

The Mariettian

MARIETTA, PA.

Saturday Morning, June 1, 1897.

The Des Moines (Iowa) Register comes pretty near knowing of an expression of political opinion by General Grant. Not long since its informant was the occupant of a seat in a railway car directly behind Generals Grant and Stoneman. During the journey an individual in the car got intensely excited on the subject of politics, and in the hearing of nearly all the passengers was cutting up Andrew Johnson as he deserved. General Grant listened with rapt attention to his inflammatory denunciation, and in the most exciting portion of it turned his head slowly toward Stoneman, and winked.

A monument is to be erected in honor of George Peabody, in London, and will have upon it his statue. At a recent meeting of merchants and business men it was determined to erect it in the centre of the large open pavement in the rear of the London Merchants' Exchange, and the meeting declared it was to be a testimony of the deep feeling of gratitude entertained by the citizens of London towards Mr. Peabody for his munificent donations for the benefit of the London poor. The Prince of Wales heads the list of subscribers.

The bankrupt law will go into operation this day (June first). Under it, imprisonment for debt ceases through out all the States and Territories. By it all stay laws, preferences, voluntary agreements, and secret attachments are set aside. Five hundred dollars' worth of household furniture, the wearing apparel of each family, and such other property as is by law exempted in the different States, can be held by the debtors.

The Democracy are congratulating themselves on their solid column of seventy one thousand voters in Kentucky. The country will be apt to remember that Kentucky sent just about seventy-one thousand muskets into the Confederate army.

Mayor Heath, of New Orleans, has issued a proclamation based on the opinion of the City Attorney, announcing that he has instructed the police of the city to prevent all persons from intruding into any store, shop or other place of business conducted by private individuals, against the wish of the owners or keepers thereof.

Helen Doe, aged 35 years, a lunatic, died at Blackwell's Island, New York, from the effect of scalds. On Saturday afternoon she was found in the tank room standing in the boiler, which was then nearly half full of boiling water. She was taken out terribly scalded, and lived until Sunday. It is supposed that she deliberately stepped into the boiling water.

A Philadelphia copperhead, to give practical evidence of his hatred of "niggers," the other day crept stealthily up to John Howard, a poor black man, who was mixing lime in South street, above Fifteenth, and threw him headforemost into the seething pool. The miserable victim suffered fearful torture. The lime destroyed his sight, burned his skin and hair, and inflicted upon him fearful torture.

It has been discovered that a party of southern rebels who were in Washington after the surrender of Lee negotiating their pardons, were at the same time engaged in an effort to induce the Emperor Napoleon to aid them, promising to renew the rebellion with vigor.

The student at the Michigan University who made the largest subscription to the monumental fund of deceased Union soldiers from Michigan was an ex-Confederate officer.

James Myers, who killed a man in a saloon at Amoskeag, N. H., by striking him on the head with a chair, was convicted at Amherst on Friday of manslaughter, and sentenced to seven years in the State Prison.

Jefferson Davis is reported to have lost heavily by the failure of Fraser, Trenholm, & Co., the blockade-running, pirate-trading brokers of Liverpool.

Under the new Jury law, passed at the late session of the Legislature, Jurors are to receive $2.50 a day for their services, and mileage at the rate of 4 cents a mile.

Twenty thousand dollars worth of goods are annually purloined from the counters of A. T. Stewart's establishment, by professional shop lifters.

During the past year a large hotel has been built in Georgetown, D. C., which is about to be opened under the auspices of no less a noted personage than Robert J. Walker. He is to be assisted in this new business by a son and son-in-law, and their intention is to make the house the most quiet, comfortable and fashionable home for families to be found in the District. Fifty years ago the great tavern which stood upon the site of the present edifice was frequented by John Randolph, who, with his numerous servants in livery, and horses and carriages, gave the place a celebrity which will not soon be forgotten. To-day, an ex-Secretary of the Treasury and an ex-Senator is about to prove to the world that "he can keep a hotel."

A young man left his home in Northern Ohio some thirty-five years ago and settled in Meade county, Ky. Shortly afterwards he married a wealthy and highly respectable young lady in a border town in Indiana, and settled there. Ten years since he died, leaving five daughters, and a fortune of $50,000 to be divided between them and the widow. The daughters all married respectably. Last winter a young man, from Northern Ohio, arrived in the Indiana town and claimed the entire property, basing his right on the fact that he was the son of the deceased by a wife he deserted when he left Ohio. Investigation proved the claim sufficiently well founded to lead to a compromise.

The Young Men's Christian Association at Chicago, Illinois, furnishes funds to pay postage on all letters that are dropped into the post office without stamps, through carelessness or otherwise, and thus prevents their being sent to the Dead Letter office. A printed slip is affixed to each letter informing the recipient how the postage was paid, and inviting him to contribute to the Association, and sometimes the response is quite generous.

It is announced from New York that there has been this spring a decided fall in rents on the business thoroughfares of that city. This decline is owing to the continued depression in trade, property holders finding much difficulty in obtaining tenants except at reduced rents. Business houses complain that they cannot pay the rates previously demanded, and an unusual number of vacant buildings is reported on Broadway.

The Chinamen labor very cheap in California, and the subject has caused much agitation among the other workmen of that State especially the Irish. Attempts have been made to drive their work out of the State by pledging hereto not to buy it. In some instances violence has been resorted to, but that is deprecated by the more reasonable class. The negro and the Chinaman must still be subjected to the hatred of the masses of the workmen of the country without the least reason for it.

There is in Liverpool a building well known to the police, occupied by thieves and robbers, which is a Thieves' College, where both sexes are systematically trained in all the various arts of thieving, from picking pockets to burglary and garroting. The teachers attend daily at the Police Courts, whose proceedings and discussions they watch with the most attentive interest, to see how they and their pupils may be able to escape the clutches of the law.

A man named Williams met with a horrible death in Flint, Mich., on Saturday morning. While at his usual work sawing slabs at one of the circular saws in the mill, he stumbled in some way, and falling across it, had his body literally cut diagonally in two from the right shoulder to the left side, tearing out his intestines, etc. It was a most shocking sight, and caused instant death.

A singular and imposing wedding ceremony came off at Milford, Conn., on Wednesday evening. The groom being a Knight Templar, the knot was tied in a Masonic hall, and the happy couple were escorted under the "arch of steel" with imposing grandeur. The Sir Knights were in full uniform, and appropriate music enlivened the occasion.

On Friday night last, six car loads of oil took fire on a train which was coming down the mountain near Kittanning Point, on the Pennsylvania Railroad, and about two hundred barrels burned up. The flame illuminated the whole valley between the Allegheny and Brush Mountains, and formed one of the most beautiful sights imaginable.

A German, in New Holstein, Wis., named Furgan Thede, has petitioned the President to stand sponsor for his seventh son, born in regular succession, as is the custom in Thede's native country for kings to do, and President Johnson has consented.

It seems that, after all, we may be able to pay for our Russian purchase with our old iron. The Czar, if we may credit our latest intelligence, is about to buy of us the Miantonomah and four other ironclads. It is not every nation that can use its fleet to regain one large territory and then buy another.

The Legislature, at its last session, passed a law relative to railroad baggage. It provides that each passenger shall be entitled to carry one trunk or box, not exceeding one hundred pounds in weight; that when baggage shall be lost and damages claimed, not to exceed three hundred dollars shall be allowed for each trunk or box along with its contents; that if any person wishes to carry more weight or greater value of baggage than this, he or she must have the trunk or box weighed by the baggage agent before starting, disclose the value that will be claimed in case of loss, and pay extra for excess as may be required by the particular railroad company. Of course, if a man makes disclosure of value, and pays extra, he must be sure to take a receipt, or he will have nothing to show in case of loss.

The Philadelphia papers state that a new but not dangerously made counterfeit of the denomination of ten dollars, purporting to be that of the Third National Bank of Philadelphia, has made its appearance. The paper is of good quality, and the engraving is of a character well calculated to deceive. The engine turning work around the figures is not, however, as sharp and distinct as the genuine, nor is the lettering and figuring as plain and as perfect. The work upon the back of the note, which in the genuine is beautifully clear and distinct, and perfect in every curve, in the counterfeit is irregular, and no very close examination shows its fraudulent character.

A Philadelphia paper says that the invitations of Jay Cooke, the Government banker, to a party lately given by him, were as follows: "Guests received at 5-20; dancing commences at 7-30; supper at 10-40."
