

Credit Union names Pat Kenney director

Patrick Kennedy, Jr.

Patrick Kenney, Jr. was named president of the Lancaster County Employee's Credit Union last Tuesday at a meeting of the board of directors.

Kenney has been president since the credit union was organized last September.

Others named were Peter P. Coconis, vice president; Robert Klinedinst, treasurer; and Vicki Bomgardner, secretary.

In addition, chairpersons were selected for membership, publicity, newsletter and investments committees.

The credit union held its first annual meeting recently at the Lancaster County Courthouse. Ms. Barbara Wooten, membership officer, reported that 207 members belong to the credit union. Payroll deductions began in January 1977, Klinedinst reported.

Mrs. Bette Dzielski, chairperson of the credit committee, reported loans to members are increasing. A member of the supervisory committee, Mrs. Doris James said her committee had audited the books on March 11, 1977, and found accounts and statements to be accurate.

Re-elected to the board of directors were Patrick Kenney, Jr., for three years; Ms. Bomgardner, for three years; Klinedinst for two years; Ms. Wooten for two years; William Smith for two years; William C. Haynes for one year; and Coconis for one year.

Mrs. Dzielski was re-elected to the credit committee for two years and Jack Reed for one year. Ms. Helen Nicholson was elected for three years.

Re-elected to the supervisory committee were Anthony Denicola, three years; Mrs. James, two years; and Ms. Sandra Van Dusen, one year.

Kenney reported on the progress of the credit union from September 1976 to March 29, 1977.

Glenn Hoffman

Glenn H. Hoffman, M.D., a family practice specialist, has joined the Philhaven medical staff according to Rowland Shank, Ph.D., chief executive officer of the hospital. Philhaven is a mental health facility near Mt. Gretna, Pa., sponsored by the Lancaster Mennonite Conference.

Prior to joining the hospital staff, Dr. Hoffman was involved as a principal partner in the general practice of Engle and Hoffman Associates of Palmyra, Pa.

A native of Maytown, Pa., Dr. Hoffman attended Messiah College prior to graduating from Goshen College, Goshen, In., with a bachelor of arts degree in natural science in 1950. He subsequently enrolled in Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, Pa., where he earned a medical degree in 1954.

After serving a 12 month internship at Harrisburg Hospital, Harrisburg, Pa., Dr. Hoffman, initiated a three-year tour of duty with the Mennonite Central Committee Medical Relief in Indonesia.

For the first two years he was involved in a number of outpatient clinics on Java, one of the greater Sunda Islands. These clinics were administrated by MCC in conjunction with the local churches.

During his last year with MCC, Dr. Hoffman opened a new medical unit on Halmahera, part of the North Molucca Islands just south of the Phillipines.

Upon returning to the United States in 1959, Dr. Hoffman entered a one-year residency at the Good Samaritan Hospital in Lebanon, Pa., before beginning his general medical practice in 1960. Indicative of his qualifications, he has been a diplomat of the American Board of Family Practice since 1972.

In addition to his active involvement with the Palmyra Brethren In Christ Church where he is a member and serves as a deacon, Dr. Hoffman functions on the governing bodies of a number of organizations. He is presently chairman of the board for Messiah Children's Home, Mount Joy, Pa., and vice chairman of the Brethren In Christ Board for Missions which is headquartered in Elizabethtown, Pa.

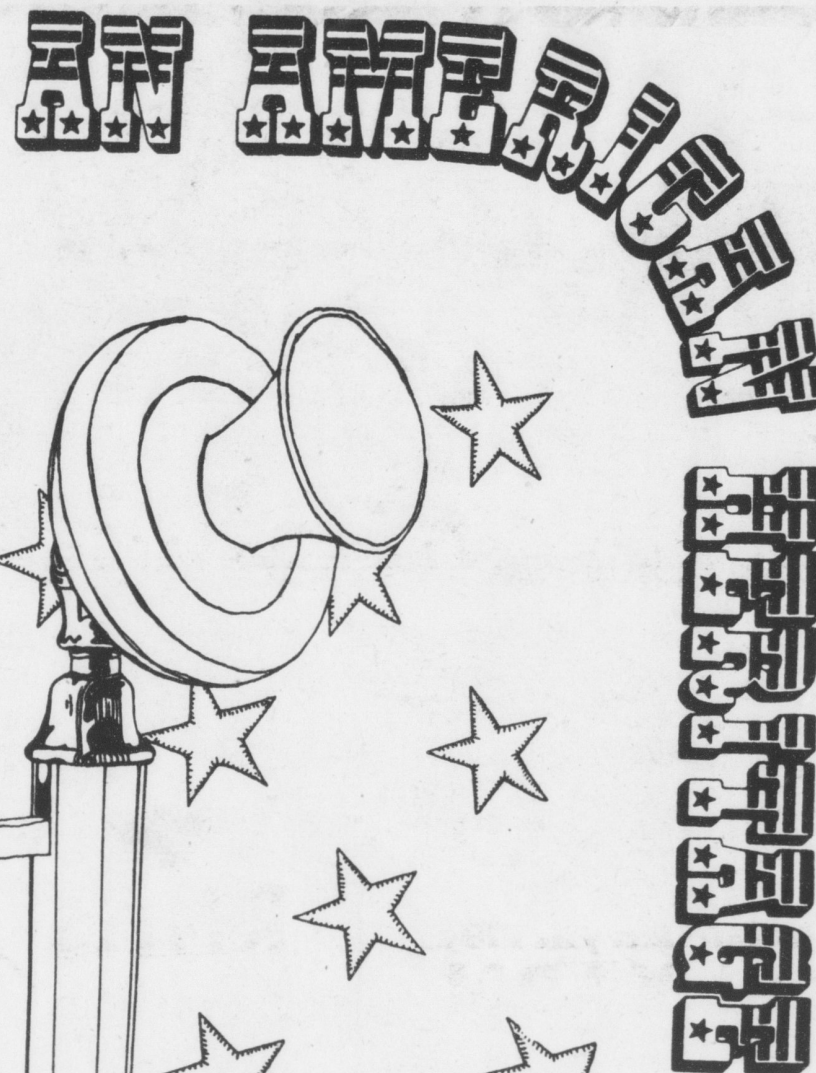

He also sits on the Palmyra Borough Board of Health, was medical directors of the United Christian Church Home near Anville, PA and served as board member of the Brooklane Psychiatric Center, Hagerstown, MD.

Dr. Hoffman is married to the former Faithe Musser. The Hoffmans and their six children reside at 629 W. Pine Street, Palmyra, PA.
