

Wizard strikes again

The answer to last week's Wizard of Donegal puzzle is:

"The squaw on the hippopotamus is equal to the sons of the squaws on the other two hides."

Here is another one: What familiar English word is invariably pronounced wrong by every professor at Harvard?

And another: rearrange the letters of NEW DOOR to make one word.

Carpet expert

Norris Allman, of 1 Donegal Place, Marietta, is shown above inspecting carpet at the Marietta Armstrong Carpet Plant. Norris has been looking for defects in all 900 types of Armstrong carpet for years; he told us that when he visits people, he can tell at a glance if their carpeting is made by Armstrong.

"I make sure that everything that goes through here is all right," he says of his job, which he has held almost since the plant opened ten years ago.

The carpet, on moving rubber tracks [visible at right], is moving away from the camera, and Norris is walking toward us, though not getting any closer. He carries tape and tags, and when he sees a defect, he marks it. A huge roll of carpet is behind the camera. At the end we see in the distance, a saw cuts the carpet to length.

Norris and his wife had a baby last week, by the way.

This first meeting will feature a talk by Dr. James Kipp of the Norlanco Family Health Center. He will show a film on jogging and answer any questions afterward.
