Goodwill Industries collecting large items

Goodwill Industries of Lancaster County requests that large items and trash not be dropped at collection box sites. Goodwill is concerned that collection boxes not impose an eyesore on the community. Goodwill Industries appreciates and depends on community support for contributions of materials of many kinds.

Donations help to provide vocational rehabilitation services to handicapped citizens. Collection boxes are for donations of clothing, shoes, housewares, sporting goods, toys, books, records, drapes, linens and other small reuseable goods. Truck pick-up of large articles can be arranged by calling 394-0647.

Energy Savers

Pour it in...staple it in...lay it in...or blow it in. No matter how you do it, adding insulation to your home is an investment in the future...one of the biggest bargains in America today.

Fact is, with heating costs on the rise, even homes considered well insulated just a few years ago, are under-insulated now.

Your attic is one of the easiest, most economical places to add insulation to an existing home. Bring it up to a value of R-30...that's 8 to 12 inches thick depending on the type of insulation.

You'll not only save on heating bills but you can save on air conditioning costs as well. Season after season. For the life of your home! No wonder people say..."Insulation is one home improvement that pays for itself."

So, join the energy savers. Get the facts from your insulation contractor or supplier soon!
