

The Weekly Mariettian.

None shall with impunity soil these sacred symbols of our Country's life, liberty and power.

Marietta, Pa.

SATURDAY, JUNE 8, 1861.

The English Press on the Rebellion.

We cut the following from the Manchester Guardian, an English paper in the Cotton interest, to show, that the state of affairs in this country is distinctly understood in Britain, and that no fears need be entertained that the Southern Traitors will receive any countenance from the people of England:

"We are glad to think that political liberty, as well as moral justice and the right of defense against unprovoked aggression, is on the side of the North in this great quarrel. But although slavery may not be the actual source of the contest, from the moment this begins, it has furnished the distinguishing badge of the combatants. Without slavery there might none the less have been war between the North and South, but without slavery that war would have been exempt from the malignant and deadly character which it now seems fated to assume. The South is fighting, it may be said, under the pirate's flag. If the usual penalty is not inflicted on prisoners taken from its ranks, it will be because humanity, after all, revolts from such Draconian justice, and not because the sentence would be undeserved. This country must, therefore, rejoice in unanimity with which the North has risen to put down these abominations, to put them down not merely for the moment, but once and forever."

"There is no use in blinking the question. It is doubtless the domestic institution of the South, and that alone, which makes the Southerners so very different from ourselves in their feelings, pursuits and aspirations. Nothing short of the evil influence of Slavery could have so completely alienated the affections of our Southern people from a Government which only a few years ago cost their fathers, and ours, so much blood and treasure; and with a view to our peace and comfort, and respectability as a nation, this evil, at whatever cost, must be done away with; it therefore behoves our leading statesmen to set their wits to work to devise the ways and means."

"It is a well known fact that the independence of the United States overturned the monarchy of France, and gave an impetus to the cause of civil liberty throughout the whole civilized world. And in a country like this, the best on which the sun ever shone, it is not to be supposed that the more intelligent portion of the people could for a moment brook the idea of any retrograde movement which, if tolerated, would forever make both our name and nation stink in the nostrils of a justly offended world. The European nations must be given distinctly to understand that our present difficulty is but the reflux of an advancing wave of progress, and that as every change in America has hitherto produced a correspondent change in Europe, so in the future shall we take our place in the foremost ranks of those whose glorious mission it is to inaugurate that state of millennial blessedness which we are assured is one day to be the world's portion, when the influence of this country for good shall be universally felt and duly acknowledged."

"TRANSLANTIC OPINION. A recent number of 'The Elgin Courant,' a journal published in North Britain, in an article on our national difficulties holds the following language: 'We are prepared for thrilling news from America. We must now use that term, and not the United States, for the great Republic is not only disunited but is involved in civil war. * * * The great Republic is gone forever. The first shot fired at Fort Sumpter sounded its death knell, &c. * * * It is all very well for our transatlantic friends thus to speculate on our difficulties, and to predict the ultimate dismemberment of the Union, simply because the people of the North, stung by the perfidious fanaticism of the Southern Slave owners, have determined to whip the traitorous crew into subjection to the rightful Government of the country. We can tell our friends across the water, as many of them knew to their cost, that our father's fought and bled and conquered, to establish the Union, and their sons are not only able and willing, but determined to preserve the Union. Granting that the whole of the seceded States were peacefully out of the Union to-morrow they could not possibly purchase two years honorable existence as a Nation, for besides the expenses of a Court, with its foreign agencies, the standing army of police that would be required to keep the 'chattles' within reach of their owners, would soon sink the entire South beyond redemption. Ten righteous men saved Sodom and Gomorrah, and as there are more than ten times ten good and true Union men in each of the Southern States so the salvation of every one of them is more than doubly sure.'

"Master William Child has for 'The Zouave Drill,' a neat little said to be prepared by the late Ellsworth, which he sells at twenty cents."

HIS LAST LETTER: The following letter directed to Colonel Ellsworth's parents, was written by him the night preceding the visit to Alexandria, which resulted in his death. It seems from its tone as if the gallant soldier must have been impressed with the fact that the expedition would result fatally to himself:

"HEADQUARTERS FIRST ZOUAVES, CAMP LINCOLN, WASHINGTON, May 23.—My Dear Father and Mother: The regiment is ordered to move across the river to-night. We have no means of knowing what reception we are to meet with.—I am inclined to the opinion that our entrance to the city of Alexandria will be hotly contested, as I am just informed a large force have arrived there to-day.—Should this happen, my dear parents, it may be my lot to be injured in some manner."

"Whatever may happen, cherish the consolation that I was engaged in the performance of a sacred duty; and to-night, thinking over the probabilities of the morrow and the occurrences of the past, I am perfectly content to accept whatever my fortune may be, confident that He who noeth even the fall of a sparrow will have some purpose even in the fate of one like me."

"My darling and ever-loved parents, good-bye. God bless, protect, and care for you. ELMER."

THOSE FRAUDS: Governor Curtin has ordered that payment on certain heavy contracts for supplies to the volunteers be suspended until the accounts can be investigated by the commissioners who are directed to examine all such contracts strictly. Good, and substantial clothing, of the army standard, is to be sent as fast as possible to Washington for the Fourth and Fifth regiments of the Pennsylvania volunteers. Every suit will be carefully inspected by an experienced clothier. The allegations of fraud in the Girard House, and other establishments, are to be fully investigated, and any violation of contracts will be prosecuted.

HAVELOCK'S GRAVE.—A soldier writing from Oude, March 24, says: "On our route we came to Lucknow, where the renowned General Havelock breathed his last, and where his remains are interred. A more wretched mark for the grave of a brave soldier I never witnessed, and I have seen a great many during my career as a soldier. The information for the passer by is some poor soldier's bed-ticket nailed to a tree, with the following inscription done with an old nail, or some other such instrument: 'Here rest the remains of General Havelock.' So, you see, that his memory is more respected by the men who served under him than by the Government he so faithfully served."

ATTENTION NURSES!—The fifth general order issued from Washington to applicants for the post of nurses, is in these words:—

"Dress. A regulation dress will be appointed by the board, which each nurse will be required to adopt, no hoops being allowed in the service. A committee on outfit will be appointed to superintend the outfit of the nursing corps, which will be regulated by the amount of baggage allowed to each individual."

Lieut. Slemmer has arrived at Washington, from Fort Pickens. He reports the officers and men in the highest spirits, and able to hold the fortress against any force that will be brought against it. The garrison numbers about 1,000, and the rebel forces, under General Bragg, he estimates at about 6,000.—The courage and fidelity of Lieutenant Slemmer make him an object of general attention.

Government has ordered 10,000 of the muskets stored in the arsenal at Augusta, Me., to be forwarded to Philadelphia. It is probable that the arsenal will soon be used for the manufacture of shot, shells, &c., now that Harper's Ferry and Gosport are in the hands of the rebels. This could be done at comparatively small expense.

Gov. Curtin has appointed Hon. Wm. M. Meredith, of Philadelphia, Attorney General in place of Hon. Samuel A. Purviance, resigned. Mr. M. we learn has accepted. An excellent appointment, truly.

Capt. Blandowski, who was shot by the Secessionists at the surrender of Camp Jackson, near St. Louis, has been obliged to submit to amputation of the wounded leg.

The Jeff. Davis' Oligarchy offer their pirates Twenty Dollars for the dead body of a citizen of this Union engaged under its flag, and Twenty-Five for a live one!

General James Watson Webb, of the York Courier and Enquirer, has been appointed Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to Brazil.

The Slave Pen at Alexandria is broken up of course. One poor victim was found in its walls, which is now occupied by a Michigan Regiment.

It is stated that the supply of new uniforms for the 4th and 5th Regiments, will keep those unfurnished at Camp Scott, &c., some time longer.

A new levy of 100,000 men has been made by the Government, the details of which will be shortly announced.

GEN. BUTLER: This gentleman is a fit type of the right kind of soldier. He is a statesman as well as a warrior. His refusal to return the escaped negroes, on the ground that they are the "property" of rebels in array against the country, is a centre shot. The extremists of the South have all along declared that slaves were not persons, but "property;" and, on their own showing, the brave and skillful Butler has caught them in a trap. The negroes themselves like the exchange of masters, and are by no means alarmed. Their readiness to run to the Union flag for shelter is quoted as an evidence against the much boasted fidelity of the slaves to their owners.

GOVERNOR SPRAGUE'S MARRIAGE:—The Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune says the newspapers have, with their usual sagacity, and nice sense of propriety, been discussing the pros and cons of Gov. Sprague's probable marriage with Miss Cameron, and one of your contemporaries gravely and officially announced that the affair would speedily be consummated. In order that no further discussion may be deemed desirable, I will state that the youthful Governor is affianced to Miss Kate Chase, the eldest daughter of the present Secretary of the Treasury. The Governor is not yet thirty years of age, and is reputed to be worth not far from $10,000,000.

General Walbridge, of New York, is in Washington, urging upon the Government to accept all the men who desire to enlist for the war, until at least four or five hundred thousand men are enrolled. This demonstration, it is thought, will make the war a bloodless one, and establish the military character of the nation abroad, as well as overcome treason at home. It is a Christian and humane idea to crush the rebellion with the least possible amount of bloodshed.

The father of Col. Ellsworth happened to be in the telegraph office when the melancholy intelligence was received, and the first intimation he had of it was seeing the operator weeping. Mr. Ellsworth's grief was indescribable on learning the sad news.—He left immediately in company with his wife for New York. The sympathy expressed for his parents is universal. The Colonel was their only living son. About a year since his younger brother, a young man of much ability, died in Chicago.

Hon. Henry D. Moore, State Treasurer, Hon. Thomas E. Cochran, Auditor General, and Captain Simmons, U. S. A., have been summoned as witnesses before the Grand Jury of the United States District Court, to testify in the alleged suits of fraud, said to have been perpetrated against the United States in the furnishing of military stores and supplies.

An incident, creditable to the United States Life Insurance company has occurred: A member of the Seventy-first, who had accompanied the remains of Colonel Vossburg to New York, called at the office to communicate the formal statement of his death. The prompt response was: "Please say to the family that the money is ready for them." The policy was for $5,000.

There are not in the State two men of more exalted character for strict integrity, perfect independence, and keen sagacity in business affairs, than JACOB FAX (late Auditor General) and BENJ. HAYWOOD. One is a Democrat—the other a Republican. If a scrutiny can be thorough and impartial, these men will make it.

Jackson, the assassin of Col. Ellsworth, was a Virginian. He had frequently boasted that he would kill the man who took down the Secession flag over his house, and said that he would not leave Alexandria if a million of men invested the city.

The Government has purchased the camp equipage of the New York Seventh, and the encampment will be occupied by the Ninth—the Seventh having returned to New York.

Mr. Charles Faulkner, our minister at Paris, had his final audience of the Emperor on the 13th, when he handed to his majesty the letters of President Lincoln terminating his mission.

J. B. Lippincott & Co., Nos. 22 and 24 North Front st., Philadelphia, have several valuable military works for sale; see advertisement in another column.

It is estimated that not less than five thousand printers have volunteered to defend the Stars and Stripes. Who doubts the patriotism of printers?

Col. Anderson, though an honored member of the Masonic fraternity, was not recognized by a single Southern Mason.

Rufus King, Minister to Rome, has been appointed Brigadier General of the Wisconsin troops.

The Wheeling (Va.) Union, a strong Secession paper, has died for want of patronage.

There are now 10,208 soldiers in Camp Dennison, Ohio.

All the banks of New Orleans suspended specie payment last week.

STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS died at his residence in Chicago, on Monday morning last, at 9 o'clock. Senator Douglas was a native of Brandon, Vermont, where he was born April 23d, 1813.—His father died when he was two months old, leaving the mother with but small means and two young children, the oldest being a daughter only eighteen months old. Educated at a common school, he was at the age of fifteen apprenticed to a cabinet maker, and worked at the trade a year and a half.—Failing health obliged him to relinquish it, and by the second marriage of his mother he was enabled to study law at Canandaigua, New York. In 1834 he migrated to Illinois, and became a school teacher at Jacksonville, but soon gave it up and opened a law office. His political career began almost immediately, for within a year he was elected by the Legislature Attorney General of the State. He afterwards served in the Legislature, and was Register of the Land office at Springfield, Illinois, during the Van Buren administration.—Notwithstanding that he held this lucrative office, he ran in 1837 for Governor, on the democratic ticket, and was defeated by only 5 votes in a poll of 36,000. In 1840 he was appointed Secretary of the State of Illinois; in 1841 he was elected Judge of the Supreme Court of the State; in 1834 he was elected to the lower house of Congress, and was re-elected to that body in 1844 and 1846. In 1847 he was elected Senator, and continued in that office until his death.

A GOOD APPOINTMENT.—We chronicle to-day, with more than ordinary pleasure, the appointment of Jacob Knabb, Esq., as Postmaster of the city of Reading.—Many of our citizens will recognize Mr. Knabb as a former resident of Harrisburg, and an active participant in the exciting political contest of 1844. He will be remembered in that campaign in the capacity of assistant editor of the Clay Bugle, whose music echoed in those days the glorious sentiments of gallant "Harry of the West!" Mr. Knabb left Harrisburg for Reading shortly after the campaign of 1844, and has ever since resided in that city, publishing and editing the Berks and Schuylkill Journal, which under his able and judicious supervision, has become one of the most popular and influential journals in the interior of the commonwealth. The steady march of Whig and Republican sentiment in the "Gibraltar of Democracy," is mainly attributable to the able and prudent conduct of Mr. Knabb's paper. His appointment is not only well merited, but is wise and judicious, and eminently "fit to be made."

The above is from the Harrisburg Telegraph and pays but a just tribute to the worth and energy of Mr. K. such appointments by the administration cannot fail to give it strength.

We have received from Peter-son's Brothers 306 Chestnut st., Philadelphia, a neat little volume entitled: THE SOLDIERS' COMPANION, being for the use of all volunteers, militia and officers of all grades; in Camp, Field, or on the March. Copies will be sent free of postage, to any one, on remitting twenty-five cents to T. B. Peterson & Brothers Philadelphia, or five copies for one dollar.

The Marshall house is the hotel in which Gen. Washington stopped, and Col. Ellsworth was shot near the door of the chamber that Washington occupied. The body of Jackson, the assassin of Col. Ellsworth, was taken to Fairfax county for burial. All the furniture has been removed from the Marshall House, and it is now in the possession of the United States troops.

Sergeant Butterworth of the New York Zouaves, was shot by Mike O'Neal of the same corps, who was acting as sentry, and receiving no reply to his challenge, fired and instantly killed the former. Butterworth, unfortunately, was a stutrer, and his failing to answer was caused by this infirmity.

Hon. John J. Crittenden, says the Frankfort Commonwealth, on the 20th of June next, "will be chosen the Representative of the Ashland district to the Congress of the United States, by a majority that will be as gratifying to him as it will be to the friends of peace and Union throughout the entire length and breadth of the land."

A man who was, a few days since, seized three miles below Alexandria, with a secession flag, was made by his captors, several Zouaves, to carry it on a pole to the Marshall House where Ellsworth was assassinated, and there trample upon it.

Gen. Pierce, of Massachusetts, is appointed Brigadier General, in place of Gen. Butler, promoted. He is ordered to report at Washington, and will be sent to Fortress Monroe.

James W. Jackson, the Alexandria assassin who shot Col. Ellsworth, is the same brute that cut off a piece of old John Brown's ear and chewed it after he was hung.

The Hon. David Taggart, formerly Speaker of the Pennsylvania Senate, and late candidate for Governor of this State, has been appointed paymaster in the army.

PROF. DE GRATH'S ELECTRIC OIL has performed some miraculous cures in our city, at the Union Hall. One gentleman, deaf for twenty years, has been restored to his hearing. We will, therefore, recommend to all afflicted with Rheumatism, Deafness, Neuralgia, Sores, Pains, Burns, Frosted Hands and Feet, to get a bottle of De Grath's Electric Oil, as we saw his Oil perform cures which the medical faculty has been unable to make.—Hartford (Conn.) Daily Post.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT.—Facts versus Assertions. Salt-Rheum, Scoury, &c. An officer of the New York Police Force doing duty in the upper part of the city, whose name we suppress at his own request, was for many years afflicted with salt-rheum in the hands, for which he tried numerous remedies without success—the disease increased and finally became so bad that he could neither close his hand nor grasp his baton without experiencing the most intense pain—he was on the point of resigning his situation and seeking admittance to Bellevue Hospital, when he was advised to try Holloway's Pills and Ointment. He did so, and by persevering in their use the disorder quickly disappeared and he now enjoys sound health. This is but one out of thousands of cases.

MARK THESE FACTS!

THE TESTIMONY of the WHOLE WORLD

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT.

Bad Legs, Bad Breasts, Sores and Ulcers.

All description of sores are remediable by the proper and diligent use of this inestimable preparation. To attempt to cure bad legs by plastering the edges of the wound together is folly; for should the skin unite, a boggy dis-condition remains underneath to break out with tenfold fury in a few days. The only rational and successful treatment, as indicated by nature, is to reduce the inflammation in and about the wound and to soothe the neighing parts by rubbing in plenty of the Ointment

as salt is forced into meat.

Diphtheria, Ulcerated Sore Throat, and Scarlet and other Fevers.

Any of the above diseases may be cured by well rubbing the Ointment three times a day
