Tobacco. Discussion at the British Association for the Promotion of Social Science, held in Glasgow last September...

tea and coffee may, though in a much less degree, be considered so. It is not to enter into the arena of dispute on these active agents...

many instances, these Societies are not aware of the baneful action of tobacco on the system. If they were, smoking rooms would not form a part of the establishment...

Dr. Lankester thought the question they were discussing was the influence of the use of tobacco on the human system, and in dealing with it, they should be as scientific as possible...

Dr. Lankester continued to say that he had used tobacco for twenty years, and that he had never had any decided results from it. He had never had any decided results from it...
