PITTSBURGH, MARCH 4, 1863.

The War.

We have still but little to record of the doings of the army and navy. About Vicksburg there has been more activity Cabinet, and the war policy. A few days than in any other quarter. The party which has been endeavoring to force the Yazoo Pass and get behind the city, is having some success, with prospects of more. It is now likely that the canal will soon be adequate to the passage of the gunboats, and then it is expected that Gen. Grant will go down the river and unite with Gen. Banks in an attack on Port Hulson. A dispatch just received, says that the canal of Mt. Pleasant, on the Second Tuesday of a success, and that the gunis already a success, and that the gunboats were passing through it. The canal to connect the Mississippi with Lake Providence, is also near completion, and hopes are entertained that by this way Red River will be approached. If these three passes, the Yazoo, the Point opposite Vicksburg, and the Lake Providence, shall all be successful, there will be an immense

But we have sad tidings from the same region, in the loss of the Queen of the West, and the Indianola, both of which. as we have stated, had run the blockade. The Queen was first captured, up the Red River, by batteries, and then she was used by the rebels in capturing the Indianola. Thus have we lost two of our best river men-of-war, and the enemy has gained them. This comes of recklessness. We never trust a man of dash, in our private business. It is the spirit of the gambler, and of the bold speculator, and always leads to damage, if not to ruin. The whole country applauds the entereprise, and thus stimulates adventure. Give us the prudent generals. To a daring, reckless man we would never intrust a ship or an army. To such we do not entrust our money and our factories, and why should we venture with them the lives of our brave soldiers, and our country's freedom.

Such a compromise to be suggested by a mediating friend, would be a thing unheard of. The South want no mediation, no compromise. The Richmand Inquirer, speaking on this

"France would offer to bargain with us for European recognition of our independence on the terms of giving up certain portions of the States forming the Confederacy, and making some kind of engagement concerning our domestic institutions, which might conciliate the canting and snivelling public opinion of Europe. Neither one nor the other of these things has our Government a right to do. No proposal of such a kind has it the right to entertain. The negotiation would necessarily break down, and at the end of six months

Speaking of the overtures proposed by an indignant rejection and much opprobrious language, the Inquirer adds: " We shall not be unwilling to trade with

The Richmond Examiner says: " From the beginning of the war to the present hour, the wisest statesmen of the South have been satisfied that it could and would end only by a treaty of peace con-cluded and ratified on the enemy's territory in some Northern city held by a Southern army." These quotations we take from exchanges, but suppose them to be reliable. We currency in consequence of the numerous counpresent them to our readers that they may know the character of the enemy with whom the nation has to deal. We want all the people to know that war, stern war, is upon us. We must fight, and must conquer, or perish as to our national existence. The foe is determined to have the whole of the Southern and Border States and means to conclude and ratify a treaty of peace to that effect on Northern territory. Necessity is upon us. in the 74th year of her age. Mrs. Christy was the daughter of William Cochran and Elizabeth Moore; born in Bucks County, Pa.; partly raised in Huntingdon County; and crossed the Allegheny Mountains three times under the age of eighteen. She became a member the Presbyterian church at eighteen, under the ministry of Rev. John Mc-Ferran, Concord congregation, Butler County, Pa., and united in marriage, at the age of twenty-three, to John Christy, who died April 24th, 1828, aged forty years and seven months, and who was followed to the tomb by his companion, seven children, a mother, three sisters. and eight brothers. She conducted a farm until few years previous to her death. During these last years she lived with her children. She visited one daughter, at a distance of two hundred and fifty miles, stopping there some twelve months, when she returned to Butler County, Pa., and went into housekeeping with a single daughter, where she remained until her death, aged 78 years, 8 months, and 27 days. She leaves four sons and two daughters; one son in Adams County, Indiana, one in Allegheny County, Pa., and two in Butler; one daughter in Lima, Allen County, Ohio, and one in Butler. County, Pa. Religion to him was a most sacred thing, and his high reverence for it led him to speak of it less frequently, perhaps, than he should. But when the hour of trial came, there was no alarm; he was able calmly, peacefully to commit all into his Father's hand for life or death. When a minister, who had called to see him, was directing him to some of the promises, he said, "Yes; but the great WUSIC BOOKS. promise is, 'Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." He felt that he was a poor, vile sinner, and on the Rock Christ, he rested all his hopes of heaven. While suffering intense pain, he said, "Why should I complain when my Saviour suffered so much more for me." To a friend, a Captain in the army, he said, "Fight bravely for your country; do not let the old flag be dishonored; but remember there is a higher cause - enlist for Christ and fight for him." And to a step-son in the Anderson Troop, he sent the message, "Tell Willie to make haste and enlist under the banner of King Jesus, and fight manfully for Christ." His last broken words were, "Victory;" "Triumph;" "Happy, happy," And in response to the inquiry, "Are you still happy in Jesus?" he said. "Yes," and soon fell asleep in Jesus. A week before he had been in the sanctuary, and on this Sabbath, before the hour for service, he was called to the upper sanctuary.

Extract from the editorial column of the Pittsburgh Daily Gazette, of February 4th, 1868: Savetze, of February 4th, 1868:

We have now practising in our city one of the most skilful and accomplished Physicians and Surgeons in the country—Johannes A. Jones, M.D., of New York City, whose fame is spreading rapidly through the cimmunity in consequence of the remarkable curss which he has already effected. Dr. Jones will not remain long in any community without having living witnesses to testify to his skill. He is a thoroughly educated Physician—his Diplomas are suspended in his office. The afflicted are received in a gentlemanly maner—not charged for examination—if their disease is IN-CURABLE, THE DOCTOR TELLS THEM SO.

Extract from the Pittsburgh Daily Dispatch, of February 13th, 1863: Upon invitation we visited Dr. Jones' office at the St. Charles Hotel, on Wednesday, to see an operation for blindness upon an elderly lady. She had been blind a number of years with cataract. The operation requires the skill of a master in his profession. Dr. Jones was equal to the task—the lady saw distinctly for the first time for years, after the operation was done. The same day the Doctor operated the operation was done. The same day the Doctor operate on a young lady and a young man with crocked eyes, rendering their eyes natural in appearance and sight immediately. Dr. Jones has: cured many cases of a difficult nature, of which we have evidence. He holds Diplomas from four of the best Medical Schools in America and Europe.

Editorial extract from the Pittsburgh Evening Chronicle f February 10th, 1863: DR JONES

the most complete set of Surgical instrument

We take pleasure in directing public attention to this gentleman. The Doctor, though but a few days in the city, has accomplished a number of important cures. Agod men have called on him who were deaffor many years, yet under his skilful treatment, they have entirely recovered their hearing. The Doctor is a thoroughly educated Surgeon and Physician and that there may be no mistake, his Diplomas from an Eye and Ear College, Hospital, Homeonathic, and an Allapathic Medical College, hang in his office at the Monongahela House.

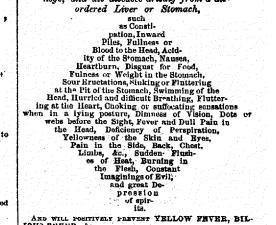

See reports of operations in all the papers of this city, with names and residences of the patients. DR. JONES is well prepared to treat successfully all curable cases (Medically and Surgically,) of Chronic diseases of sil kinds, as well as diseases of the EYE and EAR.

Induced by the extensive sale and universal popularity of Hoofiand's German Bitters, (purely vegetable,) hosts of ignorant quacks and unscrupulous adventurers, have opened upon suffering humanity the flood-gates of Nostrums in the shape of poor whiskey, vilely compounded with injurious drugs, and christened Tonics, Stomachics, and Bitters.

Reware of the innumerable array of Alcoholic preparations in plethoric bottles, and big bellied kegs, under the modest appellation of litters; which instead of curing, only aggragate disease, and leave the disappointed sufferer in deepair.

From J. Newton Brown, D.D., Editor of the Encyclopedia of Religious Knowledge. Although not disposed to favor or recommend Patent Medicines in general, through distrust of their ingredients and effects; I yet know of no sufficient reason why a man may not testify to the benefit her believes himself to have received from any simple preparation, in the hope that he may thus contribute to the benefit of others.

I do this the more readily in regard to Hoofland's German Bitters, prepared by Dr. C. M. Jackson, of this city, because I was prejudiced against them for many years, under the impression that they were chiefly an alcoholic mixture. I am indebted to my friend Robert Snoemaker, Esq., for the removal of this prejudice by proper tests, and for encouragement to try them, when suffering from great and long continued dobility. The use of three bottles of these Bitters, at the beginning of the present year, was followed by evident relief; and restoration to a degree of bodily and membril vigor which I had not felt for six months before, and had almost despaired of regaining. I therefore thank God and my friend for directing meto the use of them.

See that the signature of "C. M. JACKSON," is on the wrapper of each bottle. Principal Office and Manufactory, No. 681 Arch Street, Philadelphia.

LETTERS OF THE REV. JOHN SMITH, A PRESBYTERIAN MINISTER, TO HIS BROTHER, THE REV. PETER SMITH A METH-DIST PREACHER.

—Princeton Review.

The points of difference between Calvinism and Arminianism will never, in this world, cease to be discussed, but there is no give reason why the discussion should not be prosecuted with Christian tomper. This is done in this volume. We commend the Letters, therefore, on this account, as well as for their pith and point, and hope they may circulate widely and have a happy success.—Presbyterian.

Our readers will remember the admirable series of Letters on Arminianism, by 'John Smith," which were published in the Presbyter a short time ago. They attracted much attention, and drew forth numerous expressions of commendation.—Presbyter.

We most cheerfully enderse this commendation of these Letters. Those who wish to see a calm, able defence of Calvinism, and an exposure of the loose reasonings, and incontrained.
