Bonnie Reitz's art at Mount Joy library

Right now nine oil and pastel paintings adorn the walls of the Mount Joy Library. The works are by local artist Bonnie Reitz of Marietta. She paints mostly animals, plants, and interior still lifes. The paintings will be hung in the Library until Christmas.

Bonnie graduated from Millersville State in 1971 with a degree in Art Education.

DID YOU HEAR?

John Matoney of Mount Joy had his car conk out on him at a busy Harrisburg intersection during rush hour last week. Car after car sped past, ignoring his plight. Finally, it seemed that a good Samaritan had

You are welcome to come and see her works in the Library between 3:00 and 9:00 PM, Monday through Friday.

Anyone else who is interested in displaying objects in the Library should contact the librarians or board members. Also, the Fund Drive is still in progress. Send your gift to 22 E. Main when you pick up or drop off a book.

appeared when a passing car pulled up beside him and the driver rolled down his window.

"Call me a wrecker," shouted John.

"You're a wrecker!" hollered the other motorist, and sped away.

PP&L has new billing forms

PP&L will introduce its new billing form in January. They've been working on it for two years!

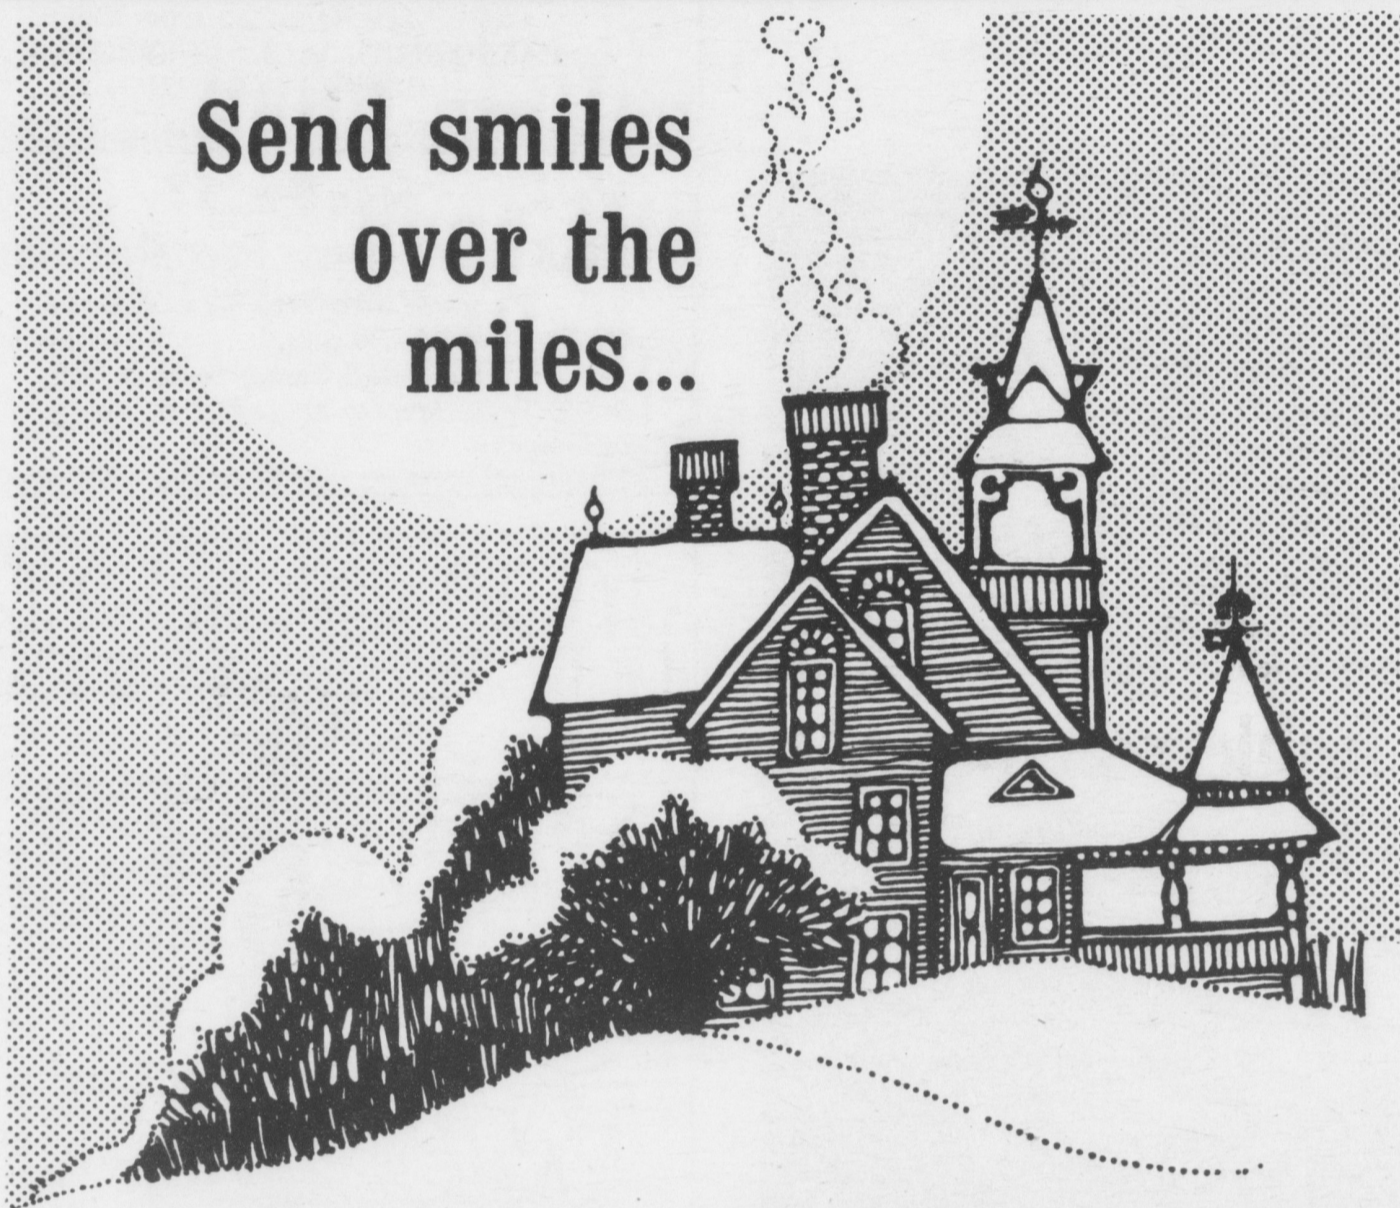

What they did was to ask customers what they wanted to see on their bills in the way of information, and designed the new bills accordingly. Complaints were also taken into account.

You only get one bill, but PP&L turns them out by the ton, so the effort they put into designing it is not surprising. The bill is also their main form of communication with the public.

The new bills are in two parts. One is returned with payment, the other goes into your records. Each bill will have explanations of the charges and information on obtaining free literature or advise by telephone.
