the States of the Church, the attitude of Austria will be purely defensive as long as her Ital-ian frontiers are not invaded. All military preparations which are being made at present have no other object than that of energetically repelling any eventual attack.

Austria is evidently anticipating a conflict with the Italians, for the retention of Venetia, and she is also threatened with another insurrec tion in Hungary. If the first outbreak should occur, the second will assuredly follow. The recent intelligence from Pesth, leaves little doubt that the train is already laid for the conflagration. General Benedek has determined to resign the Governorship of Hungary, on the ground that he cannot reconcile himself to the idea of doing what the authorities at Vienna requirenamely, to shoot and hang those who are likely to rise in insurrection, to regain their national liberties. Another, and perhaps a still stronger motive, is said to influence him-the belief that in the event of a conflict, the army cannot be relied on.
