

The Local Mariettian.

MARIETTA CAR HOUS. The several passenger trains will leave the "Upper Station Depot" as follows: Morning train, East, at 10 minutes before 8; Mail train West, 12:11; Harrisburg Accommodation train, East, at 6:39 and the evening train West, at 7:02.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1864.

We have been requested to state that there will be a general town meeting this (Saturday) evening at 7 o'clock, in the Town Hall, for the purpose of completing the arrangements for fixing, definitely, the amount of bounty to be paid by this Borough for volunteers. Four committees have canvassed the town and report over two thousand dollars subscribed, and that in many instances subscribers agreed to double their subscriptions if necessary.

"The Lady's Friend" for February is out. The February number leads off with a beautiful steel plate, engraved in the highest style of art, called "The Sylvan Retreat." Then follows a splendid double richly colored Fashion Plate. Then a new and popular piece of music, "Kind friends are near be," being an answer to "Who will care for Mother now." This piece of music, of itself, is worth the price of the number.

The following persons were installed into the respective offices in Susquehanna Lodge, No. 6, I. O. O. Templars, on Wednesday evening last: Eliza B. Emswiler, W. C. T. Wm. McMichael, W. V. T. C. P. Grosch, W. S. Sarah Brooks, W. A. S. John P. Eck, W. T. Mary Lawrence, W. J. G. Wm. Beatty, W. O. G. Amelia Ramler, W. R. H. S. Amanda Roilin, W. L. H. S. Milton Moore, W. F. S. Elizabeth H. Taylor, W. O. Almeta Lemmon, W. M. Theo. Girard, W. P. D. T. Barr Spangler, W. C. M.

The American Exchange and Review for January is on our table. It is an excellent periodical and is edited by J. A. Fowler with marked ability. It will favorably compare with the best American or English magazines. "The Field of Gettysburg after the Battle" is alone worth the price of subscription. Whiting & Co., publishers, 521 Chestnut-st., Philadelphia; terms $3 a year.

A bank is about being put in operation at Wrightsville, York county. The following officers have been elected: William McCunkey, President; William F. Lloyd, long a clerk in the Columbia Bank, Cashier. Directors, Henry Kaufelt, Jacob Goba, George D. Ebert, Jacob Strickler, James Cook, C. S. Stoner, George Kanflit. We are sorry to learn that Capt. E. D. Routh, of the 107th Pennsylvania Volunteers, is at home well. The Captain has seen some hard service, and until now, has stood the fatigue well. He is not, however, dangerously ill and expects soon to rejoin his regiment.

George Sanderson was re-elected Mayor of Lancaster, on Tuesday last, by a majority of 124; his majority one year ago was 224. In the select council there will be a Union majority of one; in the common council the Cops have a majority of two.

Dr. A. V. B. Orr will deliver a lecture on Temperance, in Temperance Hall, on Thursday evening next, 11th instant. Admission free; the public are respectfully invited to attend.

There is now above Cyger's Banking House, Lancaster, one of the much talked of "Chicken Incubators." It belongs to Mr. Newcomer, of the Ephrata Mountain Springs.

As Mr. Christian Stibgen's residence nears completion it begins to show fine points of architecture and will be one of the handsomest in and about our borough.

Our Bank has received a part of its circulation—the fives. They are beautiful and will almost defy counterfeiting.

"The Trumpet" is the title of a neat little weekly just started at Elizabethtown in this county, by H. H. Lehman.

Several very fine steel plate engravings, for seal ornaments—for sale at this office. Call and see them.

Don't forget the Bounty meeting at the Town Hall, this evening. Let there be a grand turn out.

The Susquehanna in front of this borough is entirely clear of ice.

OUR NEW BANK NOTES.—Mr. Bowman, Cashier of the First National Bank of Marietta, returned from Washington a few days since, bringing with him the $5 bills of our Bank. We copy the following description of the "Fives" from an exchange:

As the introduction of these new bills may be said to open a new era in the history of our national currency, a short description of the national bank note will not be inappropriate in this connection. It may be stated at the start, by the way, that the plates, designs and appearance of all these notes will be the same for all the States, with the single and necessary exception of the local names and numbers.

The face of the notes may be briefly described as follows:— At the left hand corner of the face is a vignette representing Columbus sighting land. He is standing on shipboard, and in the act of pointing out the shore of Guana Hani, while a figure kneeling, is seen pointing in the same direction, and looking into the face of the great discoverer.

In the immediate foreground is another figure with a cross in clasped hands, and the face turned heavenwards, in thanksgiving to the Almighty. The background is occupied by a priest and other figures, while on the sail above the word "Five" is engraved in highly ornamental letters.—This design, it will be noticed, is historical, and this is in compliance with the wish of President Lincoln, who binted his desire on the subject in his letter inviting proposals.

The vignette on the left hand side of the face contains an allegorical representation, which is also another idea of Mr. Lincoln's. It consists of a picture of Columbus presenting America, in the form of an Indian maiden, to the Old World, personified by three figures, representing Europe, Asia and Africa.—In the foliage overhead is the figure five, handsomely ornamented.

The border of the face is composed of the word five, scroll work consisting of grape leaves, and the figure 5, alternating in panels. The novel peculiarity of the border is that no two words, figures or scrolls are exactly alike, having been varied purposely, so that the counterfeit may not be able to imitate the note by repeating small portions, as is frequently noticed in spurious money. In order to imitate these notes the counterfeit will find it necessary to engrave the whole with the minutest nicety.

The legend of the face, or that portion which is to be read, contains the following inscriptions:— NATIONAL CURRENCY. This note is secured by bonds of THE UNITED STATES, with the U. S. Treasurer at Washington. L. E. CHITRETTEN, Register of the Treasury. The First National Bank of Marietta will pay the bearer, on demand, Five Dollars.

The former inscription will be common to the national bank notes in all the States, while the latter gives an illustration of the necessary deviation required by local names and number.

In the lower margin of the face are found the words, "Act approved Feb. 25, 1863." The spaces beneath each vignette are left vacant for the signatures of the president and cashier of the bank.

The back of the note displays another beautiful exhibition of ingenuity and taste. The principal vignette is a large oval, extending over the greater part of the back, representing Vanderlyn's famous picture in the rotunda of the Capitol at Washington, representing the landing of Columbus. The picture is printed in black, as are also the legends which surround it. The upper legend is as follows:—

This note is receivable at par in all parts of the United States in payment of all taxes and excises and all other dues to the United States except duties on imports; and also for all salaries and all other debts and demands owing by the United States to individuals, corporations and associations within the United States, except interest on public debt.

The lower legend is as follows:— Every person making an engraving, or aiding to make or engrave, or passing or attempting to pass, any imitation or alteration of this note, and every person having in possession a plate or impression made in imitation of it, or any paper made in imitation of that on which this note is printed, by act of Congress, approved 25th of February, 1863, guilty of felony, and subject to a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or imprisonment not exceeding fifteen years, or both.

The border and pieces are printed in green. The border is made up of the figure 5 on a shield repeated. In the top border occur the words "National currency."

The end piece to the left contains an oval with the coat of arms of Pennsylvania, exquisitely engraved, the name of the State being engraved in the cloud work. The oval at the right end contains the eagle on the national shield, with the cypher "U. S." in the sky.—The two upper corners have each the word "Five" engraved on the face of the scroll work, while the two lower corners have the figure 5, engraved on lath work.

On the 31st ultimo, by Rev. G. M. Clawges, LEONARD WALLER to MARY J. PEARSON, all of Marietta.
