Drama at Beahm Jr. High

Elementary students performing Christmas plays

Santa and Scrooge are coming to W.I. Beahm Jr. High on December 13th when Grandview Elementary School presents their annual Christmas Musical. Pre-first and first grade will present a song dramatization entitled "Jolly Santa Claus" by Alice M. Snyder. It is the story of Santa's visit to a typical home. He brings magical toys which turn into living creatures: dancing dollies, a top, a teddy bear, and Mother Goose characters.

Grades five and six will impersonate the notorious Ebenezer Scrooge in Val Cheatham's operetta "Ebenezer and Friends." The covetous old Scrooge humbugs Christmas until he is convinced by his dead friend Marley and a trio of Christmas Spirits to mend his ways. Members of the cast are: Scrooge, Keith Mueller; Bob Cratchit, Tom Longenecker; Marley, Greg Miller; Christmas spirits, Leeann Kelly, Jill McKain, and Karen Wittell; Tiny Tim, James Darkey; Mrs. Cratchit, Tina Becker; Cratchit children, Karen Grubb, Lisa Derr, Marcia Anspach, Craig Trout, and Scott Frantz; Boy, Kevin Hershey; and fund raisers, Pam Maxfield and Dwight Yoder. The musical will be held Tuesday the 13th at 7:30 in the Beahm auditorium. It is directed by Mrs. Patricia Enos and the Grandview faculty. Music by Mrs. Marian Roland.

BPW hears talk on child abuse

Dr. Carl Frey of Mount Joy spoke to the Mount Joy Business and Professional Women's club at their last meeting on the subject of child abuse.

Dr. Frey said that there are five types of child abuse: physical, verbal, emotional, sexual, and physically neglectful. Most abused children are either under one year of age, or are teenagers. Parents who abuse their children have, needless to say, problems. They are often alcoholics or overly passive people who are afraid to be aggressive to their equals. Anyone knowing of a case of child abuse should contact the Bureau of Children's Services in Lancaster.

Dr. Frey was introduced by Clair Miller. There was a vocal duet by Miss Sarah Holsinger and Daniel Holsinger, accompanied by Mrs. Hostetter. The program was arranged by the public relations committee.

Mrs. Earl Koser, president, conducted the meeting, at which reports were received about the candlelight tour and the senior citizens' Christmas gift project.

DHS Girl of the Month Debra Ross was introduced by Mrs. Eugene Eicherly, along with her mother, Mrs. Michael Ross.

The December meeting will be held on Monday the 12th at Hostetter's. The next board meeting will be on January 9th at Koser's Guests at the meeting were Naomi Myers, district director, and Mrs. T.W. O'Leana of the Columbia BPW.
