MARIETTA, PA.

Saturday, February 25, 1865.

Charleston fell into our hands on Saturday the 18th instant, and with it about 200 cannon, and a vast deal of ammunition. The stars and stripes again float over Fort Sumpter. The rebels attempted to burn the city before evacuating. It is said the evacuation commenced over three weeks since. The lower part of the city was badly burned and other parts very much injured by our cannon; buildings completely demolished for whole squares. In setting fire to a cotton warehouse an explosion took place, which killed over two hundred inhabitants. All of the rich had long since left the city—only poor whites and blacks being left, and they are pleading to our troops for food. What a poor parody on Moscow. For how the rebels bragged they would starve or burn the city to the ground before they would yield. How true that brag is a game of theirs. The whole Confederacy will, ultimately, have to "back-down" in the same manner.

One Hundred Dollar Treasury Notes are not as plenty as blackberries in June with the mass of people, but it behooves every person who is fortunate enough to come into the possession of one to be sure that it is genuine. A new counterfeit has recently made its appearance purporting to have been issued under the act of 1862; but as that act positively forbids their issue we warn our readers to be on the lookout. It is well executed in some respects and badly in others; the color on the back is pale; the lettering around the margin is different from the genuine and the entire note appears to apologize for its impertinence in pretending to represent the original. The wary and cautious will not be deceived by it, and this paragraph is intended only for the careless.

The rebel Gen. Winder is dead. John H., or "Hog" Winder, as he was familiarly called, lately deceased, was the rebel commissary of prisoners, and as such had charge of the prisoners confined in the Libby, Belle Island, Andersonville and Florence prisons. The epithet of "Hog" Winder was given him at West Point, as expressive of his avarice. His selfishness made him notorious in the United States army, while his inhumanity to our prisoners captured in this war have made him hated by his own people and despised by the civilized of all other races. No officer to which the rebellion has given prominence sinks into his grave more generally hated than does the same inhuman monster Winder.

The President's readiness to confer with the rebel Commissioners is having a good effect upon public opinion. Many of those who thought the war was prolonged needlessly or purposely, are now satisfied that it must be pushed vigorously to a conclusion. There will be a more united North to aid the Government, and with one purpose in view, backed by all the resources of the people, there can be but one end to the contest, and that end will be all the sooner reached.

It has just been discovered that a conspiracy has been detected to burn the city of Savannah. About a dozen men—all Irish—have been reported by the guards as having been caught cutting the water pipes, with a view to afterward fire the city. They are to be immediately tried by drum head court martial.

Senator Sumner introduced a clause to the charter of the Metropolitan Passenger Railway of Washington, allowing people of color to ride in the cars, and extending it to all the other railways in the district. It was adopted, 26 to 10, and the bill passed.

President Lincoln has issued a proclamation calling an extra session of the United States Senate on the 4th of March next.

A boy employed in one of the mills at Paterson, New Jersey, in tearing to pieces an old skirt, found twenty-two dollars and a half in gold sewed up in its folds.

The rebel onslaught on Jeff. Davis is renewed, Wigfall has opened his batteries on him in the rebel Congress, while the opposition papers are savagely clamoring for new men.

Lieutenant Governor Jacobs, of Kentucky, a few days since, took ground in favor of the ratification of the constitutional amendment by that State. He said, "Kentucky is bound to become a free State through the choice of her own people, and delay in settling the question can only complicate the process, which she will reach that destiny."

Cabbages are $15 a head in Major Georgia.

General John C. Breckenridge has been unanimously confirmed as Secretary of War by the rebel Senate, and was to take charge of the Department on the 6th.

Henry S. Foote late member of the rebel Congress, sailed for Europe on Saturday in the steamer City of Cork. The report that he had been incarcerated in Fort Warren was without foundation.

Capt. Stuart, of the 16th Regulars, on trial at Washington, is charged, among other things, with administering this comprehensive oath: "You solemnly swear you will support Old Abe as long as you live, and be a good boy, God damn you."

Among the "natural curiosities" of Ellsworth, Mass., is a man forty-four years of age, who has never used an ounce of tobacco, nor drank a drop of tea, coffee, beer, cider, wine, nor any kind of intoxicating liquor in his life.

A man who gives the name of Fletcher has been swindling the Maine farmers by representations that he is purchasing hay for the Boston horse railroads. After obtaining signatures for blank contracts for hay, he would write a promissory note over the name, cut off all below, and then sell the forged notes.

It is said that General Grant's recent visit to Washington was connected with important combinations for the Spring campaign, and his time was principally given to consultation with the President and the head of the War Department.

There are six colored churches in Savannah. Three of them have large organs and fine choirs. The pastors of four of them have always been colored men. Three of these churches are decidedly very fine edifices, and cost not less than ten thousand dollars each.

Orders were received at Camp Douglas, Chicago, a few days ago, to prepare to send away 3000 of the rebel prisoners to be exchanged. Of 3223 who were called out 715, more than one-fifth, refused to be exchanged. Nine hundred and thirty-one applied during the month of January for leave to take the oath of allegiance. They are now offering at the rate of about forty a day.

A rebel woman in Newtown, Virginia, boasts of having made money enough by selling pies to Union soldiers, last summer, to paper her kitchen with greenbacks.

Col. James S. Wallace, whose death at Louisville, Ky., from paralysis, on Saturday of last week, was at one time connected with the Harrisburg Telegraph, with Theo. Fenn, and with the Philadelphia Gazette, the North American, the Daily Sun, of the latter paper he was one of the proprietors and chief editor. He was a native of New York, the son of a merchant, educated at Captain Partridge's Academy, and had been at various times an actor, manager of a theatre, dramatist, agent of the Associated Press, and editor. He was an agreeable writer, a man of unwearied industry, and of remarkable enterprise and knowledge of business. At the time of his death he was connected with the Louisville Journal.

A triple murder was committed near the town of Coldwater, Michigan, on Tuesday night last. A man, named David L. Bivins, deliberately killed his wife in order that he might marry a young lady to whom he was engaged, and being surprised by his father and mother while consummating the act, shot them both, threw the three bodies into the cellar and set the house on fire. The murderer was arrested, and confessed the deed in the coolest manner possible. It is presumed that he is insane.

The Count of Paris who served on McClellan's staff, in a letter to Mr. F. M. Edges, of London, criticizes McClellan's military policy, as well as his great mistake in leading the political movement of last fall. The Count adds that his entire sympathies were with Mr. Lincoln before the election, and that he bitterly regrets the fatal lack of energy and of moral courage displayed by McClellan in the Peninsular campaign.

There is a prospect of having short sermons in one of the Fall River churches. Special Notices.

SPECIAL NOTICE.—Prospectus and Report of the Committee sent to West Virginia, to examine and select lands for "The West Virginia National Petroleum Association," (an Oil enterprise on new principles) can be had by addressing the undersigned James Lynd, esq., No. 54 South Sixth street, Philadelphia, or publisher of this paper, or J. J. Webster, No. 50 North Fifth street, Philadelphia,—authorized Agent to receive all subscriptions from this county, to above association.

Subscription price for the present, $1 per share, fully paid up. Subscriptions for 100 shares or less, cash at the time of subscribing, and over this number of shares 3-5th on the whole amount—balance in two separate instalments. Subscribers are notified that the third instalment is now payable.

Report.—The Committee appointed to visit and examine the lands for the Association, made their report at a general meeting of the Association, held at No. 54 South Sixth street, Philadelphia, January 24, 1865, that they had visited, carefully examined and selected sixteen separate tracts, comprising in all 6,492 acres, at a cost of from $35 to $83 per acre—making an average of $55.13 per acre. These prices are much below those usually paid for Oil Lands in West Virginia, owing to the fact that the committee have personally visited the locations, and purchased from bona fide owners, thus saving the large profit that is generally placed on lands by agents before selling to Companies.

The whole of these lands have been selected by the committee as first-class Oil Territory, having in view an easy access to market, necessary for their early development.—We believe that no property is better situated or has more reliable indications of an abundance of oil.

Some of these tracts are well improved farms, and all contain fine timber in large quantities. They are situated on what is called "Oil Barrens," or Great Upheaval, and are well intersected by streams and ravines.

Oil has been found within a short distance of the most of these localities, so that the committee are satisfied from personal examination, that they believe all the tracts now presented will yield oil in paying quantities.

The committee would further report that they have arranged to purchase all these tracts in fee-simple, clear of incumbrance.

Yours, Respectfully,
Mahlon Gillingham, Jos. T. Rowand,
