And in that year, the Oklahoma Land Rush pours 20,000 homesteaders into a virgin territory. Thomas A. Edison has patented his light bulb and everyone is singing the hit tune "Oh Promise Me".

While, in the homes of those fortunate enough to have a telephone, this handsome oak instrument graces many walls. This "Magneto" set is the first "side-winder" model that allows the subscriber to turn the crank and signal the operator.

Needless to say telecommunications has come a long way. Today, less cumbersome models of wall telephones are available in a variety of styles and decorator colors.
