Salvador, October 8, 1864.

The great Union Convention of Wednesday last, at Lancaster, will long be remembered as the largest gathering ever had in the "Inland City." The demonstration of 1840 was entirely laid in the shade. There were four stands for speakers, on the common, where the convention was held, at which U. S. Senator Harlan, of Iowa, Gen. John Cochrane, of New York, Judge Myers, of Clarion county, Col. John W. Forney, Col. R. B. Carpenter, of Kentucky, Major J. F. Fruehauf, of Blair county, Sergeant Barclay, of the Army of the Potomac and a half a dozen Lancasterians spoke. In the evening Gen. Carl Schurz spoke in the English language, at Fulton Hall, to a crowded house. This was, unquestionably, the finest production of the day. After Gen. Schurz was through the meeting adjourned to take part in the torchlight procession, then forming in front of the League House. Upon the whole, it was truly a gala day to every loyal friend of the Union who witnessed it.

The Cops held a meeting in the town hall, on Thursday evening at which Andrew Jackson Steinman, of Lancaster, ventilated himself, followed by a one-legged Dutchman, who said it was useless to try to whip the South, for this war had truly decided that one southerner was equal to four yankees. This "did not go down well," and a fuss was on the tapis, but which was quickly suppressed by the more cool of the bystanders. Several McClellan soldiers—one with an arm off, lost at Antietam—being listeners cried out aloud that it was "a d— lie,"—that we had as good soldiers as the world ever saw.

We observe in a late number of the Iowa Plaindealer a notice of the death of Edmund A. Dickey, formerly of this borough. Speaking of his death, the Plaindealer says: "Mr. Dickey died on the steamer on his way up to St. Louis. He was an old and estimable citizen of this state (Iowa) and although several years over military age, he enlisted early in the war and served until discharged for disability. Having recovered he again enlisted with the "Hundred Days Men" and closed his patriotic career within the service of his country." Mr. Dickey left Marietta about thirty years ago.

Mr. Henry Cassel, the oldest citizen of this borough, died on last Thursday morning, at the advanced age of eighty-nine years. Mr. Cassel, at one time, was one of the leading merchants of our place, and, in speculating times, long gone by, he was the head of what was then called "Henry Cassel's Bank." He erected some of the finest houses then built in the place—a number of which yet stand—but in the financial crisis which soon after followed, he went under, and passed the balance of his long life in retirement. He will be buried this afternoon at one o'clock.

The unfettered democracy had a pole raising at Hollowell's—at the corner of Elbow Lane and Front street—on Thursday afternoon, at which Honorable Isaac Ellmaker Hiester spoke. Mr. H. made a very unfavorable impression there, having got into a personal controversy with two old line whigs, who chided him for his want of patriotism. He compromised however, by placing a $5 bill on the counter and calling all to drink. It is said 33 was just the number at the pole raising, including three Union men, who were present as lookers on.

Marietta was not behind her sister districts in the Union pageant at Lancaster. A committee of our Union League went to Reading and secured a band of sixteen performers, at a cost of $110 to accompany our delegation, and between three and four hundred marched into line. Copperheadism has no better hold in this borough than the fellow had who attempted to hold a pig by its shaved and greased tail.

Republicans, Unionmen, Patriots do not fail to go to the polls on Tuesday next and perform the duty—the sacred duty—of a freeman, by casting your vote in a good, great and glorious cause, and thereby put to rout and cast to the winds every vestige of the hope of success of the home traitors, by triumphantly electing a purely Union ticket in October.

The copperheads, behaved very shamefully at Lancaster, on Wednesday last, by throwing stones at banners, flags and into the procession. Any cause that requires such upholding is surely in a sinking or stinking condition as is copperhead treason.

COUNTERFEITS.

As Kunkel's Bitter Wine of Iron is the only pure and powerful Tonic in the known world
for the permanent cure of Dyspepsia and Debility, and as there are a number of imitations offered to the public, we would caution the community to purchase none but the genuine article, manufactured by S. A. KUNKEL & BRO., and has their stamp on the top of the cork of every bottle. The very fact that others are attempting to imitate this valuable remedy, proves its worth and speaks volumes in its favor.

The Bitter Wine of Iron is put up in 75 cent
and $1.00 bottles, and sold by all respectable druggists throughout the country. Be particular that every bottle bears the fac simile of augments the appetite, raises the pulse, takes
