

The Mariettian.

MARIETTA, PA.

Saturday Morning, June 23, 1867.

One reason for the high price of the necessities of life is undoubtedly a disposition upon the part of producers to keep up that spirit of speculation born of and with the war.

Some of the Western farmers who have been holding on to their grain in expectation of famine prices have had their fingers badly burned.

John W. Standrin, a young man in Chicago, has suddenly disappeared. A letter from him to his former employer states his intention to destroy his own life.

A firm desirous of finding out the pecuniary status of a person who wished to purchase goods, telegraphed for the information. The answer came back "Not good for any amount."

The Vicksburg Herald, speaking of Robert J. Walker, counsel in the injunction case for Mississippi says: "If ever there was a servant of this State doubly damned in the estimation of the people it was the aforesaid Walker."

A freedman lately fished up a torpedo from Stone river, below Charleston, S. C., and trying to break it open with a hatchet, it exploded, blowing him to atoms.

One Robert Ottarson, who had been insane for thirty years, but recovered his senses on his death bed, died at Springfield, Pa., last week.

Mrs. Burke, residing near Troy, Ohio, was gored and stamped by a cow a few days ago, and so badly injured that she died in a few hours.

It is pretty well understood that a majority of the Judiciary Committee will report against impeachment. A great mass of testimony will have been recorded, which will be an ugly thing for some men to contemplate or ideal with, in case they may come before the people.

A New York jury found out the other day, when they came to make up a verdict, that a Prussian among their number, who had been observed to listen with great interest to all the proceedings, could not speak a word of English.

Gov. Bullock of Massachusetts has appointed Fastus Campbell, who was recently rejected from the jury-list in Pittsfield because he was black, a Justice of the Peace.

Bushrod Payne, of London, O., was instantly killed the other evening by a lightning stroke while he was seated in the doorway of his carriage manufactory, talking with his partner.

Any one who mutilates or defaces a book taken from any public library in Massachusetts is liable, under a recent act, to a fine of from five hundred to one thousand dollars.

The Hon. George Bancroft, the statesman and historian, has sailed for Europe, to assume his duties as United States Minister at the Court of Berlin.

The New York Times is for Gen. Grant for next President.

The Salt Lake Vidette publishes a rumor that Orson Hyde and Amos Lyman, both high up in the church, have been preaching against polygamy and special revelations of late.

It appears that while the Legislatures of the New England States are moving in the matter of encouraging the restocking of their rivers and streams with shad and salmon, the Canadian papers are complaining of the overstocking of their streams.

A prominent physician of Galesburg, Ill., was called to attend the wife of a man, a few days ago. While seated in the parlor, she entered the room, charged him with having persuaded her to her ruin, on a previous professional visit, presented a pistol at his head, and demanded compensation for the loss of her honor.

Mrs. Cole, whose husband killed Mr. Hiscock, at Albany, N. Y., has written an accusation of her seducer, or confession of her own guilt. She says the first offense was committed "partly by force."

Last Sunday the people of Reading had a severe rain storm, and some of the streets were completely flooded. The station house was inundated, and fears were for a time entertained that the building would be destroyed by the action of the water.

Now that the Bankrupt Law is going into operation, it is best that every one interested in bankruptcy should have a good copy of the law, and we can think of no better way of obtaining one than by sending 20 cents to Frank Moore, Publisher, Bible House, New York, for a copy of his "People's Edition."

The Princess of Salm Salm, an American lady, is said to have interceded so powerfully with Juárez, as to receive the promise of Maximilian's safety and that of her husband, Prince Salm Salm, who was an officer in the U. S. army during the rebellion in this country.

An exchange relates that a couple waited on a clergyman to be married, for whose services the bridegroom gave him a counterfeit bill, and then stole the gentleman's umbrella as he passed out through the hall.

After months of cruel abuse, a Methodist minister in Brookfield, Mo., named James C. Slater, poisoned his wife with arsenic. She was sick and he mixed the deadly drug with some medicine left by a physician.

The Loyal Georgian, of Augusta, says that a man living at Davis Springs, Burke county, of that State, has been hunting colored men with bloodhounds, and that a short time since he beat a colored woman in a "delicate condition" nearly to death.

William Lloyd Garrison has been tendered the compliment of a breakfast in England, at which John Bright is to preside, and the Duke of Argyll to be one of the guests.

THE LAWS OF HEALTH.—It is useless for State Legislatures to pass laws for the preservation of the public health, if the great law of self-preservation, which depends for its enforcement upon the will of the individual, is suffered to remain a dead letter.

There is scarcely an adult member of the community, of either sex, in this country, who has not seen the testimony in favor of HORTON'S STOMACH BITTERS, furnished over their own signatures by persons of acknowledged eminence in science, literature, art, commerce and every department of business and professional life. These witnesses have declared in the most explicit terms that the preparation is a safeguard against epidemics, a sovereign remedy for dyspepsia, a valuable anti-bilious medicine, a promoter of appetite, a genial and harmless stimulant, a good acclimating medicine; a strengthener of the nerves, a general invigorant, a protection against the deleterious effects of malaria and impure water, and that it imparts a degree of vigor and activity to the vital forces which is not communicated by any other of the tonics and storachics in use.

KNOW THY DESTINY.—Madame E. F. Thornton, the Great English Astrologist, Clairvoyant and Psychometrist, who has astonished the scientific classes of the Old World, has now located herself at Hudson, N. Y. Madame Thornton possesses such wonderful powers of second sight, as to enable her to impart knowledge of the greatest importance to this single or married of either sex.

A YOUNG LADY returning to her country home, after a sojourn of a few months in the city, was hardly recognized by her friends. In place of a coarse, rustic, flushed face, she had a soft ruddy complexion of almost marble smoothness, and instead of twenty-three she really appeared but eighteen.
