

Sidewalk Bazaar

A special sidewalk bazaar in the quadrant next to the Central Market in downtown Lancaster will be held on June 20 and 23, conducted by 16 health care facilities and involving more than 100 senior residents of nursing homes.

All the items on sale will be made by the residents.

Local participants are Bailey's Nursing and Convalescent Home, Elizabethtown, and Heatherbank in Columbia.

Mrs. Wanda Hermansade, activities director at Heatherbank, said, "A wide range of creative talents will be evident at the bazaar, and residents of participating facilities are already hard at work hand crafting the items that will make the June event a unique venture."

A scene from the circus

The Circus is coming!

The circus is coming! Step right up, ladies and gentlemen, for the arrival of the Great American Circus.

Sponsored by the Mount Joy Rotary Club, the circus will arrive in Mount Joy on Thursday, May 18th. The crew will unload between 7:00 and 8:00 AM at Lumber and David Streets, and the big top will be pulled into the air by elephants between 9:00 and 10:00!

Showtimes are 6:00 and 8:00 PM. For the convenience of the public, reduced price advanced sale tickets are on sale now from Rotary Club members.

The circus will also appear in Columbia on Wednesday, May 24th, along Rte. 462 at the Columbia Factory Outlet near Murphy's Minit Mart. This showing will be sponsored by the Columbia Sertoma Club, and tickets will be on sale at Murphy's Minit Market. Show times are the same.

Some of the attractions of the circus are: Myrtle, the largest performing elephant in the world—and one of the oldest, at 65 years. She weighs 10,000 lbs. Another elephant, Baby Betty, is small enough that the kids can play with her.

Today, elephants are found in their native habitat in only two sections of the world — in India and in Africa. Indian elephants are used for circus performances because they are much more intelligent than the African variety. All of the Great American elephants have been imported from Asia as baby elephants are very seldom born in captivity. Circus performing elephants are always females, although they are all referred to by their attendants as "bulls."

An elephant sleeps about four hours and then is ready for work the next twenty, and if you watch a huge elephant herd at night, you will find that they never all lay down to sleep at the same time, but always leave one of their number up and awake to stand guard on the herd.

The food for one elephant for one day consists of 200 pounds of hay, 50 to 100 gallons of water, bran, oats, twenty loaves of bread, and often fruit or a juicy watermelon for dessert.

The Great American Circus also has a department of utter nonsense, known to circus people as "Clown Alley." But it makes good sense to have a department of nonsense if you operate a circus, for 'buffoonery is the oldest form of entertainment on earth.

Rapt students of humor psychology, these present-day jesters carry on an ancient calling that dates back to the days of the court fools and the wandering minstrels of medieval times. Almost, universally, circus buffoons get their nickname — "joeys"—from Joseph Grimaldi, a renowned English clown about whom Charles Dickens and his father wrote a book that outsold the famous "Oliver Twist" in its initial printing.

There are nearly as many different kinds of make-up as there are clowns. Each one feels that he is ethically entitled to his own peculiar style. The job of the clown is just as serious to him, as is the work of the average man in his job, and many hours may go into the preparation for just one laugh.

Ernie Kline for Governor

"I know what must be done"

Ernie Kline was born in Allentown, Lehigh County, in 1929. While he was still a young boy, his parents, Allen Kline and the former Elna Natali, moved to Westmoreland County. There, Ernie Kline attended elementary school in Webster and graduated from Rostraver Township High School.

While working as a radio newscaster in Beaver Falls, Ernie Kline was elected to the City Council. There he learned how people expect Government to work for them. During the Lawrence Administration, he became a workmen's compensation referee where he dealt daily with the problems of working people.

He was elected to the State Senate in 1964. Less than three years later, his colleagues chose him Democratic Floor Leader.

Ernie Kline was elected Pennsylvania's 25th Lieutenant Governor in 1971. In 1974, he became the first man in the State's history to be elected to two consecutive terms as Lieutenant Governor.

Ernie Kline and his wife, the former Josephine Recupero, now live with their seven children at Indiantown Gap in Lebanon County. They worship at St. Paul the Apostle Catholic Church in nearby Annville.
