where they belonged; this, we are bold to say, and our country will say so too, would have saved tears, orphans and blood; but no, he faltered and now we charge upon him, more than upon any other man in the land, Jeff. Davis not excepted, the fruits of this war; and now the party that is endeavoring to elect Woodward are those very men who elected Buchanan and were his bosom companions; they are crying for peace; what kind of peace, Col. do you think Vallandigham, Woodward and Buchanan will accept? Just the kind the soldier would spit upon. We will hear nothing short of a conquered peace, and were the soldiers from the Old Keystone permitted to come home and vote, they would show to the world that after two years' hard fighting they were not willing to chuckle to anything save an honorable peace. Col. I know you have in Marietta some whom I esteem, in the ranks battling against the Government; but to such I extend an invitation to come to Tennessee and hear the argument of those Southern-right men, and they would return with the blush of shame upon their cheeks; why, sir, their hope is strong in the party which is opposing the war and is crying peace; but I will close by urging the good people of Marietta to sustain those who are sustaining the country. One grand rally in the Old Keystone. Elect Andy and we will give them another rally of powder and ball; and if that don't bring the answer,—why another rally—still—and still another—until we will have a lasting peace. Peace unalloyed—peace with freedom—and no mudsills. J. McC.
