Ceramics at Mount Joy Library

by Jean Hamilton

Thanks to Mrs. Mary Ann Kramer, the Mount Joy Library has a temporary new look. On display at the library are many different kinds of ceramics from her ceramics shop at Columbia, PA.

Mrs. Kramer became interested in ceramics when she took a course or class at another local ceramics shop. She then decided to open her own ceramics shop where she could hold courses in ceramics. She is presently expanding her shop and work area. Arrangements to work with ceramics can be made by contacting Mrs. Mary Ann Kramer; 203 South 8th Street, Columbia, PA. Mrs. Kramer is willing to help the novice or anyone who would like to expand their talents.

Mrs. Kramer is the wife of Kenneth W. Kramer and the mother of 6 children.

Mrs. Kramer's display includes a napkin holder, miniature animals, a candle holder, bicentennial candle holders, bicentennial plates, Easter egg baskets, and numerous others.

A surprise baby shower for Mrs. Sara Manning

Mrs. Sara Manning, teacher of the 4-year old class in the Little People's Nursery at the Florin Church of Brethren, was given a surprise baby shower Friday morning.

The children and their mothers served refreshments and presented the teacher with a gift certificate for a month's supply of diapers. Mrs. Manning also received many other gifts for the expected arrival.

She and her husband, Kevin reside at Highlawn Avenue, Elizabethtown.

Mrs. Sara Manning has a big smile for two of the many youngsters who gave presents at the baby shower.

50 parents at reading mtg.

More than 50 parents crowded into the Donegal High School library last Wednesday, January 28, 1976 to support the Special Reading program in the Donegal Elementary Schools. Twice a year, the district holds Parent Advisory Council meetings for the federally funded ESEA Title I program.

Any interested parent may attend meetings and serve on the council as long as the majority of parents are parents of children participating in the program.

Mr. John Sauter, director of Elementary Education, gave a brief history of the program and led a discussion concerning parent's suggestions and reactions.

Parent after parent gave testimony to the noticeable positive results of the program. Some said their children had better attitudes and felt more secure working in small groups.

Some emphasized the importance of reading in everyday life. One said her son now falls asleep with a book. All said their children could read better after getting the special instruction.

Mrs. Linda Boozer, reading supervisor, ended the meeting with a video-tape presentation showing the four ESEA Title I teachers at work in their classrooms. Mrs. Esther Kettering, Riverview, Mrs. Ann Fitzkee, Seiler, Mrs. Sarah Hess, Grandview, and Mrs. Elizabeth Smedley, Maytown.
