unique and is architecturally attractive. The home was built by the late J. Libhart for Samuel Johnson. A high light of this tour, the structure and its period furnishings are most interesting.

The quaint brick dwelling of Douglas Milliken, 132 West Front Street, has a number of intriguing features. Built in 1834, the rooms are complimented by fine-scales fireplaces. Only the first floor will be open to the public because the home is still in the process of restoration.

Light refreshments will be served at the Marietta Community House, 264 West Market Street, by members of the Marietta Lion's Club and their wives. An extensive collection of doll houses and furnishings, antique toys and badges will be exhibited on the second floor of the recreation center.

The gym directly to the rear of this center is a memorial to all veterans, contributed by area residents. The house, a memorial to Ben Hiestand, an instructor in World War 1, United States Air Force, was bought, furnished and renovated by his parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Hiestand.

The Marietta Restoration Associates was organized in 1966 and its function is to promote restoration, preservation and development of the river boro and to encourage citizens to request guidance on restoring property. Current officers are Dennis Shumaker, president; Kenneth Ross, vice-president; Mrs. Robert Denny, secretary; and Mrs. Robert Vander-slice, treasurer.

Douglas Milliken's white kitten feels right at home among some of the antiques on her master's dresser. The kitten's mother is also white. She produces white kittens only.

Margaret Sager works on Christmas decorations at her dining room table. The Sager home, a converted warehouse, will be featured on this years Christmas by Candlelight Tour.
