MARIETTA, PA.

Saturday, May 13, 1865.

A bounty jumper recently escaped from Gallop's Island, Boston Harbor, after having unaccountably unfastened his irons. It was subsequently discovered that a young woman who had been permitted to come and see him, had a key in her mouth fitting the lock of his fetters. On parting she kissed him, and in the operation transferred the key from her mouth to his.

Hon. B. G. Harris, member of Congress from Southern Maryland, is on trial before a military commission, charged with urging paroled prisoners to return to the South, and fight again as soon as exchanged and also advising them not to take the oath.

The large shield-shaped silver-plated door plate of Alexander H. Stephens, late Vice President of the late so-called Confederate States of America, is now displayed in the window of an oyster-house on Washington street, Boston.

Rhett was an original secessionist, not only from Lincoln, but from Davis; and in his private correspondence discovered at Charleston he speaks of Davis as "a fool," as "pig-headed," and as held "in great contempt" in Charleston.

A colored woman in Marietta, Ohio, brought to her minister five dollars. It was the first money she had ever earned. She wanted it to begin a monument to Abraham Lincoln.

Clark Mills, the sculptor, applied to the Secretary of War for liberty to take a cast of Booth's head, when Mr. Stanton replied: "Better take care of your own head, sir."

The New York Herald of Saturday states that the rumor concerning Mr. Lincoln's having offered the French Mission to James Gordon Bennett is true, and that it was declined.

Hon. Preston K. King, of New York, is perhaps the most intimate friend and adviser of President Johnson at the present time, and is one of his oldest Senatorial friends.

A soldier stationed near Piedmont, West Virginia, quarrelled with a comrade and shot him. The murderer was immediately hung on a tree by his comrades.

Bennett Benson, of St. Paul, Minn., enlisted as a soldier two years ago, has been in twelve battles, and wounded twice, yet is only fifteen years old.

The bodies of the "first martyrs of the rebellion"—Ladd and Whitney—were deposited under the monument at Lowell on Friday evening of last week.

Dr. Valentine Mott, one of the most distinguished surgeons in this country, died in New York, on the 26th of April, aged 80 years.

A child was born recently in San Francisco who had no opening for his eyes. Cuts were made, and a pair of bright ones were found underneath.

The Episcopal congregation of Belvidere, N. J., discharged their pastor for refusing to pray for the family of President Lincoln.

Among those who took the oath in Richmond on Monday was Dr. Garnett, formerly of Washington, and lately physician to Jeff. Davis.

The President's mansion is to be repainted and refurnished throughout before it will be taken possession of by President Johnson.

A man in Troy had his arm blown off in firing a salute, and while he was senseless and bleeding, somebody stole $18 from him.

A Richmond letter says General Lee keeps quietly within the house, and has not been seen on the street since his capture.

At Camden, South Carolina, in a newly made grave in the burying ground was found over $60,000 in specie.

President Johnson's son-in-law, Judge Patterson, is the newly elected U. S. Senator from Tennessee.

President Johnson offers a reward of one hundred thousand dollars for the arrest of Jeff. Davis.

According to Parson Brownlow, John Bell is not dead, but still in the land of the living.

Rayne, the assassinator of the Heward family, has made a full confession of his crime.

THE DEBT MUST BE PAID.—We hear that Andy Johnson, who was born poor, and raised poor, and is yet of the people in his property and expectations, has given the order for Retrenchment and Economy, and declared that the Nation must go right to work to pay its debts. Good!

The National Debt has been ciphered up, and the sum total is a big one,—but the American people is a big one too. On the 1st of July next our debt will foot up in round numbers Three Thousand Millions. We can pay it without strain, without oppression. We can pay it, and add to our wealth. But we have got to practice economy, public and private. We have particularly to apply economy and watchfulness to the Legislation of Congress, and to the Administration of the Departments and Bureaus in Washington. The expenses of the Government must be shoved back rapidly and in good faith toward the old peace footing of 1860. We may never again get quite to that,—but let us get as near to it as we can.

The ablest statisticians in the service of the Treasury Department have been directed to measure the wealth and resources of the nation, and to calculate when it will be possible for us to pay, and probable that we will pay, that immense debt of Three Thousand Millions. They have reported that the "bottom dollar" of it can be paid in twenty years from 1870!!

Good again! Let the watchword of all politics be—Pay off the National debt!

SOUTHERN POOR WHITES FOLK.—About seven miles from Richmond I saw a man lying under the shade of a tree, assiduously chewing tobacco. After saluting him, and after several questions, to which I received lazy Yeses and Noes, I asked him to what churches the people in that neighborhood usually went. "Well, not much to any." "What are their religious views?" "Well, not much of any." "Well, my friend, what are your religious views?" I asked. The man answered slowly and sleepily, "My own 'pinion is, that them as made me'll take care of me."

—The language of flowers and fruits. —The lilac in April—"Give me leave." The rose in June—"Well, I'm blowed." The asparagus in July—"Cut, and come again." Peas in August—"Shell out." The apple tree in September—"Go it, my pippins." The cabbage in December—"My heart's my own."

—At a recent exhibition of paintings, a lady and her son were regarding with much interest a picture which the catalogue designated as "Luther at the Diet of Worms." Having descanted at some length upon its merits, the boy remarked—"Mother, I see Luther and the table; but where are the worms?"

—President Lincoln, before leaving Washington on his last visit, to the army, wrote a call for an extra session of Congress, which was signed by both himself and Secretary Seward, to be issued in case anything happened to him. The document is now on file at the State Department.

—Major Generals Butler, Burnside, and Schurz, have resigned their commissions. Hundreds of Union officers of the army and navy have also resigned, owing to the great reduction in the force of both arms, preparatory to entering upon business in the civil walks.

—A movement has been initiated in Philadelphia for the purchase and presentation of a farm to Mrs. Lincoln. Single subscriptions are limited to $500 and all are to be sent to Jay Cooke & Co., who will publicly acknowledge them.

—Henry A. Wise now claims to have been a strenuous Union man, and only took up arms when forced to do so by the North to protect southern rights. This certainly caps the climax of rebel impudence.

—A number of prominent citizens of New York, chiefly merchants and bankers, have purchased a magnificent carriage, with horses and harness to match, for presentation to President Johnson.

—The new military establishment of the United States will be an army of about one hundred and fifty thousand men, divided into four corps: one of regulars, one of white volunteers, and two of negroes.

—The Washington Intelligencer on Wednesday says the Government has thirty-three millions of gold on hand. It is known that the Government is prepared to pay the coin interest due in July.

—One of our prominent Philadelphia clergymen, in his sermon on Sunday, said: "I look upon a patriot at a theatre as better than a secessionist at a prayermeeting."

—A Mrs. Crandall, of La Seur, Minnesota, a soldier's widow, was lately assailed by a fellow who boasted of his exploit. His victim heard of it, and shot him dead.

—Drunkness in Oil City is becoming very frequent, and we are sorry to state, it is constantly on the increase.

—Sergeant Oorbett, the man who killed Booth, writes from Washington that his life has been threatened.

—The city of Pittsburg has seventeen banks, with an aggregate paid-up capital of $8,524,700.

NATIONAL DEBTS AND U. S. STOCKS.

The creation of national debts is not a modern improvement, but the ability of a great nation to provide for a great debt, and to make it the most convenient and best form of personal property, is a modern wonder. The debt of Great Britain was begun by raising a million sterling by loan in 1692, and when her great contest with Louis XIV was terminated, the debt had reached fifty millions. Many statesmen and economists were then alarmed at the great burden which had been imposed upon the industry of the country, but when the war of the Austrian succession had swollen this amount to eighty millions, Macaulay says that historians and orators pronounced the case to be desperate. But when war again broke out, and the national debt was rapidly carried up to one hundred and forty millions, men of theory and business both pronounced that the fatal day had certainly arrived. David Hume said that, although, by taxing its energies to the utmost, the country might possibly live through it, the experiment must never be repeated,—even a small increase might be fatal. Granville said the nation must sink under it unless some portion of the load was born by the American Colonies, and the attempt to impose this load produced the war of the revolution, and instead of diminishing, added another hundred millions to the burden. Again, says Macaulay, was England given over, but again she was more prosperous than ever before. But when at the close of her Napoleonic wars in 1816, this debt had been swollen up to the enormous sum of over eight hundred millions sterling, or four thousand three hundred million dollars, or nearly one-half the entire property of the United Kingdom, the stoutest heart, the firmest believer in national progress, and national development, might well have been appalled. But in the very face of this mountain of obligation,—to say nothing of her vast colonial possessions,—the property of the British nation has been more than trebled, and her debt is now a charge of but 12 1/2 per cent. against it. All that Great Britain has done in paying her debt, we shall do, and more, with ours. We have vast territories untouched by the plow, mines of all precious metals of which we have hardly opened the doors, a population full of life, energy, enterprise and industry, and the accumulated wealth of money and labor of the old countries pouring into the lap of our giant and ever-to-be-united republic. During the fiercest and most exhausting of all possible wars, we have demonstrated our national strength,—and all the world over, national strength is but another name for national credit. "As good as United Stocks" will soon be synonymous the world over with "as good as British Consols."

For our part, we think a U. S. Treasury note, bearing seven and three tenths annual interest, is just as much better than British Consols as the rate of interest is higher. Some of our timid brethren, who shipped their gold to London and invested in consols, are now glad to sell out and invest at home at a round loss,—and serves them right.

John Devlin, James Devlin, James Cahill, Jacob Weibel, Michael Dalton, W. C. Holmes, Englebart & Bots, W. H. Rull, and several other well known bouli brokers, have been tried in Washington, and sentenced to the Clinton penitentiary for terms varying from five to fourteen years. In this penitentiary they are confined half a mile under the surface of the earth, and are there kept at work in an iron mine.

In St. Louis, the other day, the relatives and friends of a young lady who had died at a distant water-cure establishment, and whose remains had been forwarded by express, assembled to take a parting view of the countenance of the dear deceased, when, upon opening the coffin, the face of a man met their astonished gaze. The expressman had blundered, and the body of the young lady had gone to Chicago.

Pennsylvania would not allow the government to defray the expenses incurred while transporting the President's remains through the State. Gov. Curtin maintained that we could at least do so much to show our respect and love for our departed chief, and the whole expense was paid by the State Treasury.

The old sign of the Libby Prison, Richmond, has been brought to New York. It is a plain, unornamented board, and bears the inscription: "L. Libby & Son, Ship Chandlers." What use is to be made of this relic is not stated.

The Viceroy of Egypt is in a state of nervous depression, which excites the gravest apprehensions. He is afraid of assassination or poisoning. He sees scarcely any one but his mother and sister. His mother cooks for him, and brings his coffee in a locked coffee pot.

Out of eight thousand, rank and file, prisoners of war confined last week in Fort Delaware, but three men declined to renew their allegiance to the United States.

A Catholic priest at Detroit, lately ran away with the wife of a doctor. They were found at New York.
