PITTSBURGH, JANUARY 21, 1863.

The War.

The last week was not fruitful in field operations, battles, and victories. The Army of Gen. Rosecraps needs reinforcements. The rebel General Longstreet, has been sent by Gen. Lee, with thirteen brigades, to supersede Gen. Bragg, and interrupt Gen. Rosecrans' progress, if not to dering our people as fiercely as they have drive him back. drive him back.

Gen. Grant has left Holly Springs and gone to Memphis.

The advance of Gen. McClernand and Com. Porter up the Arkansas river and their capture of a post there, and the taking of 7,000 prisoners and much military stores, is a success worthy of record. Whether they will proceed up the Arkanas to Little Rock, the capital of the State, s a matter for conjecture.

Gen. Banks and Admiral Farragut may be making great preparation on the lower Mississippi, but we have no accounts yet of any association with the Yankees." great deeds. We have high hopes.

We have but very little information of Gen. Foster's expedition into North Carolina, and not much from the iron-clads which were to sustain his movements.

There are reports of a movement by the army of Gen. Burnside. Any change which would cause the men to lie out at night, at this season, would be murderous, but doubtless, without such exposure, they could so operate as to retain his forces in to a political association with them. Virginia. It must be bad management which so disposes of our army that the grant, or which human imagination can repels can spare thirteen brigades to leave Virginia for Tennessee, and other brigades for Wilmington and Charleston.

Just now the President is sorely perplexed in relation to his war measures. Clouds darken and lower. We pray that soon they may scatter, and open up brilliant prospects.

What Prospect of Peace?

There is much said, just now, on the subject of peace; we, however, can perceive nothing indicative of its near approach. We have not hoped for peace, except as the result of complete victory over the rebel armies; and of this, the in- when heaven has vouchsafed to us so many dications are very faint. An Important Capture. A Confederate messenger to Europe was lately captured off Charleston. He is the son of the notorious George N. Saunders, of New-York. and was the bearer of some very important dispatches from Jeff. Davis and his Secretary of State to Mason, Slidell and others in Europe. A writer from Washington says:

"They give many important facts and details in regard to the condition of the rebels. They also furnish the strongest statements of the desperate straits to which the rebel leaders are reluced, and show that unless they can quickly get relief, either by European interference or by lividing the Free States, and thus paralyzing the dividing the Free States, and thus paralyzing the efforts of the Government, they must give up their bad cause for lost. These dispatches ar-rived at Washington on Tuesday. They were put up in a tin box, loaded with led at one end, so as to sink quickly in an emergency. The Government is strongly urged to make public these captured dispatches, and will do so as soon as certain special information contained in them made use of."

TRENTON, Jan. 14 .- The Governor's Message was read to both Houses this morning. It gives a detailed account of the equipping of the voluneers for the war, and the State finances. The lovernment owes the State about $400,000. He arges the prosecution of the war for the Constiution, and thinks that the patriotism and loyalty of the people ought not to flag in conse-quence of errors or differences in regard to the olicy of the Government. Mr: Wall (Democrat) was elected U. S. Senator

Washington.

Jan. 17 .- Three weeks ago Gen. Burnside issued an order for the troops to march with ten days cooked rations. Within forty-eight hours, the President countermanded the order upon the nformation of two officers of Franklin's division who came up and declared to the President that the army was so demoralized that, if it fought, it would be sure to be cut to pieces. Gen: Burn-side came up to ask the reason why his order was countermanded. Learning these facts, he demanded the names of the officers, but was refused, and then tendered his resignation. The President would not accept this. Gen. Burnside has since learned the names of the officers, and will court-martial them.

A number of Republican representatives held caucus to-night in the capitol, to deliberate on ublic affairs. Those who were present were njoined to secrecy regarding the publicity of heir proceedings. It is known, however, that there was not a full attendance of members, ome altogether dropping off and absenting themselves from the caucus.

A Fortress Monroe letter states that Col Lud ow, from City Point, says that all the commiioned officers of the United States, captured after the 12th of January, will be handed over to the Governors of the States where captured, He ays it is highly probable that all the officers aptured before the 12th, will be released.

It is much regretted that the army of the Potomac has not been paid before the present movement had been commenced. It is useless to deny that during the inactivity of the past month a universal murmur has gone forth from the soldiers who have been paid no money for six months, most of them four months without a penny of their hard-earned wages.

On Wednesday the offices of the Assistant Secretaries Watson and Tucker expired by limita ion, having been created but for one year Neither of them will accept reäppointment, even if Congress should extend the law for those offices another year.

HOOFLAND'S CERMAN BITTERS.

From J. Newton Brown, D.D., Editor of the Encyclopedia of Religious Knowledge.

From J. Preudom Brown, D.D., Eator of the Encyclopedid of Religious Knowledge.
Although not disposed to favor or recommend Patient Medicines in general; through distruct of their ingredients and effects I yet know of no sufficient reason why a man may not testify to the benefit he bolieves himself to have received from any simple preparation, in the hope that he may thus contribute to the benefit of others.
I do this the more readily in regard to Hoofland's German Bitters, prepared by Dr. C. M. Jackson, of this city, because I was prejudiced against them for many years, under the impression that they were chieff y an alcoholic mixture. I am indebted to my friend Robert Shoemaker, Eaq., for the removal of this prejudice by proper tests, and to rencourage-ment to try thena, when suffering from great and long con-tinued debility. The use of three bottles of these Bitters, at the beginning of the present year, was followed by evident relief, and restoration to a degree of bodily and mental vigor which Thad not felt for six months before, and had almost despaired of regaining. I therefore thank God and my friend for directing me to the use of them. J. NEWTON EROWN.
