Pennington, Robert P. King, Ulysses Mercer, Henry Benn, George Bressler, Nathan E. Foyat, Daniel O. Gahr, John M. Broome, Samuel Calvin, James W. Fuller, Edgar Cowan, David E. SCENES IN A RAILROAD CAR.—On Wednesday of last week, says the Harrisburg Telegraph, the subject of conversation in a crowded passenger car going west, was on the result of the election the day previous. The Republicans, of whom there was a majority on the car, were of course quite jubilant. A couple of passengers sat by quite chop-fallen and sad, not to say angry. At last one of them called to the conductor, and said to him: "Sir, we are gentlemen from New Orleans; this talk, which we are obliged to listen to, is very offensive to us, and we demand that you should have it stopped at once." The conductor answered that our folks in this State, and in general all about here, say just what they like, and it was no part of his business to try and stop it. "I am a Democrat and voted for Foster, and would have been pleased with his election, but I have neither the power nor the disposition to interfere with the congratulations of the friends of the successful candidate." The two gentlemen from New Orleans' lapsed into a gloomy silence, chewed the cud of discontent, and doubtless swore vengeance on the first white man that dare venture into the free and enlightened regions where the sugar canes grow. This free way of speaking is so unpleasant to the "chivalry."

THE PRINCE IN PHILADELPHIA; The Prince of Wales seems to have enjoyed his visit to Philadelphia greatly. He was less annoyed by officious intrusion than at any of the large cities which he has visited; he breakfasted at 10 o'clock, and immediately after was escorted to his carriage by Mr. Henry and Mr. Kortright. They moved from the hotel amidst the shouts of the multitude, and before their return visited the Girard College, the Pennsylvania Insane Asylum, the Penitentiary, and other of the public institutions; and late in the day they were greeted most enthusiastically at the Philadelphia races on the Point Breeze Course.

During these visits the Prince was affable and conversational, inquiring with no little degree of interest about everything that was brought to his notice. He closely examined everything connected with the institutions visited, and asked a number of questions, showing the manifest interest he took in all that he saw, thus increasing his information.

There is much excitement among politicians relative to the recent election in the First Congressional district. The award of the certificate of election to John M. Butler the Republican candidate; is disputed by Mr. Lehman on the ground of forgery in the returns. Wm. Byerly, the return judge of the Fourth ward, was arrested and taken before Recorder Egan on the charge of committing the forgery. The Recorder, after hearing the case, held Mr. Byerly in the sum of $1,500 to answer at court. Mr. Lehman has placed the matter in the hands of Governor Packer, with a request that the proclamation of Mr. Butler's election be suspended.—The Press.

Charles S. Matthews, as trustee of the Westchester House, New York, has commenced an action against John C. Heenan for $196, being a balance due for board and lodging furnished to Mrs. I. M. Heenan, defendant's wife, by and at the request of the defendant. Mr. Heenan denies the indebtedness and all the allegations in the complaint.

The Methodist Book Concern was commenced in 1789, on a borrowed capital of six hundred dollars, and now it has gained a capital of more than half a million, and since 1836—i. e., during the past 24 years—has made more than one million dollars—one million and nearly two hundred thousand—all of which has been expended for denominational work.

Haldeman has just received another supply of new fall goods; see advertisement.

Garibaldi washes his own shirts when occasion requires. After the battle of Melazzo, finding his shirt dirty and soiled from his personal struggles, he took it off, and washed it in the brook hard by, and hung it up on the bushes, ate his lunch of bread, fruit and water, smoked his cigar barebacked, and, wrapped in thought, sat apparently contemplating the drying of his garment; thus in the field or bivouac, sharing danger and hardship with the humblest of his followers. Directly his shirt was dry, he went on board the Takeri, formerly Volcoe, lying in the bay on the western side of the peninsula, and personally directed her fire on the fortress and retiring masses.

The Providence, (R. I.) Journal, relates the following horrible affair: O. Phetteplace, residing in Burrillville, was murdered by his wife Saturday afternoon last. He came home drunk and threw himself upon the floor. His wife took an axe and chopped off his head, and then dragged him out into the orchard. She then went back into the house and washed up the blood herself. The deed was witnessed by an aged some twelve years. She has been committed to jail to await her trial before the Supreme Court. She excuses the deed on the ground that her husband was drunken, abused herself and family frequently, and had threatened her life.

It does not seem probable, says the Times, that the Great Eastern can sail on October 17 for New York, as it is said that she is to take 12,000 tons of coal, which cannot be put on board at a much greater rate than 3,000 tons per week. In addition to this, owing to the screw shaft being unsupported by the sternpost, it has worn away some inches of the bearings. Three, also, out of four leading points of her screw have been injured, it is supposed, during the gale she encountered in Holyhead harbor, where the ill-fated Royal Charter went down.

The brightest boy of the whole class lately examined for admission to the Naval Academy at Annapolis, was a little fellow from Texas, 15 years of age, who had been three years sitting type in a newspaper office, and had studied mathematics and arithmetic with a dip candle, in the garret of a log cabin, at night. He was poorly clad, and had worked at type setting in New Orleans, and other points, to pay the expenses of his journey. If not admitted, he expected to work his way home again.

On the 4th of July last a slave-holder named Hudson, residing in Mechenburg county, Va., stripped his slave woman, Jane, tied her to a tree, and beat her for three hours. The woman died, and was buried the same afternoon. At the last term of the Circuit Court, the brute was found guilty of murder in the second degree, and sentenced to imprisonment for eighteen years. As he is 68 years old, he will doubtless end his life in prison. At any rate he deserves to.

The income of John C. Fremont, from his gold mines, is set down at two thousand dollars per day. His establishment is something immense. He runs eighty-eight stampers by water power night and day, crushing ninety tons of quartz every twenty four hours, which is brought to the mill on a private railroad. A net income of $600,000 a year, if properly invested, will make him rich, and Jessie is probably as well off as if he had been elected President.

Late San Francisco contain what seem to be well authenticated accounts of the discovery of a new forest of mammoth trees on the eastern borders of Tulare county. The group is represented to extend a distance of eight miles, embracing a vast number of trees exceeding thirty feet in diameter, and estimated at three hundred feet high. One tree supposed to be the largest, is supposed to measure one hundred and twenty-three feet in circumference.

Col. Hugh Forbes, whose name figured so extensively during the John Brown excitement, and who, latterly, has been in the employ of Garibaldi as commander of Mezzana, in Sicily, is said to be out of office once more. He was found to be impracticable, a disturber of the peace, and an oppressor of the officers under him; therefore he has been superseded, and now goes about Sicily denouncing Garibaldi and Victor Emmanuel.

An English gold guinea of the date of 1785 was dug up on Bolton Hill, Augusta, Maine, a few days since, by a boy, while digging worms for bait. The coin is in a fine state of preservation, and its value is five dollars. The die of the English guinea was changed in 1791, from the form of this impression to one more artistic and graceful, and the coin of old form is now rarely met with in commerce.

Henry Church, the centenarian, well known to travelers on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, died at his residence, near Burton station, on the 13th ult., aged 110. He was a native of England, and came to America during the Revolution as a soldier in the British army. His wife was alive a few months since at the age 108. Mr. Church leaves children, some of whom are over eighty years old.

Hon. John Covode.—The grandfather of Hon. John Covode, of Pennsylvania, was picked up at Amsterdam, when a child of three or four years, put on a vessel, and brought to Philadelphia, where he was sold by the captain as a "redemptioner" until he was 28 years of age, the captain giving him the name of Covode. He was sold to a man in Chester county by the name of Miller. He never learned to read or write. After he had served out his time he married the widow of a British officer, the officer having died at York, Penn. There was one son the issue of that marriage, and Hon. John Covode is the oldest son of that son, his father having died about the time of his first election to Congress. Some time since an effort was made to trace the family in Amsterdam, but no name of the kind could be found there, leading to the supposition that the captain gave the child a name of his own contriving. At another time the American Consul at Amsterdam was asked to inquire concerning a child of that age lost at that time, but so many had been stolen and carried off that nothing could be learned of that family, and the search is now abandoned.

The Western Christian Advocate, one of the Methodist organs, pronounces decidedly against the system of holding protracted meetings. They involve a great amount of labor and exposure, both on the part of the pastor and people. If the former does not break down before the season of these meetings is over, going as they are obliged to do from one congregation to another, they are at least so thoroughly exhausted as to be unfitted for service the greater part of the year. After arguing in this strain at great length the Advocate remarks: We conclude, first, that a condition of the Church which requires a protracted meeting in order to awaken the members and make sinners believe that there is a reality in religion, is a sore evil, and one that will ultimately ruin the Church unless it is removed.

A machine has recently been invented for making wool for mattress filling out of wood. A solid block of maple, basswood, quaking ash, or any other scented, inexpensive wood, is rapidly converted into a fibrous mass, much resembling white horse hair, and this makes excellent filling for mattresses, and is much cheaper than hair, wool or cotton, and much better than husks, moss, seagrass, &c. The machine is not expensive, and can be set up in any place where wood is plenty, and where there is water or steam power. It can be worked by an ordinary mechanic.

On Sunday afternoon a policeman of Newark, N. J., saw lying under a tree a man named Partridge against whom an indictment existed for burglary. The officer chased; the burglar ran and leaped into the river to swim to the other shore. The policeman called to him to return, when Partridge replied that he would sooner drown than go to prison; and he was drowned, for he was too weak to swim across, and there was no boat near.

The Grand Jury of Lewis County (N. Y.) has indicted Rev. Henry Budge of Greig, for the murder of his wife, on the night of Dec. 11. Mrs. Budge was found dead in her bed, with her throat cut from ear to ear, on the morning succeeding, and as she had for some time lived unhappily with her husband, he was accused of having killed her. The theory of the defence was that she committed suicide.

No enlistments are made at present for the navy. There are now the full complement, 8,500 men, on the payroll; the utmost number which Congress has authorized to be enrolled. Ships ordered in commission must depend for crews on such sailors as are disposed to re-enlist, the government being at all times obliged to accept applications of that class.

A candy statue of the Prince of Wales was manufactured by a St. Louis confectioner during the recent visit of the Prince to that city. It was placed upon the table where the Prince and his companions dined, and the Duke of Newcastle was so well pleased with it that he purchased it for presentation to the Queen.

Alexander Desmarteau, the young Frenchman, convicted of outrage upon and murder of Augustine Lucas, a girl of eight years, at Chicopee, Mass., nearly two years ago, was, on Thursday last, sentenced to death, by a full bench of the Supreme Court, sitting at Springfield, to whom the case had been appealed.

Wm. M. Meredith has addressed a short and able letter to the young men's club of Philadelphia, in which he endorsed the Republican candidates, Lincoln and Hamlin. He has no fears of the Union bugbear got up to frighten old women and children.

At the recent election several of the oldest citizens in this county, says the Lancaster Herald, turned out and voted for the People's candidate for Governor, Andrew G. Curtin. Among them were Messrs. Jac. Kissinger, of Little Britain, and Martin Shreiner, Sen., of this city. Both of these gentlemen had voted for Washington for President.

Miss Harriet Hosmer reached St. Louis on Saturday last. Her errand is to gather material and data to enable her to execute the statue of Hon. Thomas H. Benton, which the Missouri Legislature commissioned her to undertake.

A letter from Turin says that the principal ground for the dislike felt by Garibaldi towards Count Oavour is the unpardonable sin, in the Dictator's eyes, of ceding Nice to France. Count Cavour, moreover, personifies diplomacy, the particular object of Garibaldi's hatred.

Dr. Wm. Fease, formerly a practising physician of Hannibal, Mo., was bitten by a spider on the end of his great toe on the 14th of September, from the effects of which he died on the 19th.

Jacob Milan, of St. Louis, tried to save himself from arrest, on Monday by throwing snuff into the constable's eyes, but did not succeed.

Queen Victoria while in Edinburgh, drove to a cemetery in the neighborhood to visit the grave of a young Italian, formerly her dressing maid.

General Cass, at present Secretary of State, has been in high public positions since 1802, a period of fifty-eight years.

Nippon, the name given by the Japanese to their country, means "the rising of the sun." They know nothing of the word Japan, and do not use it. They call their country Nippon, because it is the most easterly point of Asia.

A party of ladies were recently huckleberrying in the Iron Mountains, Va., when they were alarmed by the appearance of an unusual number of the rougher sex having gone to the rendezvous of the snakes, killed seventy-four rattlesnakes and eight pilot snakes.

Chicago and Milwaukee papers have every day notices of the finding of more bodies washed ashore from the wreck of the Lady Elgin.

Henry Winter Davis, it is rumored, is about coming out openly for Lincoln and Hamlin. Wm. Pinckney Ewing, Montgomery Blair and others, are even hopeful of Lincoln's success in the State. There are rumors of a general Lincoln ovation, to be held in Annapolis. The Republicans are highly elated. They are organizing two additional Wide Awake Clubs, and will shortly parade three thousand uniformed men.

Captain Charles Arnaud De Riviere, the gallant Zouave who has figured somewhat prominently before American public, more recently as a converted sinner, doing penance in a Philadelphia monastery, has finally turned up in his old role of the warrior. At last accounts De Riviere was a captain in General Lamoriciere's army, fighting for the cause of the pope against the Garibaldians and Sardinians.

The Democratic factions are busily engaged in trying to convict each other of treason. The Douglas faction prove treason and disunion on the Breckinridge clan, and the Breckinridge clan prove hypocrisy and deception on the Douglasites. Go it, gentlemen. You are each right in your allegations concerning the other.

PROF. L. MILLER'S HAIR INVIGORATOR.

An Effective, Safe and Economical Compound! For restoring Gray Hair to its original color without dyeing, and preventing the hair from turning gray.

For Preventing Baldness, and curing it, when there is the least particle of vitality or recuperative energy remaining.

For Removing Scurf and Dandruff, and all cutaneous affections of the Scalp.

For Beautifying the Hair, imparting to it an unequalled gloss and brilliancy, making it soft and silky in its texture and causing it to curl readily.

The great celebrity and the increasing demand for this unequalled preparation, convince the proprietor that one trial is necessary to satisfy a discerning public of its superior qualities over another preparation at present in use. It cleanses the head and scalp from dandruff and other cutaneous diseases. Causes the hair to grow luxuriantly, and gives it a rich, soft, glossy and flexible appearance, and also where the hair is loosening and thinning, it will give strength and vigor to the roots, and restore the growth to those parts which have become bald, causing it to yield a lush covering of hair.

There are hundreds of ladies and gentlemen in New York who have had their hair restored by the use of this Invigorator, when all other preparations had failed. L. M. has in his possession letters innumerable testifying to the above facts, from persons of the highest respectability. It will effectually prevent the hair from turning gray until the latest period of life; and in cases where the hair has already changed its color, the use of the Invigorator will with certainty restore to its original hue, giving it a dark, glossy appearance. As a perfume toilet and a Hair Restorative it is particularly recommended, having an agreeable fragrance; and the great facilities it affords in dressing the hair, which, when met with in the Invigorator can be dressed in any required form so as to preserve its place, whether plain or in curls—hence the great demand for it by the ladies as a standard toilet article which none ought to be without, as the price places it within the reach of all, being Only Twenty-five Cents per bottle, to be had at all respectable druggists and perfumers.

L. Miller would call the attention of Parents and Guardians to the use of his Invigorator, in cases where the children's Hair becomes to be weak. The use of it lays the foundation for a good head of hair, as it removes any impurities that may have become connected with the scalp, the removal of which is necessary both for the health of the child, and the future appearance of his Hair.

CAUTION.—None genuine without the fac simile LOUIS MILLER being on the outer wrapper; also, L. MILLER'S HAIR INVIGORATOR, N. Y. blown in the glass.

Wholesale Depot, 38 Dey St., and sold by all the principal Merchants and Druggists throughout the world.

Liberal discount to purchasers by the quantity. I also desire to present to the American Public my

New and Improved Instantaneous LIQUID HAIR DYE which after years of scientific experimenting I have brought to perfection. It dyes Black or Brown instantly without injury to the Hair or Skin, warranted the best article of the kind in existence.
