Counselor Dale Dissinger honored

Mr. Dale T. Dissinger, counselor with the PA Bureau of Vocational Rehabilitation's District Office in York, has been named Elkins Counselor of the Year for the state of PA by the PA Rehabilitation Counselors' Association. The award was presented Tuesday afternoon at the York District Office by Ms. Dina Creighton, representing the PRCA.

Mr. Dissinger is a 12-year veteran of the Bureau. He is a native of Lancaster County and presently resides at R.D. #1, Columbia with his wife, Jane, a teacher in the Elizabethtown School District, and his three children. His present assignment is in the northwest quadrant of Lancaster County as a general caseload counselor. However, Dale has had experience in many other assignments ranging from rural areas to innercity to specialty programs, including two years as the supervising counselor for all training facilities for the Bureau in Lancaster and York Counties. Mr. Dissinger has consistently obtained services for clients of the Bureau but also through auxiliary resources of other cooperating agencies.

The Mount Joy Junior Midget baseball team had a picnic last Sunday to celebrate a successful season. The thirteen boys won the Northern Division of the Red Rose League and the Mount Joy Midget tournament. They placed second in the Lancaster New Era and the Landisville tournaments. Their totals were 26 wins and 4 losses. Pitchers Mitch Johnson (12 and 0), Casey Krady (5 and 2), and Monty Maurer (7 and 1) were "our main strength" according to coach Barry Etsell. The team has the distinction of being the first Mount Joy team to win their home tournament in six years. Coach Charlie Etsell received an award this year for 25 seasons of coaching. "Actually, it's more like 30 years," Charlie said. "You always say you're going to get out next year, but you don't." He's still coaching. The team, which is sponsored by the Mount Joy Athletic Association, will receive jackets for winning the Red Rose playoffs.
