

The Mariettian.

MARIETTA, PA.

Saturday Morning, September 8, 1866.

FOR GOVERNOR, Major General JOHN W. GEARY, OF CUMBERLAND COUNTY.

The Convention of Southern Loyalists assembled in Philadelphia on Monday, and the day was a gala one. There was a profuse display of bunting throughout the city. The Southern delegates were received in Independence square, and were escorted to the Union League House by a large procession composed of the Boys in Blue, Union League, National Union Club, freemen and citizens generally.

A condensed synopsis of President Johnson's speech at Delmonico's, in New York, of 478 words, was telegraphed to Reuter's European Press Association, on Thursday, by the Atlantic Cable at an expense of $5019 in gold.

The President has directed a pardon to be made out for Charles M. Conrad, of Louisiana, a member of the rebel congress. He was Secretary of War of the United States under the administration of Fillmore.

A daughter of a Chicago editor, a few nights ago, walked in her sleep out of a front window in the fourth story of her father's boarding house, and strange to say, she was only slightly injured.

Gov. Ward, of New Jersey, has called an extra session of the Legislature for the 10th instant, to act upon the Constitutional Amendment and elect a United States Senator.

Henry J. Raymond, of the New York Times, has been expelled from the National Union Republican Committee, for having deserted the principles of the party, and Gov. Marcus L. Ward, of New Jersey, chosen chairman of the committee in his stead.

Among the strange "inventions" in France which have been brought to light by the recent discussion on the needle-gun, is one which fires twenty balls a minute, and has a musical box in the butt; thus doing away with the necessity of regimental bands.

A gang of ruffians made a cowardly attack upon a colored camp meeting near Baltimore, on Thursday night. Several negroes were wounded, and a white man was shot dead while praying.

The gallant General Sickles refuses the use of his name to the Johnson Soldiers' gathering at Cleveland. The General don't intend to walk into the rebel sympathizing camp on crutches.

There was a marriage at Deerfield, Connecticut, a few days since, of Henry W. Harley, of Montague, a sixty four year old white man, to Amanda Jigger, an eighteen-year-old negro girl.

H. N. Northern, of Vermont, was a delegate to the late Johnson Convention. During the last Presidential election he said: "I had rather see Jeff Davis President of the United States than to see Abe Lincoln re-elected. I had rather risk the destinies of this country in Davis' hands than in Lincoln's. I think him ten times more honest, and a man of ten times more brains. I think him (Lincoln) the d—est traitor to the Constitution that ever was."

A woman recently alighted from a train of cars just as it was starting from Keokuk, Iowa, leaving a little baby on the platform. The conductor discovering the little passenger, went back to the town, where the mother was found. Upon being charged with deserting the child, she protested against any such imputation, and really couldn't tell how she came to drop it there.

Mrs. Samuel Hoar, of Concord, Mass., died on Wednesday. She was the last surviving child of Roger Sherman, Her age was 85. Judge Hoar, her husband, who died about five years ago, was well known as having been sent away from Charleston, S. C., some years since for attempting to defend the rights of Massachusetts sailors before the courts of that State.

During the late camp meeting, in Worcester township, an owl occupied a seat upon the limb of a tree immediately over the heads of the audience. He came there the day the meeting commenced, remaining there every day for a week, and left when the meeting closed. He frequently joined in the singing and occasionally manifested his disapprobation by unearthly hoots.

Two conventions assembled on the same day in Philadelphia—Monday last—the loyal Northern and the loyal Southern. James Speed, Attorney General under Johnson, of Kentucky, was present of the Southern. The Philadelphia papers say nothing has near equalled it in its display since the arrival of General Lafayette, forty-two years ago.

An English lord, wishing to do a little more than any of his brother aristocrats had done before him, went to a telegraph office in London, and had his cigar lighted by an electric spark from Healt's Content, sent through the Atlantic cable. This cost him 200 guineas, or $1050 in gold.

The leading rebels in the lower counties of Maryland are making an effort to secure the release of Dr. Mudd, now in confinement at the Dry Tortugas. As soon as the President returns they are to make application to him for his pardon.

The Johnsonian tour drags its slow length along. Andrew speaks his pieces wherever a crowd can be collected, and is always ready to inform his hearers that he has done his duty, and that Congress is a revolutionary body.

J. Lawrence Getz, Esq., editor of the Reading Gazette, has been nominated by the Democrats of Berks county, for Congress, beating Mr. Ancona, the present member, after a sharp contest, by twelve majority.

It is now estimated that the customs receipts for the current year will reach over two hundred millions. At this rate the public debt will continue to be largely reduced, or the revenue rates reduced.

Some time since a gentleman removed to California from Sparta, Ill., taking with him a favorite dog. The dog lately made his way back to his old home, having crossed the plains from California on foot.

An old German named Vonden Busch, died lately of cholera in St. Louis, and was buried by subscription. An examination of his clothes after burial disclosed $9000 in United States bonds.

J. S. Dunham, editor of the Van Buren (Ark.) Press (pro-rebel) has just been appointed by President Johnson a Collector of Internal Revenue, vice a Republican, removed.

Hon. Hannibal Hamlin, Vice President of the United States from March 4, 1861, to March 4, 1865, has resigned the post of Collector of the Port of Boston.

George H. Pendleton, has been nominated by the Copper-Johnson convention of the first district of Ohio, for Congress.

George Trussell, owner of the celebrated trotting horse Dexter, was shot dead in Chicago, on the 2d inst., by a woman.

Thomas W. Key, who died near Newbern, left his property to two former slaves.

Oak Hill, Va., formerly the residence of Chief Justice Marshall, has been sold for $32,500.

On the 18th of August President Johnson made a short speech to the Committee appointed by the National Union Convention to present him with a report of their doings in Philadelphia. After an introductory speech by Rev. J. Johnson, of Maryland, the President responded, in the language of a contemporary:—"It is much to be regretted that the President's reply was not in as good taste as Mr. Johnson's address. The egotism of his speech was very remarkable. It scarcely fills a column; and yet, in that brief space, he refers to himself, as counted by the reporter of the Boston Daily Advertiser, "one hundred and twenty-six times in twenty minutes, as follows: twice as the "humble individual"; three as "the Executive"; thrice as "myself"; eleven times as "me"; twenty-nine times as "my"; and seventy-eight times as simple "I."

Thus it is. The "I's" have it always. What a pity that his "accidency" could not have an "eye single" to the true glory of his country, to say nothing of his reputation as a man of truth, patriotism, honor, common sense, decency, and political sagacity.

Mr. Doollittle, on assuming the chief stool in the Philadelphia wigwag, characterized its collected braves as "a body greater in numbers and in weight of character and brain than ever assembled on this continent under one roof." The Senator's rhetoric is obscure, but his modesty charming. Each Kickapoo rising in war council to address his filthy and squalid fellows invariably declares his tribe the largest and most powerful nation on the globe, adding the inevitable sequence, "Big Injun me!"

A terrible tragedy occurred last Sunday in Queen Anne's county, Maryland, at a place called "Hatton's When and Where." It seems that a man named Cooper, a rebel, shot and killed two men, named James F. Johnson and Josiah Ellingsworth. Both died instantly. The affair took place at a funeral and jealousy is the alleged cause. All of the young men named were of the aristocracy of the region, and were secessionists.

As a little boy and girl were riding together in Taunton, Massachusetts, a day or two since, suddenly the horse switched the reins out of the lad's hands, and set off on a run. The little girl jumped out; but the boy, only eight years old, climbed over the dasher, reached the back strap of the harness, and having worked himself along the shaft, mounted the horse, and by means of a check rein stopped him.

R. King Outler, and other members of the late Free State Convention, have made affidavits before United States Commissioner Husted, at New Orleans, charging Mayor Monroe and Sheriff Hayes with being principals in or accessories to the late riots in that city. The latest reports are to the effect that one hundred persons were killed and three hundred wounded during the riot.

A little girl near Milton, Pa., was sent to the fields, a few days since to carry lunch to the field hands. Remaining away longer than was necessary, search was made for her, when she was found strangled to death by a black snake. The reptile had coiled itself several times about her neck, and had to be cut in two before he would release his hold.

In New York the offence of watering milk is, by statute, made punishable by fine or imprisonment, and in some parts of the city pains are taken to enforce the law in this particular. On Tuesday three milk dealers were arraigned before one of the police justices, and fined fifty dollars each for watering their milk. It is not in New York alone that milkmen need looking after.

The trial by jury is a right which every citizen of the United States has claimed as his prerogative. But it is of much greater importance to those who have been suffering for years from Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Flatulency and general debility, that Ose's Dyspepsia Cure will certainly cure them, and the proprietors guarantee it in every instance.

Two elk recently brought to Troy, N. Y., from the plains, by a cavalryman, were turned into the park adjoining the court house, where they attracted much attention. The next day the female made a plunge through the window and lighted on the floor of the Justice's Court, much to the consternation of the court.

No stronger comment on the character of the late Copper Johnson Convention is needed, than the fact that the name of the saviour of his country, the mourned Abraham Lincoln, was not once mentioned—not even a formal tribute to his memory—not the slightest recognition of his services!

The Augusta (Ga.) Constitutionalist speaks of the stars and stripes as a "flag all over befouled with wrong, and a backguard despotism that daily affronts God by the villainies it does his poor and persecuted people."

A Norwegian woman in Chicago committed a hasty marriage on the 15th inst., and on the 17th committed suicide.

News in Brief.

A Canadian paper makes the following appeal: "To those indebted to us we make our appeal for assistance. Job's turkey was a millionaire compared with our present depressed treasury. To-day, if the price of salt was two cents a barrelfull, we could not buy enough to pickle a jay-bird."

Hon. Simon Cameron, formerly Secretary of War under President Lincoln has taken strong grounds against President Johnson, whom he pronounces, without reserve, "a bad man, faithless to his promises, and an enemy to his country."

Gov. Swann of Maryland is appointing a number of rebel registers, under the election law in that State, which was intended to keep rebels from voting. Gov. Swann was elected as a Union man but has joined the Johnson deserters.

Senator Henry S. Laus, of Indiana, in a recent speech, referring to the Philadelphia Convention, said that its platform was too near right to be supported by the rebels, and too near wrong to be supported by loyal men.

A St. Louis Miss of fourteen eloped with a young Italian, and cheated a minister into marrying them by placing a slip of paper with eighteen written on it in her shoe, and when questioned as to her age, saying she was over eighteen.

Mating has been laid down to deaden the sound of the sentries' tread, at Fort-ress Monroe, that the repose of Jeff Davis may not be disturbed. A surer, and more righteous plan would be to deaden Jeff Davis and disperse with the sentries.

The New York World hopes that the President will not transfer Secretary Stanton to some diplomatic post, so that he may get out of the country without undergoing "personal chastisement." Here is a loud call for another Bully Brooks or Rousseau.

On inquiry we find it is not true, as generally reported, that the President intends to resign, on the ground that he was not elected by the whole people of the United States, and that he is Executive of only a part of the United States!

In Iowa, recently, two husbands traded wives, one giving the other $1,500 to boot. The citizens didn't like that style and drove the "boot" from the county with his new wife. The other couple yet remain.

Mallory of Kentucky, a delegate to the Philadelphia Convention, in a recent speech at Bowling Green, declared himself in favor of the repudiation of the national debt.

In an old family bible in Connecticut the record of a birth is entered in this wise: "Elizabeth Jones, born on the 20th of November, 1785, according to the best of her recollections."

Since Colonel Forney has determined to canvass Pennsylvania we suggest (subject to the approval of the President) that he now be designated as the canvassback duck.

Gen. Cass' mansion in Detroit, Mich., has recently been sold for $31,000 and the people there are very much relieved on hearing that it is not to be removed, as was reported.

Rev. Wm. Wilson, D. D., was recently fined $40 before the Cincinnati police court for maintaining a nuisance in permitting about thirty families to live in the basement of his church.

A Belfast (Me.) paper chronicles the death of an elephant in that city, and says he left no estate to be administered upon—his trunk had nothing in it.

A man who was freezing ice cream at a picnic near Monticello, Ill., the other day, dropped a revolver from his pocket which, exploding, killed him.
