HEADLEY'S HISTORY OF THE GREAT REBELLION!

THE late rebellion stands out peculiar and extraordinary in human events; and the magnificent scale upon which the war has been conducted, constitute it one of the grandest and most brilliant chapters of the world's history.

Mr. Headley, of all writers, is perhaps best qualified to portray the the stupendous feat-ures of the mighty contest. His previous works on less momentous themes have placed him in the first position, as a graphic and pow-erful deleniator of war scenes and characters, erful decentator of your scenes and the thereters, and the magnitude and grandeur of the present subject, impart to his pen the fire and vigor of a yet nore exacted inspiration, and fur nish ample scope for the highest exhibition of his peculiar genius for military description. Under his powerful pen the stirring scenes of the War puss in review with the vividness and distinctness of a present and living reality; while his great talent for condensation enawhile his great talent for condensation enables him to embody everything of importance in a compass just suited to the public want. From no other source can so clear and comprehensive an impression of the grand march of events be obtained, so easily and agreeably as from Mr. Headley's work.

Other histories have been issued before Grant's Report and other official documents were submitted to the government, and there-were submitted to the government, and therefore unreliable. Ar. Headley has delayed the completion of this till these documents so esential to authenticity and correctness could
