Rescue workers scale a sheer cliff in a quarry near Bainbridge to reach an injured "victim" of the mock plane crash.

The location, a quarry outside of Bainbridge, was relayed to the C.A.P. ground crew at E-town Airport. The Lancaster County Net was then notified of the aircraft mishap and an immediate alarm was sounded to the Bainbridge fire and ambulance crews.

and an Auxiliary of the United States Air Force. Its three basic functions are: Aerospace Education, Search and Rescue, and Emergency Services. Membership in C.A.P. is open to all boys and girls over the age of 14 for the Cadet Program, and men and women over the age of 18 for the Senior Program. On initial membership, each Cadet is given an orientation flight and briefing on flight procedures. Squadron 308 meets every Thursday at Elizabethtown—Marietta Airport at 7 p.m.

When the Bainbridge crews arrived at the scene, they discovered that injured passengers' were scattered through the woods, and several fires were blazing. They radioed for assistance. The following units responded quickly: Maytown fire and ambulance, Marietta fire and ambulance, Florin fire and rescue, the E-Town Forest Fire Crew, SERCOM, E-Town and West Donegal Civil Defense.

Conoy Township Chief of Police, Thomas Kesselring was coordinator for the Fire-Police crew. Trooper Fisher represented the State Police Fire Marshal's office.

"Victims" were Dave Lamb, Don Lamb, Doug Lamb, Tom Wohlfiel and Rick Downs. Fireman Marty Cusick played an injured fireman so convincingly that everyone thought a real emergency had occurred (see photos).

The Civil Air Patrol, which observed its 35th birthday on December 1st, is a non-profit organization
