We received a letter a few days since from Dr. J. H. Grove, formerly of this borough, but now surgeon-in-chief at Rome, Georgia, from which we take the liberty of making the following extract: "With regard to army news, I suppose you are as familiar as I am, of our doings here, the newspapers containing all that is of interest. I expect our army will, in a short time, make another advance. This state, (Georgia) after all, at this time, is not very rebellious. I know there are comparatively few men in Georgia-excepting those in the rebel army-who would not willingly close the war and return to the "old Union' without slavery. Men who were most active in the first movements for secession, here, are now most anxious to return, giving as a reason, that there is not a shadow of hope of maintaining the | ed. Confederacy." Dr. Grove left a lucrative practice here and entered the army shortly after the breaking out of the rebellion, and has continued "in the harness" ever since.

- Quarterly meeting next Sabbath (to-morrow) in the Methodist church, in this place. Preaching in the morning at 10½ o'clock, by the Paster, Rev. Mr. Gregg, and at 7 o'clock in the evening, by Rev. Dr. Castle, P. E., of Philadelphia. Dr. Castle is an able divine. Go and hear him. The Choir, led by Dr. Worrall, will discourse very fine music, and will compare very favorably with any other in the State.
- The election on Tuesday last pass ed off very quietly and peacefully, with a majority of sixty for the Union ticket. From the duplicate we find 89 voters from the borough in the army, who voted here one year ago, and of course were absent on Tuesday last.
- We would call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of Messrs. T. & H. Gaughan, in another column. From representations made to us, we believe this house to he one of the first of its kind in New York.
- The Donegal House will be offered at public sale on the evening of the 28th instant. This could be made one of the finest hotels in the county, being very large and desirably located.
- The members of the Union League are requested to be punctual in attendance on Monday evening next, as very important business will be brought before the council.

Francis P. Blair, Sr., is out in a letter to the editor of the National Intelligencer, exonerating the President from any knowledge of or participating in his advances to General McClellan to resume his position in the army. He (Blair) proposed to General McClellan to write to the President, asking him to give him a command, and thereby set at rest the charges that he had conducted the war for the purpose of securing the Presidential prize. He told McClellan to rise above selfish purposes, and come out boldly for his country. But he didn't.

Mr. Cyrus H. McCormick, reputed inventor of the reaping machine, is vaunted as one of the eminent gentlemen who support the cause of McClellan and Disunion. The Chicago Tribune proves, however, that Mr. McCormick is neither a good patriot nor a genuine inventor. It seems that Mr. McCormick took the most valuable part of the reaping machine from Obed Hussey, and that the United States Circuit Court ordered him to pay for it, and enjoined him from robbing Mr. Hussey thereafter.

The Boston Post, having observed that the present Administration has abolished one hundred and fifty-two sinecure offices in the New York Custom House, remarks that "under a just and economical Government they would never have existed." The Bangor Whig responds: "Very true. They existed under Polk, Pierce, and Buchanan. Under Lincoln they have been abolish-

Father James Hennesy was drafted in the drawing for the Sixth Ward, Detroit, and his many friends at once came around him and preparations were made to get him a substitute. Father Hennesy said, "No, I cannot permit this. My country has called upon me for personal service, and I will have no other man to go for me. I will take my own place in the army." Here is an example worthy of the cloth, and the est of mankind.

A letter from Gen. Meade's army, relating to the advance by the centre of the army near Petersburg, mentions the following incident; "A shell from one of the enemy's batteries grazed General horse and entered the ground between Generals Bartlett and Griffin. Fortunately it did not explode, else I should probably have had to chronicle a loss which the army could but ill afford."

The McClellan and Pendleton ticket reminds us of the unfortunate dog in Munchausen's story, who, while | fully appreciated the horrors of war, but tree with such force as to split himself from snout to tail. Munchausen says he clapped the two halves together and they united, but inadvertently two legs running gear of the Chicago ticket was to have the respect of the nations of the similarly botched, and now they insist earth. on taking the dog apart.

Daniel S. Dickinson presided at a Union meeting at Binghampton, on the 20th ult., and made a speech, in which he said that "as he craved mercy at the final retribution, he hoped to God that, when the last sun went down on the rebellion, its next rising might not be our broad Union," and he wanted the the fifth occasion she was detected. reporters to take that down.

John Wentworth made one of his paraiso, Illinois, last Saturday night. He "brought down the house" by asking why the Democrats did not make peace with Jeff. Davis when they had him in Washington last, and when they knew he was about to leave for Dixie on his errand of sedition, blood, and rebellion.

E. N. Fuller, editor of the Newark Daily Journal, has been indicted by the grand jury of the United States Circuit Court at Trenton, on the charge of publishing articles in July last counseling resistance to the draft. The trial will take place early in October.

The Copperhead papers have suddenly dropped the expression "Lincoln hirelings," It is said to be out of regard for the feelings of General McClellan, who still continues to draw his pay as a major general, though out of service for nearly two years past.

He said, in so many Grant's headquarters, where they will words, that Richmond was completely in the power of the Lieutenant-General | the first engagement which may take whenever he chose to take possession.

The New York Herald, the great pro-slavery organ, thus admits the death of slavery, in the following sensible para-

"All discussion of the question of slavery during this political canvass is useless. It is a dead issue, and we are live men. It would be just as sensible to drag the old tariff question, or the old Maine-liquor law question into the present contest. We have gone beyond all these little controversies, and are brought face to face with the great national issue of Union or no Union. That is the question which must decide the Presidential election. The slavery question has nothing to do with it."

The poisonous character of the liquors sold at the present day was illustrated in the case of a negro who died at Philadelphia the other day of intemperance. A post-mortem examination was made, and when the abdomen was laid open it was found that by the direct action of liquor, the membrane lining the stomach had been corroded and eaten through. The mucous membrane of the viscera was so nearly destroyed that the victim, may be literally said to be "eaten" by poisoned and "doctored"

Let the people of those counties wherein the Union vote is apparently thrilling and irrefutable speeches at Val decreased, wait till the soldier's vote is announced. From the Democratic counties, which have sent few men to the war, are the heaviest majorities against the Union. Eight out of every ten-Pennsylvanians in the army will vote the Union ticket, and great gains will be made in districts now reported to have lost.

Is there a brave soldier of the Union who will cast his vote with a party which declares that the war in defence of his assailed country is a failure; that the blood of his slain comrades has been shed in vain, and the valor of his living comrades, who have so often seen the backs of the foe, and who are burning with impatience for the final struggle, can lead to no successful result?

MRS. ROSE GREENHOW DROWNED .-- The Wilmington North Carolina Journal of the 3d contains the following in relation to the death, by drowning, of Mrs. Greenhow: As we write, at half past four o'clock on Saturday afternoon, October 1st, 1864, the corpse of Mrs. Rose A. add, a devoted Confederate lady, just returned from Europe, is laid out in the chapel of General Hospital, No. 4. All the respect due to Mrs. Greenhow's position and character is, to doubt, paid to her remains by the ladies of the Soldier's Aid Society, and, indeed, we may time of writing we have few particulars. We know that on Friday night or Sat-Inlet Bar, got aground, and that a boat from her got swamped upon the "rip," and that Mrs. Greenhow, being a passenger on board that boat, got drowned.

FORT SUMTER SINKING .- The Tribune's Washington special, Sept. 13th, says, Col. Dana, 143d Pa. regiment, who has just returned from under fire at Charleston, reports that he was assured by parties who had been out to Fort Sumter that it was rapidly settling, and in a very short time, it was believed, water would enter the lower tier of embrazures. It is a fact well known to our engineers that this fortification was erected on quite a thin point of sand, which strata of sand rested upon a soft pulpy mass of debris.

GEN. KEARNEY'S PROTEST .- When McClellan issued his extraordinary order for retreat to Harrison's Landing. after the battle of Malvern Hill, the noble and gallant old Democrat, Kearney, exclaimed to the officers around him: 'I Philip Kearney, an old officer, enter my solemn protest against this order for retreat; we ought instead of retreating, to follow up the enemy and take Richmond. And in full view of all the responsibility of such a declaration, I say to you all, such an order can only be prompted by cowardice and treason!"

BALTIMORE OYSTER TRADE,-It has been ascertained that the number of persons, white and colored, employed in the city of Baltimore in opening and oyster trade. The number of vessel engaged in bringing oysters to market is set down at 600. The crop of oysters for the season is said to be very large and of fine quality generally.

SENATOR COWAN .- This is one of the distinguished men whom the Intelligencer claims for McClellan.
