

Lipreading course

A course in lipreading will be offered soon by The Hearing Conservation Center. Lipreading skills may be used by any person with any degree of hearing loss, whether they use a hearing aid or not, to improve their understanding of conversation. For many people, a hearing loss makes normal conversation sound 'mumbled' or 'hard to understand' rather than too soft or too quiet. Training in lipreading helps these persons use their hearing and visual clues to make conversation easier and more clearly understood. Hearing aid users, as well as non-hearing aid users, often benefit from this training.

The 6 session course will begin Tuesday, August 17, 1976 at The Hearing Conservation Center in Lancaster. Class time is 7 p.m. until 8:30 p.m. Group size is limited. Interested persons may reserve a spot by calling The Hearing Conservation Center, 630 Janet Avenue, Lancaster, PA 17601.

The telephone number is 397-4741. Additional information is also available at that number.

DID YOU HEAR...

The Smithsonian Museum Associates toured the Marietta area recently. They visited the old Brick Tavern on Route 23 (now being restored by Ellie Aurand and Ed Shroeder) and the Donegal Church. After lunching at the Central Hotel in Mount Joy, the Associates toured Marietta.
