Mount Joy native named registrar at EMC

James R. Bomberger

A Mount Joy native has been named registrar at Eastern Mennonite College in Harrisonburg, VA.

James R. Bomberger, son of Mrs. D. M. Wolgemuth and the late E. M. Bomberger, will begin his new assignment July 1. He is currently professor of English at EMC and will continue to teach part-time.

Dr. Bomberger will succeed Lester C. Shank, who is taking a three-year leave-of-absence to teach at Choma Secondary School in Zambia under the Teachers Abroad Program of Mennonite Central Committee.

The registrar's office evaluates transfer credit, keeps students' academic records, and schedules classes.

An EMC graduate, Dr. Bomberger received an

M.S. in education from Temple University and an Ed.D. in college teaching of English from Columbia University. He joined the EMC faculty in 1961.

Dr. Bomberger is married to the former Doris A. Good, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Noah G. Good of 2180 Millstream Road, Lancaster. She is acting chairperson of EMC's home economics department.

From 1971 to 1973 Dr. and Mrs. Bomberger and their two children lived in Liberia, where the EMC professor taught English composition and literature at Cuttington College under a Fulbright-Hays grant.

American Cancer Society on Crusade
