THE GRAND MOVEMENT .- The strategy of General Grant is altogether different from that of the other Union generals who have commanded in Virginia. Not until he assumed the direction of the war did the Army of the Potomac penetrate beyond the line of the Rapidan; he, in these weeks, turned every rebel position, and, victorious in almost every battle, compelled the enemy to retreat, and placed his army in front of Richmond. Those who have argued that these brilliant movements resulted merely in the attainment of the position which McClellan reached by the Peninsular route, have conveniently forgotten that Grant did not wish simply to reach Richmond, but to fight the rebel army; and have altogether overlooked the important fact that an advance by the Peninsula, was a part of the grand plan .-The fact remains that General Grant successfully and rapidly marched his army through Central Virginia, fighting | wards night he was looking over the war great battles and inflicting heavy loss upon the enemy; and, taking fen Richmonds in a moral effect. He proved the power of his army, the soundness of his | President. Mr. Lincoln asked, "Is it strategy, by doing what the rebels, from the beginning of the war, declared could not be done.

- The campaign now is altogether unthe war Richmond is to be attacked from the south. The James river has been crossed without opposition by the tion at that time. Army of the Potomac, and the militatary situation is literally revolutionized. The movement is bold, but it is by a prudent daring that Grant has won all his victories. 'If Richmond is impregnably fortified on the east and north. Grant has certainly wasted no time nor men in assaulting it. He has tested the defences before which General McClellan rested quietly for so many weeks, and has refused to hurl his army upon the front of a colossal fort, while he may with more hope of success attack it from the rear. Again, the reduction of Richmond by a siege in front is impossible. Vicksburg was besieged in the rear, and if the present campaign is not to be ended by an open battle, it is imperative that Grant should hold the Richmond and Danville Railroad.

When the Army of the Potomac crossed the James river at City Point, the campaign of General Butler ended. and the boldest, most brilliant, most were of no avail. vigorous experiment of the war is begun. -The Press.

THE PENNSYLVANIA RESERVES:-- Carleton, the able war correspondent of the Boston Journal, in relating the battle of Bathesda Church thus alludes to the gallant Pennsylvania Reserves :-

Great credit is due to the Pennsylva. nis Reserves for their conduct in this affair. Their term of service expired te day, but they have closed it gloriously. About fifty were taken prisoners while at work on the rifle pits near the church. They leave the army to-dayfifteen thousand in number three years ago-a handful to-day.

GUERILLAS BLOCKADED IN A CAVE .-We learn from Rolla a report that a company of Federal troops, while scouting in Maries county, about fifteen miles north of Rolls, came across fourteen horses hitched near the mouth of one of the unexplored caves which abound in that region. Presuming from the appearance and caparison of the horses that they belonged to guerillas, and that their owners were concealed near by, they commenced a search for them .--Having incautiously approached the entrance of the cavern, they were fired on by the ambuscaded enemy within, and six of their number killed. The Federal troops fired into the cave in return, with what result is not known, and then stationing themselves around the entrance, instituted a blockade. Several hours afterward the rebels sent out one of their number with a flag of truce, proposing to surrender on condition of being treated as prisoners of war. This proposition was refused, and the flagbearer sent back with the assurance that the death of every rebel in the cave had been determined on. Thus the affair stood at latest accounts. The Federal soldiers still rigidly maintained the blockade, and the besieged foe had made no effort to run it .- St. Louis Union, 3d.

U.S. 10-40 BONDS

These Bonds are issued under the Act of Congress of March 8th, 1864, which provides that all Bonds issued under this Act shall be EX-EMPT FROM TAXATION by or under any state or municipal authority. Subscriptions to these Bonds are received in United States notes or notes of National Banks. They are TO BE REDEEMED IN COIN, at the pleasure of the Government, at any period not less than ten months nor more than forty years from their date, and until their redemption FIVE PER CENT. INTEREST WILL BE PAID IN COIN, on Bonds of not over one hundred dollars annually and on all other Bonds semi-annually. The interest is payable on the first days of March and September in each year.

Subscribers will receive either Registered or Coupon Bonds, as they may prefer. Registered Bonds are recorded on the books of the U. S. Treasurer, and can be transferred only on the owner's order. Coupon Bonds are payable to bearer, and are more convenient for commercial uses.

Subscribers to this loan will have the ontion of having their Bonds draw interest from March 1st, by paying the accruedlinterest in coin-(or in United States notes, or the notes of National Banks, adding fifty per cent. for premium) or receive them drawing interest from the date of subscription and deposit. As these Bonds are Exempt from Municipal or State Taxation, their value is increased from one to three per cent. per annum, ac cording to the rate offiax levies in various parts of the country. At the present rate of premium on gold

Over Eight Per Cont Interest in currency, and are of equal convenience as a permanent or temporary investment.

It is believed that no securities offer so great inducements to lenders, as the various descriptions of U. S. Bonds. In all other forms of indebtedness, the faith or ability of private parties or stock companies or seperate communities only is pledged for payment, while for the debts of the United States the whole property of the country is holden to secure the payment of both principal and interest in coin.

These bonds may be subscribed for in sums from $50 up to any magnitude, on the same terms, and are thus made equally available to the smallest lender and the largest capitalist. They can be converted into money at any moment, and the holder will have the benefit of the interest.

It may be useful to state in this connection that the total Funded Debt of the United States on which interest is payable in gold, on the 3d day of March, 1864, was $768,965,-000. The interest on this debt for the coming fiscal year will be $45,937,126, while the customs revenue in gold for the current fiscal year, ending June 30th, 1864, has been so far at the rate of over $100,000,000 per annum. It will be seen that even the present gold revenues of the Government are largely in excess of the wants of the Treasury for the payment of the gold interest, while the recent increase of the tariff will doubtless raise the annual receipts from custons on the same amount of importations, to $150,000,000 per
