MARIETTA, PA:

Saturday Morning, December 9, 1865.

The President's Message appears to give very general satisfaction; it is teo long for our columns and having been-published in all our daily papers, is, before this time, read by every person who will be likely to read it. Certain portions of the message is receiving very universal commendation. The pointed manner in which it disposes of the mischievous heresy of so-called state sovereignty is a cooler to copperheads. A Washington correspondent says that contents, as frank, direct and patriotic. and its facts and arguments so clearly stated as to leave no doubt of the President's views and policy. The passages which were applauded in the House "were those asserting that traitors should be punished and the offense made infamons, and at the same time the question judiciously settled, finally, and forever, that no State of its own will has the right to renounce its place in the Union; and the President's declaration that the justification of England in fitting out cruisers during the rebellion, cannot be sustained before the tribunal of nations. and that the friendship between the two countries must bereafter rest on the basis of mutual justice. The applause on the reading of this part of the message was emphatic, and there was a general clapping of hands, both on the floor and in the galleries, on the conclusion of the reading of the document."

The Florence correspondent of the Independence Belge says that a singular discovery has been made in a church in one of the faubourgs of Milan. A statue of Saint Magdaleen, which has long been famous for weeping in the presence of unbelievers; was recently removed, in order to facilitate repairs ably the oldest person in the United for the church. It was found that the statue contained an arrangement for came across the Atlantic twenty years boiling water. The steam passed up in- ago. to the head, and was there condensed. The water thus produced made its way by a couple of pipes to the eyes, and trickled down upon the cheeks of the image. So the wonderful miracle was performed.

The ship Continental has been lying in New York harbor for some time to receive her cargo of young women for Washington, on the Pacific, and ber departure is set down for Saturday. It is represented that many of the ladies who are factory girls from Massachu. setts, find their courage giving out as the day for leaving approaches, and fear hung himself to avoid going to school. to consign themselves to the uncertainties of the enterprise. On the contrary, it is represented that all the ship's room is engaged, and that opportunity to go has been eagerly accepted. Several ladies from Ohio are said to have taken passage.

Thanksgiving, December 7th, was the 85th anniversary of the thanksgiving appointed by the Continental Congress at the suppression of the treason of Benedict Arnold during the Revolution. This coincidence of a second thanksgiv. ing on the same day, for the same cause is singular.

WHAT ABERNETHY SAID :- "Well, sir, what is the matter?" said Abernethy, the great English surgeon, to a cadaverous-looking patient, who had called to consult him. 'Oh, nothing serious," was the reply, " my stomach and liver are out or order, that's all." " Do you call that nothing serious ?" said Abernethy; "I tell you, air, that when these two organs are out of order, as you call it, there's not a square inch of the body that is not mere or less diseased, nor a drop of blood in it that is in a healthful condition." Nothing can be more true, therefore it is of the very highest importance to keep the stomach and liver in a vigorous condition. If the one is weak and the other irregular in its action, tone and control them with Hostetter's celebrated Stomach Bitters-the most genial vegetable Restorative and Alterative that has ever been administered as a cure for Dyspepsia and Liver disease. It is recommended by distinguished surgeons and physicians of the United States Army, by officers of the Army and Navy, by our first authors, by eminent clergymen-in fact, by thousands of the most intelligent of every-class, as an unequalled protective against epedemic and malarious disease, and as a perfectly innocuous, but at the same time powerful, invigorant and alterative. In June last we left then for the East, and in August last we came to New York, and I was so reduce t that I could for aid. We had four of the best physicing of New York on the diseases of the lung, and doctors of all kinds, but of no avail. The said I was past cure, and that my lungs were too far gone for any one to cure me. But at this time I was on my feet about the hous, not able to do much of anything. In November last of grew worse, and the consumption diarrhea set in and lasted about eight week, We had tried all and everything that I could grasp at like a dying person for my discregrasp at like a dying person for my disease-consumption and liver complaint—but of my

In January, 1863, I was brought down again on my bed, and was not expected to live the night out. My husband stayed atmy side, and other friends, and they all gave me up to die. At this time every one who say me did not think I would ever leave my bel a living woman. The first night I was at tacked with spasms, and was deranged man of the time A friend, Mrs. Harris, came to see me the last of the week, and brought the see the the rac of the week, and brought the Sunday Mercury. In it was an account of a great cure performed by Dr. Schenck. Sh read it to me, and it was so much like my disease that I asked my husband to go as see him for the. At this time I had given a all hopes of ever getting well again, and made my peace with God, to be ready whenever called for me.

Called for me.
On the 27th of January, 1865, my hushad called on Dr. Schenck, 32 Bond street, New York, and stated to him my case, with a request for him to call and see me, which is did, and examined me with the respirometer. When he was about to go I asked him if he could cure me? His teply was: "I cannot tell, both lungs are diseased, and the broachal tubes are affected on both sides." And re he seemed to think there were lungs enough left to effect a cure if the diarrhea could be stopped. He said in order to do this, he would have to give me Mandrake Pills in said doses at first, to carry off the morbid malter, and then, with astringents, he hoped to the it, which he did, but the constant coughing night sweats, and diarrhea had prostrated me so that he was afraid my vital powers were on much prostrated ever to fally, and yet he seemed to think if I could live to get enough Pulmonic Syrup through my system to cause expectoration there were lungs enough left for me to recover. He wished me to try the Pulmonic Syrup and Scaweed Tonic at one, saving it would do me no beam if it did no do me no barm. il no good. The first week it seemed to give me strength, so that on Sunday after I at in in bed and ate hearty for a sick woman; but the next week I lost all hope and wished my husband not to give me any more medicine, but the doctor had warned him of this, and when the medicine was clearing out the iff tem it made them feel somewhat restless, and p persevere; and he insisted on my taking t; and now I feel the benefit of it. For after eight days I began to gain my strength sal, with the exception of a cold that pa: me but some, I have been gaining strength of boly my cough is going away, and all my pains an gone; no soreness of the bedy, my bowels at regular, and my breath is sweet, and I that God that I am now going about, and sew sol read as well as ever I could. I have take sixteen bottles of the medicine, eight of each I now have a good appetite and rest well at the model of the medicine, when the medicine is the model of the medicine. i now have a good appetite and lest well in high; my cough does not trouble me ingeling up or lying down. I would here say to the afflicted with consumption or liver complaint, that Dr. Schenck is no humbug yo can rely on what he says. Delay not; it dangerous to trifle with these diseases.
