

The Mariettian.

MARIETTA, PA.

Saturday Morning, November 24, 1886.

A horrible murder was committed in Augusta, Illinois, last week. Jesse Rose was killed by his son James, aged nineteen, who afterwards confessed his guilt and declared that his mother had instigated the deed.

With the opening of the fashionable season, says the New York Post, an epidemic of marriage has set in. The extraordinary activity observable in the great jewelry stores on Broadway, the fancy goods establishments in Maiden Lane, at the milliners' and mantua makers' shops, and in the dry goods trade, is accounted for by the happy conductors of these places on the ground that matrimonial contracts, and costly wedding gifts are the prevailing fashions of the fall.

An editor in Illinois recently saw a patent clothes washer. It was the shape of a wheelbarrow. The revolutions of the wheel put in motion a crank that moved a plunger that pumped the clothes. The body of the box was mounded where the load is in a wheelbarrow. On the top of the box was a wringer. A lady can put her clothes in her machine, pick it up and go out calling; the longer her list of friends, the further she will have to wheel her burden, and the better her clothes will be washed.

The Richmond Times of Saturday says, "A few days since, a heavy draft tug boat, while engaged in a race with another tug to City Point, in quest of towage, succeeded in making a safe passage through 'Butler's Folly,' more familiarly known as Dutch Gap. By this feat she gained six miles over her competitor, and reached the Point in time to secure the whole job of towage up to the city. We learn that a project is on foot to improve this canal, and, if possible, make it navigable for vessels of all sizes."

A Chicago despatch states that on Thursday a man, whose name is not given, residing in Manchester, Iowa, murdered his family and then himself. Returning home from his business, he seized his gun, went into the yard and shot his wife, then shot his child and maimed his wife's mother, after which he cut his own throat, causing instant death. Jealousy is said to have been the cause.

A man named Dudley was recently the victim of a singular accident at Dixfield, Maine. He was pulling stumps in a field with the aid of a machine, when a hook gave way, and flying, struck him in the breast and passed clear through him, killing him instantly.

It is now stated that General Hartranft declines the position tendered him by the President, as Colonel in the Regular Army, and will serve out the term for which he was elected as Adjutant-General of this State.

Rev. Mr. Spurgeon, in a recent sermon, characterized High Churchism as "Bastard Popery, and Broad Churchism as 'dishonest infidelity.'"

Massachusetts sent more representative recruits to the army than any other seven States in the Union.

REPRESENTATIVE RECRUITS.—It will be remembered that under the conscription law, persons who were or who were not liable to military duty, could place in the field "representative recruits." By the provost marshal general's report it appears that the whole number of these recruits placed in the field was 1,202, of which Massachusetts furnished the greatest number, 586. Pennsylvania furnished 135; New York 119; Ohio 122; Illinois 90; Maine 65; New Hampshire 39; Wisconsin 28; Indiana and Kentucky, each 21; Iowa 19; Vermont 16; Michigan 15; Maryland 7; Kansas 8; New Jersey and Connecticut each 6; Minnesota 5; Rhode Island 2; and Missouri 1. Among the persons who furnished representative recruits were Edward Everett; Prof. Longfellow; Prof. Agassiz; Prof. James Russell Lowell and R. H. Dana.

NEGRO SUFFRAGE.—A special despatch to The Press states that the Chicago Times, the leading Democratic paper of Illinois and the whole Northwest, has a leading editorial, in its issue of November 12th, repudiating President Johnson and advocating negro suffrage. It agrees that if the negro controversy can be settled, there will be some hope for the Democracy, and for this reason, advises that all claimed for the negro should be conceded by the Democrats at the North and the rebels at the South. It says that negro suffrage is inevitable, and that whether it is universal or qualified depends altogether upon the promptness or otherwise, with which the Democratic party shall move with reference to it.

There are seven hundred and fifty paper mills in active operation in the United States. They produce two hundred and seventy million pounds of paper, which, at an average of ten cents per pound, would be worth $27,000,000. As it requires about a pound and one-half of rags to make one pound of paper there are consumed by these mills four hundred million pounds in a single year. If we estimate the rags to cost four cents per pound there would be a profit of $11,000,000 in this branch of business.

It was reported before the late elections—how truly we cannot vouch—Mr. Seward had confessed that if the Republicans carried New York he should consider the result a direct intimation that he had forfeited the confidence of the people who had honored and sustained him throughout his long career, that it was his duty to seek his retirement of private life. Well, the intimation has been given. See if Mr. Seward heeds it.

In a speech at Newburyport (Mass.) the night preceding the election, General Butler ridiculed the idea that the impeachment of the President would produce anarchy and civil war. He said no more disturbance would be created by it "than would arise from the trial of a drunken tailor by a police judge." Alluding to the Constitutional Amendment, he said the South must accept it speedily, to avoid the imposition of much harder terms.

At Cold Water, Mich., on Saturday evening last, Ebenezer Leach shot his wife and a young man named George O. Brown, killing both. Leach was a worthless fellow, and had separated from his wife some years ago. She was supporting herself by keeping a millinery store. Being afraid of her husband, she asked Brown to escort her to her father's. On the way they were killed. She was thirty-four years old, and Brown eighteen. Both were highly respected.

The Lindner gun which has just been tried in the presence of the Emperor of Austria and a special commission, has given the following results:—In the space of five minutes a single gun fired forty shots, which all perforated an oak plank an inch and a half thick, at a distance of two hundred paces. The Prussian needle musket, at two or three hundred yards, only inflicted wounds which were cured in three weeks.

It is now said that Maximilian has not abdicated the throne of Mexico, but only taken a sea voyage for the benefit of his health. The Empress Charlotte is recovering. Her reading is confined to the new testament and works of travel—no newspapers.

A FAREWELL SERMON.—The Rev. Dr. James Priestly, recently suspended from his relations with the United Presbyterian Church on charges of cruelty to his wife and family, indecent and blasphemous language, and maintaining improper relations with females, delivered a short farewell address to his congregation, in which, while disclaiming complaints against the action of the Presbytery, who acted upon the positive testimony of three witnesses, while the testimony in his behalf of his aged father and brother, and affectionate children was only negative and necessarily of no avail, he defied the world to prove that he was guilty of indecent and vulgar language, which he abhorred above all things, and thanked God he had not been found guilty of adultery. The sentence of suspension did not affect his relations as pastor of the church, as any dissolution must be at the request of his congregation. He asked them not to act hastily but thoughtfully and prayerfully, and prayed to God that he might be allowed to remain here to live down the calumny and reproach heaped upon him. This was the last time he would appear in the pulpit until the suspension was removed. The congregation were visibly affected, the Doctor having still friends and adherents among them. Mrs. Priestly has petitioned for a divorce.

Frederick Theodore Frelinghuysen has been appointed U. S. Senator in place of Mr. Wright, deceased. This is the third Frelinghuysen who has represented the State of New Jersey in the United States Senate. The first was Frederic, of revolutionary fame, who is believed to have killed the Hessian commander, Col. Kahl, at the battle of Trenton, who was made a Major General by Washington in 1790, and who was elected United States Senator in 1793 holding the office for three years only, when he resigned on account of ill health. The second of the name was Theodore Frelinghuysen, who was Senator from New Jersey, from 1826 was subsequently Chancellor of the University of New York and was a candidate for the Vice Presidency in 1844, with Henry Clay.

A correspondent of the Scranton Republican, writing from Elk county, says: "The banks of the streams in this section are covered with perhaps the best pine in the State, which is cut and peeled and put in the stream during the winter, and in the summer run, to Williamsport and there made into lumber. Perhaps Clearfield and Elk alone furnish fifty millions of pine every year. There is a great demand for choppers here, and wages range from thirty to forty-five dollars per month and board."

Cyrus W. Field has twice failed—once in 1857, and again in 1860—both times from the effects of commercial panics, superadded to his investments in the Atlantic cable scheme. His creditors of 1857 he subsequently paid in full and he is now engaged in the same service towards those of 1860, the successful laying of the cable having put him in funds. The amount he is now thus disbursing is about $200,000.

Among the new inventions is a button which is fastened to cloth with out thread. It is said to consist solely of a button with a wire, to be inserted into the cloth like a cork screw, and then pressed down flat, so as to form a ring to hold the button to its place. As this invention will enable men to keep the buttons on their shirts, it is calculated to do away with wives altogether.

Special Notices.—Pittsburgh, May 10th, 1866. Messrs. Hostetter & Smith: GENTLEMEN:—During a visit to the West, last fall, I contracted chills and fever, which brought me to my bed, and finally terminated in typhoid fever, and confined me to my room for several months, during which time I was physically so prostrated that I almost despaired of ever recovering my health; having almost entirely lost my appetite for days, not being able to eat a morsel, added to which I was distressed with a reeling sensation in my head, and passed many sleepless nights—all from debility caused by my prostrate condition, brought about by fever. At this stage of my condition a friend recommended me to use your celebrated Stomach Bitters, but being morally opposed to the use of stimulants in any form, I at first declined, but afterwards yielded my prejudices, and after taking the medicine for several weeks, my appetite returned, and with it I am rapidly regaining my former strength and vigor. My sleep (from the loss of which I have suffered much) has never been better than it is now, and the reeling sensation (before alluded to) has entirely left me. My bowels which were much constipated and irregular, are now quite natural, and, in fact, I am glad to say that I feel myself a new man, and tender you this testimonial of my appreciation of your valuable preparation in order that others, suffering as I have, may avail themselves of its virtues, which prejudice kept me from enjoying for so long a period. I may also add that my physician, after seeing the beneficial effect of your Bitters on me, recommended that I use them regularly. Yours, very respectfully, E. BOURNE, 45 Market-st.

A HUSBAND.—How often we hear this expression from persons reading advertisements of Patent Medicines, and in nine cases out of ten they may be right. It is over 19 years since I introduced my medicine, the Venetian Liniment to the public. I had no money to advertise it, so I left it for sale with a few druggists and storekeepers through a small section of country, many taking it with great reluctance; but I told them to let any one have it, and if it did not do all I stated on my pamphlet, no one need pay for it. In some stores two or three bottles were taken on trial by persons present. I was, by many, thought crazy, and that would be the last they would see of me. But I knew my medicine was no humbug. In about two months I began to receive orders for more Liniment, some calling it my valuable Liniment, who had refused to sign a receipt when I left it at their store. Now my sales are millions of bottles yearly, and all for cash. I warrant it superior to any other medicine for the cure of Croup, Diarrhea, Dysentery, Colic, Vomiting, Spasms, and Sea sickness, as an internal remedy. It is perfectly innocent to take internally, see each accompanying each bottle, and externally, for Chronic Rheumatism, Headache, Mumps, Frost-bitten Feet, Bruises, sprain, Old Sores, Swellings, Sore Throats, &c., &c. Sold by all the Druggists, Depot 56 Cortlandt street, N. Y.
