Commission to examine Mount Joy's request

The Susquehanna River Basin Commission has initiated review of a request by the Mount Joy Borough Authority to develop two wells that it owns with a combined safe yield of 1.6 MGD and construct a 3.5 MGD water softening plant, transmission facilities, and a 1.0 MGD steel standpipe. The use of these two wells is part of a plan for continued development of the groundwater resources to meet the Authority's projected water supply demands.

The Commission will schedule a public hearing to receive pertinent testimony from the project sponsor and other interested parties. The testimony will provide a basis for developing findings and conclusions by the Commission with regard to permit issuance. The Commission's public hearing procedure permits the project applicant to respond to testimony submitted by others, as appropriate. At least thirty days notice will be provided by the Commission before the public hearing.
