

THE MURDER OF THE PRESIDENT .- We append below numerous items on this most diabolical murder. Everything concerning the murder and the murderers appears to be sought after, hence, we devote a large space in our columns for this purpose :

It appears that in consequence of public announcement in the papers that President Lincoln, General Grant, and other distinguished gentlemen were to be present at Ford's Theatre on Friday evening last. Gen. Grant was not in the city and in order not to disappoint the expectations of the public, Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln-both rather reluctantly, for Mrs. Lincoln was unwell-went The theatre was crowded and during the third act, and while there was a temporary pause for one of the actors to enter, the sharp report of a pistol was heard, which merely attracted attention, but suggested nothing serious, until a man rushed to the front of the President's box, waving a long dagger in bis right hand, and exclaiming "Sic Semper Tyrannis!" and immediately leaped from the box, to the stage beneath, and ran across to the opposite side, thus making his escape, amid the bewilderment of the audience, from the rear of the theatre, and, mounting a horse, fled.

The screams of Mrs. Lincoln first disclosed the fact to the audience that the President had been shot, when all pres ent rose to their feet, rushing toward the stage, many exclaiming "Hang him ! hang him !"

The excitement was of the wildest possible description, and, of course, there was an abrupt termination of the theatrical performance.

On a hasty examination it was found that the President had been shot through the head, above and back of the temporal bone, and that some of the brain was oozing out.

On an examination of the private box blood was discovered on the back of the cushioned rockingchair on which the President had been sitting, also on the partition and on the floor. A common single-barreled pocket pistol was found on the carpet.

When the excitement at the theatre was at its wildest height, reports were circulated that Secretary Seward, had also been assassinated.

On reaching that gentleman's residence, a crowd and a military guard were found at the door and on entering it was ascertained that the reports were

The National Intelligencer says : We can state, on the highest authority, that it has been ascertained that there was a regular conspiracy to assassinate every member of the Cabinet, together with the President.

"Booth, it is said, sent his card up to the Vice-President at the hotel, but Mr. Johnson could not conveniently see him. The names of the severally appointed assassin's are, we understand, known, and after the present investigation is concluded and published the public will be astounded at the developements. "A member of the Cabinet remarked that on the day after the marder of Mr. Lincoln the rebels had lost their best friend : that Mr. Lincoln at every Cabinet meeting invariably counseled forbearance, kindness and mercy towards The play was Julius Cæsar, with Edwin these misguided men."

It is very evident that the then Vice President Johnson was included in the murderous programme of Friday night, On Thursday a man of genteel appearance took a room at Kirkwood's Hotel, where Mr. Johnson boards. For reas- ner was remarkable. This was his last ons best known to the proprietor or the public appearance in this city. detective, the name registered has not been disclosed. During the following day he was particular in his inquiries about the room of Mr. Johnson, his whereabouts and habits. Since Friday night the strange lodger has not been seen, and on breaking open his room ast night there were found concealed between the bed and mattrass a bowie knife and navy revolver, and a bank book of J. Wilkes Booth, showing a balance of over four hundred dollars in bank.

Since his inauguration President Johnson is attended from and to his hotel by a mounted guard.

The spur was dropped on the stage, and that also has been identified as the one procured at the stable where the same man hired a horse in the evening. His hat was found in the private box, and identified by several persons who had seen him within the last two days and the spur which he dropped by accident after he jumped to the stage was identified as one of these which he had obtained from the stable where he procured his horse.

This man Booth has played more than once at Ford's Theatre, and is, of course, acquainted with its exits and entrances, and the facility with which he escaped behind the scenes is easily understood. He has also played in Philadelphia and in all the principal cities.

He was well acquainted with all the exits and internal arrangements of Ford's Theatre, and kept a horse at livery in a stable immediately in the rear of the theatre.

Developements have been made showing conclusively the existence of a deep laid plot on the part of a gang of conspirators, including members of the Order of Knights of the Golden Circle, to morder President Lincoln and his Cabinet. We have reason to believe that Secretary Seward received, several months since, an intimation from Europe that something of a very desperate charactor was to transpire at Washingmous English tragedian. At the early age of sixteen he went upon the stage, and in 1856 made a regular debut at Philadelphia. He inherits the well known Booth face and figure aud some of the dramatic talent of the family. After starring for a while in the provinces we find him, in 1859-'60, the leading actor at Montgomery, Alabama. His brothers, Junius and Edwin, were and are most decided Union men, and several quarrels have arisen between the brothers on account of their differences. They acted together, however, at the Winter Garden, on the 23 of November last, for the benefit of the Shakspeare Monument Fund, and attracted one of the largest and most intellectual audiences ever assembled in any theatre. Booth as "Brutus," Junius Booth as "Cassius," and John Wilkes Booth as "Marc Antony." As an actor John Wilkes could not compare with either of his brothers, although his resemblance to them in form, feature, voice and man-

Four persons were centenced to six months in the Penitentiary in New York, on the 17th, for treasonable language. A rebel flag that had been hanging in the parlor of Mrs. ex. President Tyler, on Staten Island, was demanded by a number of callers on the evening of the 16th, and it was surrendered. The excitement against all suspected of favoring treason is very great. a Moustache, in less than 30 days. A man was thrown from a Brooklyn ferry-boat for treasonable talk.

The news of the death of the President, was received from Maine to California with the profoundest grief. One sentiment of deep, abiding sorrow, mingled with intense exasperation, pervaded everybody. Even in Nova Scotis, New Brunswick, Canada, &c., every tribute of respect and sympathy, official and otherwise, was exhibited.

E Lee surrendered less than 8000 fighting men to Grant. Less than 5000 muskets were surrendered. Gen. Lee confessed to Gen. Grant that Johnston's entire force would not number more than 10.000. Johnston, it is reported, has retreated into South Carolina.

The investigations of the authorities at Washington tend to show that the assassination of the President was part of a great conspiracy to kill every member of the Cabinet.

The Diplomatic Corps at Washington held a meeting on Monday, expressed their sympathy, with the government and the family of the President, and resolved to attend the funeral in a body.

Secretary Seward is rapidly improving. Hon. F. W. Seward is also getting better. He was conscious on Monday, and able to converse a little.

The intelligence of the President's death created the greatest consternation in Richmond, the people fearing the consequences.

About ten o'clock a man rang the bell, and the call having been answered by a colored servant, he said he had come from Dr. Verdi, Secretary Seward's family physician, with a prescription. at the same time holding in his hand a small piece of folded paper and saying, in answer to a refusal, that he must see the Secretary, as he was intrusted with a particular direction concerning the medicine."

He still insisted on going up, although repeatedly informed that no one could enter the chamber. The man pushed the servant aside and walked quickly to the Secretary's room, and was there met by Mr. Frederick W. Seward, of whom he demanded to see the Secretary making the same representation which he did to the servant.

What farther passed in the way of colloquy is not known, but the man struck Mr. F. Seward on the head with a billy, severely injuring his skull, and felling him almost senseless. The assassin then rushed into the chamber and attacked Major Seward, Paymaster in the United States Army, and Mr. Hansill a messenger of the State Department, and two male nurses, disabling them all. He then rushed upon the Secretary, who was lying in bed in the same room, and inflicted three stabs in the neck, and would have killed him on the spot had he not rolled out of bed upon the floor.

The assassin then rushed down stairs. mounted his horse at the door and rode off before an alarm could be sounded. and in the same manner of the assassin of the President.

There are good grounds for belief that high secessionists in Washington and Baltimore are at the bottom of this great crime.

At last accounts Mr. S., was sitting up in bed and doing well, whilst F. W. Seward has had his skull trepanned and is now conscious and doing as well as could be expected.

The assassin of the President left behind him his hat and a spur. The hat was picked up in the President's box. and has been identified by parties to whom it has been shown, and accurately described as the one belonging to the suspected, by other parties not allowed efore describing it.

ton, and it is more than probable that the intimation had reference to the plot of assassination.

Booth, only a short time ago, was heard to remark in a drinking saloon, in Boston, that he would kill the President. The fact was communicated to aid. officers of the Government.

The most emphatic orders have been issued to prevent the assassins from escaping to Canada, which it is believed they will attempt to do.

Booth crossed the bridge over the o'clock, on the night of the murder, giving his real name when stopped by the guard.

On Saturday night, the pickets posted on the different roads around Washington, were at several points fired on by rebel sympathizers of the murderer. One or two captures are said to have been made.

It is shown by the papers seized belonging to Booth that the murder was to have been perpetrated on the 4th of March, during the inauguration.

The horrible plot is believed to have Department of the Government, together with Gen. Grant.

Secretary Seward is much better, as is also Frederick Seward, who is gradually regaining full consciousness, and it is now confidently hoped and expected that both the Secretary and his son will speedily recover.

John Wilkes Booth, who is directly accused of the assassination of President Lincoln, is one of the sons of the celebrated English actor, Junius Brutus Booth, the contemporary and rival of Edmund Kean. The elder Booth came to this country as a star actor, and final-
