

The Mariettian.

MARIETTA, PA.

Saturday Morning, October 27, 1866.

The household effects left at the Arlington Mansion by R. E. Lee, late rebel general, or rather the fragments remaining of them, were, on Wednesday delivered to the party authorized to receive them. This was done, the National Intelligencer says, under the order of the President. It appears that nearly everything of any value has been stolen and many valuable heirlooms, including some of the family portraits, had been purloined. The portraits taken from the frames were packed in boxes, and stored in the upper loft of the mansion for safety in 1861. These boxes had been broken open and everything of real value taken away, and letters and private papers scattered over the loft.

In Detroit, on Saturday, a man 38 years of age, applied to a justice, in company with a girl of eighteen, to be married, and on inquiry stated that he already had a wife, but that she had gone off with a younger man. Being informed that he could not be again married before obtaining a divorce, he quickly said that there would be no trouble on that score, as he had sold his wife to her paramour. The magistrate endeavored to find out the price paid, but could only elicit the fact that he "didn't get much for her as she wasn't worth a great deal, but was a poor sort of a wife."

Protecting the toes of children's shoes from wear by Metal Tips, has proved a most important and useful invention. But until lately a great mistake has been made in applying them chiefly to the coarser grades of shoes. For the higher the cost of the shoe the more there is saved by protecting the toe from wear, which can only be done by a Metal-Tip. Genteel Metal-Tipped shoes are now being made and are worn by the best families in the city. Manufacturers could not have conferred a greater public favor than by supplying this great want.—Boston Journal.

Gen. G. W. Custer has written a letter in which he says: "Copperheads who opposed the government during the rebellion are worse than those rebels who had the courage to fight for their cause." He says "he can pardon the rebels who fought against him, but no soldier can ever pardon those men in the North who opposed the nation and their own States." He says he could not vote for such a man, and could not advise any soldier to do so. They ought never to be forgotten.

An accident on the Pennsylvania R. R. happened sometime during Saturday night last, between Spruce Creek and Newton Hamilton. Seventeen cars and their contents were wrecked, the engineer slightly scalded and the fireman instantly killed. The latter was not rescued from the wreck until sometime during Sunday forenoon. The accident was caused by running over a cow and upsetting the engine.

Man has not yet exhausted his ingenuity in making animals work for him. The Australian papers speak of a colonist who has put a kangaroo to work. A machine is put in motion by the animal—continually springing up. It works at about half horse power, and turns a grinding stone, chaff cutter, bean mill, turp cutter, and a washing machine, and all at the same time. The contrivance also lifts water separately for irrigating the garden.

A carefully revised list of the passengers and crew of the steamship Evening Star shows the following as the number on board. Officers and crew 59 persons; cabin passengers (including Alhaja's opera troupe and Spalding & Bidwell's circus company, about 80 persons.) 116; steerage passengers, 53; Total 278. Of these it is probable that 250 were lost.

A Cincinnati letter says: "Hogs large enough to be fattened this year, are in good demand, and bring good prices. The number of hogs next year will be double that of this year, because nearly every farmer has a lot of fine young pigs. They are much cheaper than last year, and six cents a pound, against twelve cents last year, is all they will bring."

The French Empress presented to the Imperial Library of Paris a large Bible, in two volumes, of the thirteenth century. It is written on vellum, contains many valuable marginal notes, is illustrated in a very curious and exquisite manner, and is altogether a splendid specimen of old works of this kind. It was recently brought from Arabia.

A fearful tragedy was enacted at Medina, Lenawee county, Michigan, on the 4th inst. A woman named Simms, wife of a farm laborer, took her four children to a barn and cut all of their throats, and then her own. Three of the children and the mother are dead. The fourth child cannot recover.

The Christian Advocate and Journal states that "from $2,000,000 to $2,500,000 worth of tobacco is annually consumed by the members of the Methodist Church in the United States." This is between $6,000 and $7,000 a day for the gratification of a sensual habit.

The Paris letter writers, who have shown so much anxiety about the condition of Napoleon's health, are now expressing fears for the life of the young Prince Imperial, his son. They say he is singularly delicate, and that his complexion alarms people who remember that his aunt died of consumption.

Strauss, the celebrated musician, has paid $300,000 for the right of giving monster concerts at the Elysian Fields, Paris, during the Exposition. He offered Verdi $20,000 and Rossini $40,000 to direct the concerts, but the great composers indignantly rejected his offer.

The new Germanic Confederation, over which Prussia enjoys military and political supremacy, can raise an effective military force of 1,116,000 men. Of these 650,000 belong to the regular armies, and 466,000 to the "Landwehr," or reserves.

Louis Napoleon, it seems, does not trust his precious body alone and unprotected. His secret police are never far away from him, and two of them, quiet and in citizen's dress, follow him at a short distance when he goes out to walk.

Harry Gilmor, the raider, who took a roundabout way to enter Washington during the war, went there on Friday, direct from Baltimore. He asks pardon and there is no doubt that he will get it.

It is ascertained by the cholera returns in London that the cases were always heavier on Mondays and Tuesdays than on any other days, owing to great drunkenness which prevailed on Saturday night, often extending over Monday morning.

Hon. Thomas Williams, a member of the present Congress, and re-elected by an increased majority in Allegheny county, pledged himself publicly that, in case he was re-elected, he would prefer charges of impeachment against Andrew Johnson.

A little girl in the employ of the Wolcottville (Conn.) Manufacturing Company possesses wonderful arithmetical powers. She counts 2000 percussion caps and puts them in twenty boxes (100 in each) in one minute, and never makes a mistake.

At Berea, Ohio, a train ran into the car which had been specially assigned to General Butler, his wife and daughter, and they were thrown violently upon the floor, but received no serious injuries.

The New York Tribune, speaking of the vote of that city in connection with its welfare, makes this astounding statement:—"The ignorance, the vice, the brutality here massed are fearfully powerful. The Citizens' Association estimates that sixty thousand voters in this city who, in one way or another, have a personal interest in misgovernment. There is no reason to expect that the great army of thieves and law-defying ruffians who burrow here will vote for good government; since such a government would soon stop their career. And the multitudes who live by pandering to others' vice and debauchery are natural enemies to good government. The dance houses, dens of lewdness, and law defying grogeries of our city (and their name is Legion) are nurseries and recruiting stations of Sham Democracy. And so long as nearly a full half of the voters of our city have a personal interest in misgovernment, we cannot expect to carry majorities for any organization substantially identical in ideas and objects with the Republican Union party.

The rebel Gen. Forrest, at a recent meeting of confederate soldiers in Memphis to respond to the sentiments of the Cleveland Convention, thus heartily endorsed the President: "He thought it the duty of the South to stand by President Johnson, so long as he makes the Constitution his guide. He would not stand by any man or any party longer than this. He was glad to see so large a number of those at the meeting whom he had been associated with in the army. They were together then as they were now, for the maintenance of the rights and the vindication of their character. It behooved every Southern soldier to stand by President Johnson."

Three thousand millions of debt, half a million of soldiers' graves, two and a half millions of the people clothed in garments of mourning, surely are solemn monuments of the earnest purpose, of a nation to save its life. A "policy" that will waste this sacrifice—a political "policy" that will voluntarily surrender the fruits of such a costly war and give to the rebels the advantages and power they failed to conquer by arms—such a policy, argued to taxpayers, cannot but be accepted as treason—urged upon by the relatives of the slain, must be felt to be blasphemy—pronounced in the hearing of the world, surely will be considered the phenomenon of insanity or idiocy.

A private letter from Mayport Mills, Florida, says that Gouldsby, the second mate of the Evening Star, has arrived there, having left the steamer with a boat load of ladies. All but two were lost before getting near shore. In landing, the latter were lost—ones named Annie, from Rhode Island, and the other Rosa Howard, of New York. Both became insane from want and starvation. The bodies were washed ashore. That of the latter was nearly devoured by sharks. The mate is barely alive.

In a suit recently tried in the Snyder county court, in which Solomon Books was plaintiff, and the Pennsylvania Railroad Company defendants, the jury rendered a verdict in favor of the plaintiff in the sum of $13,900. George Peabody, the eminent London banker, visited Philip's Academy, N. H., on Wednesday, and briefly addressed the boys. Letty Charter, a colored woman, died in St. Louis the other day, at the good old age of 96. SYMPTOMS.

The symptoms of Catarrh are at first very slight. Persons find that they have a cold that they have frequent attacks, and are more sensitive to the changes of temperature. In this condition the nose may be dry, or a slight discharge, thin and acrid, afterwards thick and adhesive, may ensue. As the disease becomes chronic, the discharges are increased in quantity and changed in quality; they are now thick and heavy, and are hawked or coughed off. The secretions are offensive, causing a bad breath; the voice thick and nasal; the eyes are weak; the sense of smell is lessened or destroyed; deafness frequently takes place.

Another common and important symptom of Catarrh is, that the person is obliged to clear his throat in the morning of a slimy mucus, which has fallen from the head during the night. When this takes place, the person may be sure that his disease is an inflammation of the throat, and should lose no time in arresting it.
