Fun with stamps

by Martha Fuhrman

One of the most fascinating hobbies is stamp collecting.

A young person can start a stamp collection from the mail that comes to his parents' home. An inexpensive album and stamp hinges will provide him with hours of pleasure, especially on a rainy day or in the wintertime. And for retired people, a vast world of stamps is waiting.

Friends and relatives can help with stamps from foreign countries. They should leave the stamps on the wrapping paper or card so you can then soak them off in warm water and dry them on a paper towel. Stamps will curl a little, but after they are stamp hinged into your album they will flatten out. Many stamps are damaged trying to remove them from paper. I do stress either stamp hinges or plastic mounts. Never put a stamp in the album with scotch tape. If you ever try to remove it, the stamp will be damaged.

Some very interesting stamps are being issued in this Bicentennial year and not only by the United States but by countries around the world. If you are not interested in starting a general collection, it might be fun to collect only Bicentennial stamps and see where your collection leads you. There are many types of albums on the market for almost any type of collection, whether it be fish, space, dogs or butterflies.

But one of the most economical stamp collections comes from your local post office where you can buy the stamp when it comes out, for face value. You can buy a single, a plate block or a sheet of stamps and as soon as you depart from the post office your stamps rise in value.

Look into stamp collecting; it can be fun and profitable.

the meals are prepared. 30 clients are now being serviced by the volunteers.

Ben Staley was chairman of the program and introduced the District Governor, Mr. Newcomer, Mrs. Newcomer, Zone chairman, Jay Barnhart and Mrs. Barnhart.

Charles Hershey, a member of the planning committee introduced the eight charter members present: Maurice Bailey, Jay Barnhart, Reuben Goodling, Arthur Sprecher, Morrell Shields, Ben Staley, Lloyd Myers, and William Batzel. Robert Schroll was absent. The club is 31 years old.

Many ladies present received a special gift.

A film was presented about the hopes and dreams of our forefathers. What they gave us then is as valuable as it is now, stated the speaker, Mr. Trostle.

The merchandise club, a project of the Lion's, will begin in May.
