Mt. Joy township hires officers

Mount Joy Township supervisors hired Daniel C. Gohn, Mount Joy, and Herbert McNally, Elizabethtown, R.D. #1 as sewer enforcement officer and zoning officer, respectively. They will replace Armand Fieni, who quit for personal reasons.

In other business the supervisors:

—approved a donation to the Elizabethtown and Mount Joy Libraries for $500 each,

—decided they did not need Revenue Sharing advisory service offered by the government.

—discussed the answering service now in use in the township and decided it will remain the same as before.

—approved the computer billing of tax bills with the suggestion from a resident "to check into the costs for further study and the possibility of not heading a tax collector." The township's cost was $321.00 with equal billing costs shared with the County.

A discussion of the ownership of Sager Road and Sager Lane was held and the township supervisors learned there is a difference of opinion on the question. Mr. Oliver Sager says the township owns the property and the township said they have no record the roads were ever turned over to them. Charles Bailey, Jr., chairman of the Authority, said he was informed the authority would need right-of-ways for the sewer project, and that seemed to be the answer. However, the situation will be looked into by the owners of a property there, hopefully, to discover who really owns Sager Road and Lane. The owners of the property claim they cannot sell their property until the question is settled.
