MARIETTA, PA: Saturday Morning, March 10, 1866.

The Democratic State Convention met at Harrisburg, on last Monday afternoon. Hiester Clymer received the nomination on the fourth ballot, recuiving seventy-two votes. George W. Cass, his competitor, received thirty-six vites. A series of resolutions were a lopted, esteeming . the restoration of the Union paramount to all other issiles; that the States lately in rebellion are entitled to immediate representation in Congress; that taxation without representation is tyranny; that the natonal debt should be paid; that they a lhere to the Constitution, including the amendment for the abolition of slave. ry; that the emancipated should have a l rights of person and property; that the States have the exclusive right to regulate the qualifications of its citizens ; that the white race only should have the control of the Government ; that segrees ought not to have the right to vote : that the President was right in vetoing the freedman's bill, and thanksig the army and navy for subduing the rebellion, and urging the equalization of hounties.

The ice gave way in the creek at Oil City. Pa., on the 24th ult., sweeping µ vay derricks, engine houses, workshops, bridges, etc. The water in the lower part of the town was from six to ten thet deep. The Sewing Machine.

Among the greatest revolutions of modern times must be ranked that which has been effected in domestic offairs by the Sewing Machine. If the steam engine nearly doubled the sum of human life, and multiplied a thousandfold the power of munkind, so, also, has this great labor-saving invention. How clearly was its efficiency manifested during the gigantic war just ended ! How could the millions of men who were sent into the field ever have been-promptly supplied with outfits without the tireless lightning-like fingers of this little instrument? Few who are not traveling extensively through the country are aware how universally this machine has taken the place of the old wearisome needle. _ Perhaps an idea of the extent of this substitution cannot be better obtained than by a glance at the magnitude of some of the manufactories. Of the number of the rival establishments, let us take one of the leading ones for an example. At the Grover & Baker factory, in Boston, the machinery for turning out the instruments, stands, and cabinets requires nearly five hundred men to work it. The Company conduct twenty-four sales establishments, in their own name, in different parts of the United States, and in Loadon and Liverpool, England, and in Melbourne, Australia. They have, moreover, agencies established in all the principal cities of the Old World, and in almost every village of the New World.

The principal depot for foreign export is in New York, at No. 495 Broadway. This establishment occupies a building three stories in front on Broadway, and extending back 200 feet to Mercer street. Unique in design und magnificently fitted up, it ranks among the first commercial palaces in the metropolis. From this place machines are constant. ly being sent out to all parts of the world. They go among all ranks-not only the hamble, but the very proudest. They have been furnished, by command, to the Empress of France ; the Empress of Russia ; the Empress of Brazil ; the Queen of Spain; and the Queen of Bavária.

Now, remembering that, although the Grover & Baker Company is the lead. ing one, there are a dozen others approximating more or less nearly to it inextent of operations, and, if we combine them all in our calculations, we may obtain some idea of the astonishing magni tude of the Sewing Machine business. But a still more important aspect of the case is the beneficent mission it is performing in the myriad homes of our own and other lands. Lightning the cares of the household, taking upon itself the burden of the most exhaustive drudgery, it comes like a very angel of mercy into the domestic circle, shedding sun shine and happiness around it.

We wish we had room for the many expressions of thankfulness and satisfaction we have received from correspond. down a resolution endorsing President | ents relative to this valued "helpmeet. As it is, we can give but a single one :

cate folds of lace and cambric assume new beauty, and the stortest woolen a grace which adds a charm to its usefulress. Its swift, noiseless fingers are never tired, never weary, always ready to execute the will of their mistress. bowels. Under its influence order and neatness take the place of disorder and neglect, and grace and refinement find time and room to grow and expand in the humblest homes.

Its stitch is adapted to all kinds of work, the plainest as well as the finest, and every description of material used in a family, from lace to beaver cloth-It is also very elastic, and is acknowl. edged, for beauty and durability, to be superior to all others. Ladies say that Grover & Baker is "such a comfort, ' »because it never gets out of order, but, in its tireless activity, becomes brighter, more beautiful, and more efficient the more it is used. It has taken out more wrinkles, and beautified more women than the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers." It is the greatest lightner of household cares, and the richest domestic blessing of the nineteenth century. Ask any woman who uses one if it is not.-Home Journal.

QUITE CONCLUSITE. - A STORY is told of a clergyman who lived in Lowell, who was once charged with having violently dragged his wife from a revival meeting, and compelled her to go home with him. The clergyman let the story ren shead till he had a fair opportunity to give it a broadside. Upon being charged with the offence, he replied as follows : "In the first place, I never attempted to influence my wife in her views, nor her choice of a meeting. Secondly, my wife has not attended any of the revival meetings. In the third place, I have not attended, any of the meetings, for any purpose whatever. To conclude, neither my wife nor myself have any inclination to go to these meetings. Finally, I never had a wife."

The Louisville Journal having published a paragraph stating that Mr. and Mrs. Brewer, of Kentucky, have twenty-two children," a correspondent writes :- the remembrance of the above paragraph in your paper some time ago induces me to tell you of an old man whom we see coming to Knoxville about once a week. We call him Grandpa Davis. He is apward of ninety years old. His wife has given birth to twenty-nine children, twenty-eight of whom are living. They furnished the Union army in the late war with twenty-five recruits. Is there another man who deserves the appellation of "loyal" to a greater extent than Grandpa Davis? Does he not deserve a pension at the hands of a government to which he has contributed so largely to save.

PUBLIC HEALTH.-THE PRESS.-Advertising has been proncunced "undignified" by the medical faculty. A physician who advertises a valuable remedy to fifty people in his private practice would receive the cold shoulder from his professional brethren, should he make its merits known to millions through the business columns of a newspaper press. This may be "dignified,"-but is it benevolent, humane or just ? Whoever is fortunate enough to discover or invent anything that will prevent, or cure, or alleviate human sufwho were fast growing old and ugly, fering, is bound to make it known, through every channel of communication within his reach, to the general public. For many years the ments of Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters have thus been proclaimed to the world and multitudes have been restored to health, or saved from fatal maladies in consequence. As new facts have been developed in relation to the operation of this most pure and potent of all Stomachics and Alteratives, they have been stated in simple language to the people of many lands; and if the proprietors of the medicine have derived profit from their dissemination, thousands upon thousands of individuals have been benefitted thereby to an extent beyond all estimaate. In the West Indies, Canada, Australia and South America, Hostetter's Bitters are recognized as the sole specific for Dyspepsia, the best possible safeguard against epidemics, and the finest invigorant in cases of General Debility, and the only diffusive stimulant entirely free from noxious ingredients. м.
