

came; its cause a mystery? If so, what a humbler of Science it is! How it brings to a level the learned and illiterate, showing that the unknown may be to the known as the ocean to a drop--as eternity to time.

Hold! here is a professional gentleman that can, he says, account for this singular phenomenon. He begins, "He has recently read a work on Philosophy, of rare excellence. Lucid, profound, satisfactory on all matters touching causa rerum." A book--nay, a golden key, in which dame Nature for ages has kept her mysteries. That is, so he says, well according to him, this subtle stranger is a lump of petrified lava from earth's centre. The globe is hollow, or rather a ball of fire, like a huge sun at its centre. Volcanoes are only vents in caps of this immense central-terranean furnace. Water, passing to this by filtration, or through fissures, is turned to steam, and then heaves to the heavens part of old earth's bowels, which retaining in the air for the time of its ascent and descent, at last strikes the surface at no small distance from the place where it at first had egress!

Now, reader, what do you think of that theory? In vain I reminded him of the fact that all objects partake of the motion of the body that carries them. To this he responded, that having found a loaded musket, fired it, and awaited the return of the ball, but he found, by actual calculation, that owing to the diurnal revolution of the earth on its axis, said ball would fall a distance West of the musket proportioned to the altitude of ascent, and this latter was also always in ratio to the projectile force received by the ball. We say, then, that the theory of the mendacious sailor who said he once sailed on a ship that went so fast, that in falling from the top of the main mast, one day, he was not hurt, for the vessel, as he descended, glid out from under him, and left him to fall into the sea. But all would do well, if he was right. So we left him, and found ourselves in Belair, on the Ohio river. All the passengers here debark and scatter; the greater number cross the river, to continue their journey Eastward--a few take the "Circumbular" Northward, but we (a family and self) sauntered off into the country in a vehicle provided by a kind friend, to enjoy the rural beauties of the Belmont Hills, the sweet fragrance of garden flowers, and the rich flavor of the best of strawberries, and sweet, pure cream!

PERSONAL. The Princes of Wales, during his visit to Niagara, will be at the residence of the late Mr. Zimmerman. Every visitor to the Falls will remember this delightful place. It is situated on the Canada side, and commands noble views of the Cataract. The mansion itself is surrounded by luxuriant foliage, while an elegant forecourt, with a fine lawn, and a garden, is situated to the west of the grounds. It is expected that the young Prince will visit Ottawa and Toronto. At Kingston the people are fitting up the Crystal Palace for his reception, and he will officially inaugurate the new Crystal Palace at Montreal.

Lady Franklin--We are pleased to learn that the North Atlantic Steamship Company have generously proffered to Lady Franklin a free passage for herself, her niece and maid, in their magnificent steamship Adriatic, on her next trip from Southampton to New York. We think she will be met by the same noble spirit, by our countrymen when landed on our shores.

Prince de Joinville has gone to Canada. Sir Charles Barry, the distinguished architect, whose death was recently announced, has been interred in Westminster Abbey.

The Widow of Ossawatimie Brown has received $3,000 from her colored sympathizers in Haiti.

Brigham Young, with several of the dignitaries of his Church, has been in Philadelphia for the past ten days. He is negotiating for the purchase of a paper mill, which he proposes to set up in his city.

Dr. Hayes in England--Two editions of "The Arctic Boat Journey" by Dr. Hayes, have been published in England--one by Low & Co., and one by Dentley of London, the latter being edited with an introduction and notes by Dr. Norton Shaw. The Athenaeum, which rarely praises an American book, says the work is "full of thrilling interest, so full that we could not lay it down until we had read it through. It is a well-written narrative of terrible privations and sufferings, borne with a fortitude and patient endurance, which may have been equalled, but certainly never surpassed." After devoting four columns to the volume, the Athenaeum thus speaks of the author: "Dr. Hayes' most interesting and well-written narrative shows that he is fully competent to take rank with the most successful and heroic Arctic voyagers." The American publishers are Messrs. Brown & Taggart, of Boston.
