State praises PP&L for efforts to hire handicapped

The State Bureau of Vocational Rehabilitation today recognized Pennsylvania Power & Light Company Board Chairman, Jack K. Busby and Charles B. Sauder, PP&L Employment Supervisor, for their outstanding records in hiring the handicapped and providing for them in the workplace.

According to a PP&L spokesman, the company has employed 19 handicapped individuals since 1975, including persons who are deaf and speechless, partially-sighted, arthritic, diabetic, epileptic, have a heart condition or are polio victims.

PP&L began taking steps to facilitate employment of the handicapped in 1975 when it altered facilities to accommodate handicapped persons. This involved installing electrically operated doors in and out of the general office building in Allentown, changing some restrooms and lowering some water fountains. The company also made accommodations at its Lehigh Division Service Center at Route 309 and Tilghman Street to make the building completely accessible to the handicapped.

"PP&L has not only worked closely with the bureau on employment of the handicapped," Hagan points out, "but has also made the minor, but essential, adjustments within certain jobs to help the handicapped without changing employment standards."
