THE PALMETTO COCKADE.—This distinctive badge of the fire-eaters of South Carolina, is thus described :- It is about three inches in diameter, a blue rosette surrounded with slips of the Palmetto form the centre, and the lower part of the circle encloses a veritable brace of motto is, "When I make a noise I strike -Death rather than dishonor." The button fastening the cockade has upor it the representation of a Palmetto tree, with the motto, "Animas assibusque parati." If they can find rattlesnakes enough to furnish cockades for all hands, South Carolina must be rather a pleasant country to live in.

SECESSION, A SIGNIFICANT FACT. We have it from the best authority that a large military equipment house in Philadelphia, for some considerable time atter the first talk of secession, received leavers from the South inquiring the cost per man of such equipment. The house wend to considerable trouble in making out various estimates according to the form or nature of the information sought, and invariably replied to their many correspondents. The range of cost was from forty to fifty dollars per man.—
They have never received an orderin response from either individual or company. Forty dollars was too much to pay for a whim.—Now York Commercial Advertiser.

The people of Baltimore evidently have no relish for the paraphernalia of secessionism. There is a creditable contrast between Abraham Lincoln and James Buchanan, in one respect at least.
