The artwork of 11 Donegal High School students is currently on display in the Regional Scholastic Art Exhibit at the Greist Building on the square in downtown Lancaster. The show is comprised of outstanding artwork from Lancaster County Junior and Senior High Schools. Although the exhibit is smaller this year, more Donegal students' artwork is represented than ever before.

A panel of judges consisting of college art professors and professional artists had the mammoth job of choosing approximately 400 pieces of artwork for exhibit out of 2,400 entries. This means that only one out of six entries is on display.

The following Donegal students have won this honor in the categories listed and have received Certificates of Merit in a special awards presentation Friday evening, February 20: Dale Boyer, pottery and textiles; Steven Eno, sculpture; Lesetta Mummau, pen and ink; Corky Flick, photography; Floyd Runkle, mixed media; Kathy Jones, water color; Carol Brubaker, pen and ink; Patty Floyd, textiles; Holly Spence, pencil drawing and Paul Smith, pencil drawing.

Jill Wilson, a twelfth grade art major, was a double award winner receiving a Certificate of Merit and a Gold Key Award for two pencil drawings.

The exhibit consists of many art forms ranging from jewelry, weaving, macrame and pottery to many forms of drawing, sculpture, graphic design, and photography. The show is open to the public free of charge during downtown store hours, including Monday and Friday evenings until 9 p.m., and Sunday afternoon from one to four, through March 12.
