

Mr. Forrey, Maytown Elementary teacher, was flabbergasted when he walked into his room and found that his kids had a wedding party set up for him. He had settled for his new house a few hours before, which he and his fiancée, Susan Hallowell [pictured above], will live in after the ceremony.

The kids gave him the red oak tree in the photo to help him landscape his new home.

Class trip

In reading classes taught by Mrs. Elizabeth Smedley and Mrs. Carol Lambert at Riverview School, students are learning how reading can introduce them to new activities.

Some of the activities they read about can be followed during the students' summer vacations. They read about different crafts, games, nearby recreational facilities, new and unusual foods, vacations, fishing, camping, nature, and wrote letters to pen pals to whom they can write over the summer.

On a trip to Lancaster County Park on May 26 the students became more aware of sight, hearing, touch, smell, and taste as they went through the Garden of the Five Senses.

They had a lesson in cooperation by having to find their way out of a maze in blindfolded groups and carrying a bucket full of liquid "Explosive" (water) across a swamp without spilling any.

All the students completed the mile-long physical fitness trail.

By hiding animals they had made, the students learned about protective coloration.

Older students acted as Big Brothers and Big Sisters to younger students on the outing.

Some parents also assisted.

Mark Bushong promoted

Commonwealth National Agri-Loan Corp., a subsidiary of Commonwealth National Bank, announced the promotion of J. Mark

Bushong of Landisville to assistant secretary of the subsidiary. He joined the bank as an assistant manager of agriculture loans in 1977, after running a 130-acre dairy farm near his native Columbia for 30 years.

Bushong is past president of the Lancaster County Cooperative Agricultural Extension Service Board, a director of Lancaster County Council of Churches, Community Action Program, and a deacon of the Mountville Church of the Brethren. He and his wife Martha have five children.

H. Keller

Harold Keller recently graduated from a course in "The Art of Real Estate Counseling" in Bethesda, MD. This course stresses the needs of the client and how to find these out, rather than just selling.

Keller was an outstanding student," said instructor C. Charles Chatham.

Light bulbs

M.I.T. has developed a new kind of light bulb that uses 60% less electricity by coating the inside of the bulb with titanium fluoride!
