

Goodling home is 'House of the Month'

Mr. and Mrs. John Goodling in front of their house.

by Linda Ross

The Marietta Restoration Associates' House of the Month Award was presented to John and Dorothy Goodling of 10 New Haven Street, Marietta.

Located next to the Post Office, this two and a half story brick dwelling is especially charming in the summer with its window boxes spilling over with geraniums and its adjacent lawn lush with trees, shrubs, and a vegetable garden.

The Goodlings spend most of their summer outside in this lawn or on the patio entertaining friends at clam bakes. Although the home is in the middle of town, the attractive fencing around the lawn makes it a pleasant and private retreat.

John and Dorothy have deeds to the house dating back to 1827. The Inn Keeper for the Cross Keys Hotel lived in the original front part of the Goodling house. The Cross Keys was directly across the street in the building which now houses apartments and offices.

Extensive remodeling has altered the house's appearance since these early days but it has been done in good taste so that the charm and hominess of the Colonial house is still apparent.

Inside the 14 inch thick brick walls of the house there is still a fireplace in working condition and two staircases leading to a remodeled second floor that features ten inch square Penn Pine beams that came from a log house in Marietta.

Dorothy has made the attic into a sewing room.

Their quaint home and garden are an important part of the Goodling's life and they obviously take pride in their efforts and enjoy being residents of the community of Marietta.
