

The Mariettian.

MARIETTA, PA.

Saturday Morning, May 26, 1866.

The Fredericksburg (Va.) Herald has the annexed curious statement: "We are informed of a singular case of change of color that is now going on in the person of a black man in Culpepper county, Va. Our informant has known the negro for fifteen years, and describes him to have been at one time as 'black as tar.' Within the last three months the negro has been gradually changing his skin. His hands are still dark, but from the wrists to the shoulders his arms are as fair as any white man's. His whole body is spotted, gradually changing its hue. It is a marvel in view of the fact that the negro has never had a day's sickness, and is healthy now."

The body of Preston King, who committed suicide in November last, was found in New York harbor on Monday. A cord was found attached to the shoulder and chest as if it had held a weight. It will be remembered, that Mr. King purchased a bag of shot on the morning of his suicide, and requested the dealer to put it into two packages for convenience of carrying. In the pockets of his clothes when found, were a pair of gold spectacles, a gold tobacco box, a pocket knife and a pocket book.

The Fall River (Mass.) News says: "Mr. Isaac Barker, of Tiverton, R. I., was in town lately wearing clothing with silver buttons over two hundred years old. In company with his brother, Peleg Barker, he owns a house in Pembroke, twelve miles from Plymouth, which is two hundred and thirty-nine years old. It is still inhabited, has always been in their family, and is believed to be the oldest house in the United States."

A Boston letter to the Chicago Tribune, under date of April 28th, says: "The widow of Edward W. Green, lately executed, was yesterday for the first time, informed of her husband's death. She was terribly affected. She says that many times within the last three weeks she has attempted to write to him, but a mysterious something prevented her putting pen to paper. She had not once suspected the truth."

An old resident of Mobile, named Perry, has just returned from a nine years' cruise, and finds his wife married to another man, and keeping house with the children of Perry. The wife repudiates the long lost husband, and instead of throwing open her arms and fainting, as is the custom of the country in such cases, she deliberately chucked her truant husband out of doors.

Dr. Henry Bryant, of Boston, has presented to the New England Natural History society a collection of nine thousand birds. The specimens formed the well known collection of LaFresnaye which was the most valuable private ornithological cabinet in Europe, and considerable opposition was manifested by the French government to its leaving that country.

A gentleman living in Norwich, New York, had his pocket picked thirty-three years ago of $360. "At intervals of thirteen, seventeen and three years he has received the whole amount back in mysterious installments by mail, with requests to forgive the theft. The robbed gentleman is now eighty-seven years old."

A cow died recently in Harkwick, Vt., from some mysterious cause. On examination her stomach was found to contain fifteen iron nails, fourteen pieces of stone of different sizes, five pieces of glass, a part of an earthen pitcher, besides a large quantity of smaller articles weighing nearly a pound.

A Portland steamer was found to be going astray on a recent trip from Boston, owing to the deviations of her compass. The deviations it was also found, was caused by the steel hoop skirt of a young lady who was in the pilot house, and on her retiring the compass resumed its proper position.

Information upon which full reliance can be placed proves that Andrew Johnson is resolved to remove General Howard, the Christian chief of the freedmen's bureau, if he can find an excuse for so doing.

In Fredonia, N. Y., the Health Board, in order to stir the people to action with regard to cleaning up, have posted the following notice: "The cholera is coming! By order of the committee."

A boy named Conrad Koeb, committed suicide in St. Louis, because he was chastised by his father in the presence of his sweetheart and other spectators.

Patent bone crushing machine. The

Horace Greeley urges everybody to "buy land." He says: "Land is still amazingly cheap in most parts of our country, and is not destined to remain so. Immigration is very heavy; we are all sick of war; and our population increases at a rate which will double it every twenty years. The common notion that we still have an enormous area of arable soil unappropriated is a mistake. West of Kansas and Nebraska—that is, over three hundred miles west of the Missouri—there is little good land. The central table-lands of our continent lie so high as to be cold and frosty, and in summer are parched by persistent, pitiless drought. Even were not the lack of timber a serious obstacle to settlement, not one acre in fifty could be rendered productive without irrigation and artesian wells, and these are very costly."

The Southern journals argue with immense energy that Congress has no right to keep out the Representatives of the South for an hour, because the Constitution says that "no State, without its consent shall be deprived of suffrage in the Senate." These gentlemen forget that the Southern States gave their consent to such a deprivation, in the most emphatic manner, more than five years ago, and that there is no conclusive evidence that they have yet properly recalled it.

The school law of the State makes it the duty of the school directors to publish an annual statement of the amount of money received and expended, and the amount due from collectors, and setting forth all the financial operations of the district in not less than ten handbills, to be put up in the most public place in the district. The statement must be published in a newspaper, if one is published in the district. In all other cases by handbills.

The coolest thing we have seen for a long time is the following passage from the Mobile Daily Times:

"The immense moral superiority of the South over the North has always been noted by all travelers. Their truly pious and sincere love of man, their tender care of orphans, contrasts most happily with the inhuman and heartless treatment by 'the Northern nabobs of the laboring classes.'"

The assistant commissioner of the freedmen's bureau for the State of Alabama has informed the Mayor of Selma, "that the chain gang, as a mode of punishment for the freedmen, must be discontinued; unless this is done the authorities will be proceeded against under the civil rights bill. The assistant commissioner is determined to put a stop to a punishment wherein so gross a distinction is made on account of color."

Some of the copperheads having boasted that Hon. Alexander Henry, ex-Mayor of Philadelphia, had consented to run against Hon. W. D. Kelley, for Congress in the fourth district as Johnson-policy man, a gentleman on the spot declared that Mr. Henry had positively assured him that he would consent to no such use of his name.

By a recent act of Legislature, all re-enlisted soldiers, in the late war, who did not receive their local bounty, at the time of re-enlistment, can now obtain the same, up to the amount of three hundred dollars, unless a special agreement was entered into by the parties for a less sum.

George Ward, the oldest Odd Fellow in the world, died recently at Preston, England. He was born in 1789, and joined the order of Odd Fellows in 1815. He was one of those who signed the first "dispensation" which came to America.

An infant was accidentally hung near Mahoney city lately, in consequence of its night slip catching on a peg as the child slid out of bed. When its mother awoke and discovered the situation of the child, it was suspended by the neck and dead.

The Tennessee House of Representatives has expelled James R. Hood, one of the absent members, charged with willfully absenting himself to prevent a quorum. When brought before the House he persistently refused to answer for so doing.

Pen, Paste and Scissors.

The Alexandria Gazette says a disturbance occurred at Leesburg, on Tuesday, in consequence of an attempt of the military guard there to take from Colonel Moseby, who was in town, his overcoat, which had on it some Confederate buttons, or was gray cloth or something of the kind. He refused to give it up, and mounted his horse to leave town, when he was pursued, and fred at by those who followed him. The next day this military company, it is said, were ordered from Leesburg.

The ex-rebel General Hays, of Louisiana, and J. B. Lafitte, ex-rebel agent in Europe, have been pardoned. So general and marked have become the pardons by the President of late, that nobody will be much surprised if a general pardon, except in a very few cases, is shortly proclaimed—and the rebels in all their pomp and defiance, with the blood of our sons, fathers, brothers, &c., still red upon their hands, will be seen strutting upon our streets.

A Tennessee, in London, being asked about the fertility of the soil of his State, declared that they "raised corn enough there to make whiskey for all the world, besides what is wasted for bread; and that the pumpkins grew so large it was customary to split a full-sized one in the middle and scoop out either half for a flat-boat, while the little ones made admirable canoes."

The bier on which Washington's remains were carried to the tomb, with many other relics which used to grace the museum at Alexandria, Virginia, but which disappeared at the beginning of the war, have been kept secreted from Government detectives and camp followers, and are nowhere to be found.

Mr. Durant, of Boston, formerly a partner of Rufus Choate, and one of the richest and most successful lawyers of that city, has left the bar for the pulpit. The late loss of an only son is said to have been the cause of this step. His preaching is reported to be very effective.

The merchants in Nashville, Tenn., have been notified to refrain from selling firearms and ammunition to negroes.

Five thousand persons are awaiting shipment to the United States from Ireland.

Gen. Scott paid a visit to West Point on Thursday.

A RECONSTRUCTED NEWSPAPER.—The Vicksburg Herald, which has special contract with the State Department for printing the United States laws passed during the last five years, and for which they received several thousand dollars, informs its readers in an editorial that the laws of this Congress must be held to be of no binding force. The same paper contains a notice of Gov. Humphreys, that all Confederate and State soldiers who are disabled, destitute, or need relief, will be cared for by forwarding their names to him. Colored Union troops get such treatment as was recently exhibited at Memphis, where their schools and churches were burned, and over 40 murdered.

Gen. Wise says that if the South had succeeded; all the Union men in that section would have been disfranchised forever, and the same thing is proved by the evidence of other prominent rebels equally frank and truthful. Why, then, should the Confederates now complain of the temporary disfranchisement to which it is proposed to subject them?

A lady asked a noted doctor if he did not think the small bonnets the ladies wore, had a tendency to produce a congestion of the brain. "Oh, no," replied he, "the ladies who have brains don't wear them."
