

Senior citizens get ready for field day

Excitement and activity best characterize the mood at the Schock Senior Center in Mount Joy these days, as the participants there prepare for their part in the upcoming Bicentennial Field Day that is being sponsored by the Lancaster County Office of Aging for their Senior Centers throughout the County. Approximately 300 people are expected to attend the event which will be hosted by the Lititz Senior Center at the Lititz Springs Park, Friday, September 24.

The main events of the day will include tours of Lititz, music, a show, a goat milking contest, bike riding, displays, and a photographic event. The Mount Joy contribution will consist of five booths at which Senior Citizens can test their skills and a general, fun-for-all game.

Games and scorecards are currently under careful preparation. Any person age 60 or over who would like to be involved in this Field Day or any of the other varied activities that the Center offers may contact Mrs. Nancy Morrow at 653-8585 between 11 a.m. and 3 p.m.
