A FIENDISH PROPOSITION.—The Richmond Whig proposes to hire incendiaries to set fire to New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Chicago, Pittsburg, Washington, and other principal cities of the North. It assumes that this piece of vandalism could be accomplished for a cash outlay of a million of dollars, without risk or hazard—as men to do the work could be picked up in the cities to be destroyed.

It is related of the late Hon. Owen Lovejoy that he kept the fleetest horses in the country, and that these were used in carrying fugitive slaves to Canada. Once he was accused of being President of the Underground Railroad.

Hill, late a conductor of the New York night express train on the Lebanon Valley Railroad, who was tried and convicted in the Criminal Court of Dauphin county, a few weeks ago, of embezzling money received by him in payment of fares, and sentenced to a fine of $100 and one year's imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary, was pardoned by Governor Curtin on Thursday last.

Ex-Governor Marmaduke, of Missouri, died in Saline county on the 25th ult. He was loyal to the last, although his example was not followed by his three sons, one of whom, John S., is the rebel general; Henry is in the southern navy, and the third, Vincent, is exiled for disloyalty.

There is an old man at North Adams, named Burdick, who was drafted at Berlin, N. Y., and served in Vermont in the war of 1812, was never discharged from service, and is now entitled to fifty years' pay, which, including rations, amounts to $5,000.

Two American Dictionaries, Webster's and Worcester's are considered more valuable than any others in the language; the English critics calling the author of the first the Johnson, and the other the Walker of America.

George W. Pierce, editor of the West Chester Republican, died in Washington city on Thursday morning last. He was a clerk in the service of the Secretary of the U. S. Senate at the time of his death.

Five recruits dug out of the army at Poughkeepsie, or Thursday night. They were soon missed, and Deputy Marshal Floyd pursued and caught them at Hyde Park, where the Express train was stopped on purpose to give them an opportunity to get on board, if they were there. They bit at the bait, jumped on to the train and found themselves prisoners as soon as they took their seats.

REBEL PRISONERS IN OUR HANDS.—The Commissary General of Prisoners has just published his report. It is an interesting document, and makes known the following statistics in relation to the number of rebel prisoners who have been in our possession:—We have captured since the beginning of the war one Lieutenant General, five Major Generals, twenty-five Brigadier Generals, one hundred and forty-four Majors, two thousand four hundred and ninety-seven Captains, five thousand eight hundred and eleven Lieutenants, sixteen thousand five hundred and sixty-three non-commissioned officers, one hundred and twenty-one thousand, one hundred fifty-six privates, and five thousand eight hundred citizens. At the date of the report we had on hand twenty-nine thousand two hundred and twenty-nine officers and men, among whom were one Major General and seven Brigadiers.—There have been one hundred and twenty-seven rebels exchanged, against one hundred and ten thousand eight hundred and sixty-six Union men returned. Since the report of the Commissioner was published there have been but few captures or exchanges on either side, so that the above figures may be considered reliable.

General Butler is said to have written a brisk letter to a prominent administrative officer, which he concludes as follows: "If the arrangement proposed be carried out, it would have the effect of making me a mere recording secretary for the will of Major General W. F. Smith, who would be the real commander. To this I cannot submit. The office of civil mayor of Old Point Comfort is not the sort of service for which I was mustered in. I, therefore, most respectfully demand either to be relieved altogether from my present position or to have, under the General-in-chief, supreme control and direction of any military movements having their base within the limits of my department."

Money is being raised for two ladies who aided and concealed Col. Streight during his escape from Richmond, and who, having become suspected by the Rebels, were by them robbed of all they possessed, and turned out of that city. One of them is in Washington, and has received $200 from Col. S.; the President gave her two $200 more, and other sums make up $625. The other lady is in Baltimore, where $150 have been subscribed for her. The Washington Republican offers to receive subscriptions for these noble women.

The will of Archbishop Hughes, dated November 12, 1850, was admitted to probate in New York on Wednesday. A lot of ground in Orleans, Jefferson county, N. Y., is bequeathed to Michael Hughes, of Chambersburg, Pa., and Patrick Hughes, of Lafarville, N. Y., brothers of the deceased, and the residue of the estate to the Right Rev. John McCloskey, Bishop of Albany, the Right Rev. Francis Patrick Kenrick, Bishop of Philadelphia, and the Right Rev. John Fitzpatrick, Bishop of Boston.

A foolish young woman in Palmyra, N. Y., last week married a young military officer, whose acquaintance she made by correspondence with him while he was in the army. A day or two after the wedding he decamped with a carriage and a pair of horses, but the officers of the law seized him at Canandaigua, ironed him, took him to prison, and left the imprudent bride in tears and lamentation.

The new two-cent piece which has been recommended for the sanction of Congress resembles, as much as anything can, a gold coin. On one side is a wreath of wheat, in the centre of which is stamped "2 cents," and around which are the words "United States of America." On the other side there is the shield of liberty, bearing the words "God our trust."

In New Jersey the Copperheads have control of both branches of the Legislature, and they have decided that a man who leaves his home, his wife and children, and all the comforts of civilized life, to defend his country assailed by traitors, has no right to vote. This proves beyond the shadow of a doubt, where the Copperhead Democracy stands on this question.

The paper having the largest circulation in the world, is now said to be that issued by Secretary Chase. It is an extremely loyal publication, too. It supports both the Administration and the Union.

Mr. Hackett, Mr. William Wheatley, and Mr. Edwin Booth have, as we are informed, resolved themselves into a committee, and are to be assisted by Judge Daly as its chairman, for the purpose of erecting a statue of Shakespeare in our Park, the spot for which, we understand, has been selected and appropriated by the commissioners. A deep, strong, capacious, and elaborate foundation is already in preparation, and the corner-stone was laid at noon on Saturday last, the 23d inst., that being the tercentenary anniversary of the poet. In order to aid a fund for defraying the expenses of such a statue or memento as would be creditable to our metropolis, and also an ornament to the Park, Niblo's Theatre will give a benefit on Saturday evening next, when King Henry IV will be acted, Mr. Hackett performing Falstaff and Mr. Wheatley the Prince of Wales; and the Winter Garden will perform Romeo and Juliet, Mr. Edwin Booth acting Romeo and Miss Avonia Jones, Juliet. Mr. Maretzek has liberally offered to contribute to this object by giving a matinee, on Saturday afternoon, mainly composed of selections from operas founded upon Shakespeare's plays, in honor of the occasion, and by donating also the entire profits to such fund.—New York Herald.

Major General Dix, in his speech at the opening of the New York Fair, alluded to the deep-seated earnestness of the people of the North, who abroad, are accused of lukewarmness and indifference, while the people of the South are praised for their unity and zeal. "This is indeed," said General Dix, "one of the distinguishing characteristics of the struggle on our side, and it shows with what intensity the public feeling is enlisted in it. It is a peculiarity which has marked no former contest. And while states, counties and towns, with us, are imposing upon themselves taxes enormous in amount, to raise troops, the rebel government in Richmond is supporting its armies through forced contributions from the southern people, under a system of tyranny which has already become odious, and is every moment in danger of defeating itself by provoking armed resistance."

Every one will remember the celebrated case of Sir John Dean Paul, the fraudulent London banker. A recent copy of the Madras Times gives some curious information concerning him. Immediately after he was sentenced to penal servitude, Lady Paul realized all the property settled upon her, and proceeded without delay to Sydney, where she purchased a beautiful seat in the suburbs. Her husband having arrived at a penal settlement in another part of Australia, as one of a gang of the convicts, the wife of the convict baronet applied to the Government for his services, and was permitted to employ him as her "assigned servant." We need scarcely add that, having thus released him from unpleasant restraint, she placed all the newly-purchased property in his hands, and has since led a very quiet life in his company.

Mrs. Douglas has felt called upon to again contradict the statement which for a second time went the rounds of the papers, that she was employed as a clerk in the Treasury Department at Washington. The newspaper correspondent who reported the story was probably not so familiar with her personal appearance as he thought himself to be.
