In addition to Elizabethtown, the Nick Ruggieri Bicentennial Art Exhibition will be shown in 40 other locations throughout PA.

The rose-growing Heapses were at the Rose Bowl game

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Heaps of Mount Joy recently spent a holiday in California, where they attended the Tournament of Roses and the Rose Bowl game between UCLA and Ohio. This was highly appropriate, since the Heapses are well known as rose fanciers and have a garden full of gorgeous blooms every year.

They also took in the Universal Studios, the Farmers Market, Disneyland, Knott's Berry Farm, Marineland, and toured the Queen Mary.

And they still had enough energy to spend New Year's Eve at the Paladium, dancing to the music of Lawrence Welk!

January 19 to 23 is the time to get college hotline info

Prospective college students and their parents may get information and advice on college admissions by calling a toll free hotline number during the week of January 19 to 23, between the hours of 9 a.m. and 9 p.m., daily.

The number is 1-800-732-0450.

The hotline is a public service of the PA Association of College Admissions Counselors. This is the fifth year such a service has been provided. Last year some 1,900 calls were received on the hotline number.

The hotline is designed as a supplement to, and not a substitute for, advice and information from the student's guidance counselor.

The hotline staff can answer general questions about what colleges offer programs suited to the student's specific interest, how to apply, what kinds of tests have to be taken, what filing deadlines have to be met, financial aid, and so
